Thompson considers move to impound state funds

by STEVE BROWN

Governor-elect James R. Thompson said Wednesday he is trying to determine whether he has the authority to impound state funds, a technique he may use to stave off a tax increase or to keep the state from bankruptcy.

Calling the impounding technique an "unpalatable" option, Thompson said he would not be party to a tax hike or willingly govern a bankrupt state. Impoundment could allow the governor to block expenditures authorized by the Illinois General Assembly or spending approved over the vetoes of Gov. Daniel Walker.

The Republican's predictions came after an apparently unsuccessful mission to Springfield to urge Illinois General Assembly leaders to resist pressure from lobbyists to override Walker's vetoes.

THE ILLINOIS HOUSE voted to restore about $17 million for higher education just after Thompson returned to Chicago. The legislature will consider restoring an additional $34 million in vetoed funds to the budget before adjourning Friday.

"The dike was already breeched to the tune of $12 million on Tuesday," Thompson said. He said if all the spending vetoes are overridden and the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid seeks a deficiency appropriation of $50 million, the state will be bankrupt.

While downplaying the possibility of impounding funds, a controversial process used by former President Richard M. Nixon in 1972, Thompson said his attorney is researching the question.

"If I have the legal authority and I consider it a wise policy move and I think it will make a difference, then I will lean that way," Thompson said.

HE SAID ALTHOUGH he received support from a number of Republican lawmakers, the Democratic leaders gave him no assurances they would vote to sustain Walker's vetoes. However, Thompson said he did not expect their support.

Thompson said the first suggestion to impound money came from a Republican legislator.

"I told him it would be irresponsible for a legislator to vote to spend money the state does not have and then expect the governor to bail them out," he said. Thompson said that impoundment probably would put him on a collision course with the legislature.

"I don't want to be a Republican Dan Walker," Thompson said, indicating he is hoping to avoid the political controversy that has existed for the past four years between Walker and lawmakers of both parties.

Thompson said he told lawmakers to resist pressure from constituents and special interest groups to vote for veto overrides.

He said if the legislature sustains the vetoes, he will review the spending requests after taking office next month.

Gollberg in race for trustee, asks district system

Arthur R. Gollberg announced Wednesday he will run for village trustee in April on a platform calling for Arlington Heights' at-large form of government to be changed to district representation.

Gollberg, 38, of 319 S. Yale Ave., is a former Arlington Heights Park commissioner. He is president of Arthur R. Gollberg and Associates, a communications research firm.

Gollberg is the fourth resident to announce plans to seek village trustee posts. Four will be elected in April.

Goldberg served on the park board for 6 months after being appointed in October 1974 to fill a vacancy, but then was defeated in April 1975 in his attempt to retain the position.

HE SAID WEDNESDAY he will run as an independent in the April 15 municipal election, adding that he will not go through the nominating process of the Arlington Heights Caucus.

Arthur Gollberg

"I think at this point it's evident that the system of nominating good people is over. The Caucus no longer is a politically effective organization," Gollberg said.

"There now is a political void in Arlington Heights and unless we go to geographical representation, we'll have some organization come in and fill that void," he said.

Geographical representation also would encourage more residents to seek office as independents, Gollberg said.

"AS AN INDEPENDENT, I feel I will be an underdog. It's almost impossible to campaign villagewide," he said.

Gollberg said the village's form of government should be decided through a referendum, as proposed last year by Village Pres. James T. Ryan and former Village Trustee Dwight Walton.

"We now rank as one of the largest cities in Illinois and lack small town channels of communication. If a citizen has a problem, who does that person go to? Who is held accountable for taxes or neglect of some basic service? A neighborhood system of government would correct this communication problem," Gollberg said.

Other announced candidates for positions on the village board are Victor Johnson, Martin Cawley and Alfred Barboro, an incumbent.

Oil reserve proposed by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hoping to blunt the threat of any new oil embargo, the Ford administration Wednesday proposed spending $8 billion to buy 500 million barrels of foreign oil by 1982 and pump it into underground salt caverns along the U.S. Gulf Coast.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said the storage plan would carry the nation halfway toward the goal of becoming "embargo proof" by 1985.

Zarb said the U.S. government would buy oil for the storage program from the lowest bidder and, in a major break with normal practice, purchase it directly from foreign governments rather than through oil companies.

The FEA's 400-page plan, created at the direction of Congress and subject to congressional approval, estimated the cost of designing, constructing, filling and maintaining the petroleum reserve through 1982 would be $7.5 to 8 billion, mostly for buying oil.

COST ESTIMATES were based on existing world oil prices, Zarb told a news conference.

Zarb said the government hopes to start pumping the oil into caverns in salt domes or abandoned salt mines by midsummer.

Eight possible storage sites were considered: Ironton mine, Ironton, Ohio; Central Rock mine, Lexington, Ky., Kleer mine, Grand Saline, Tex., Bryan Mound dome, Brazoria, Tex.;

Accord to buy C&NW service reached with RTA

The Chicago and North Western Ry. reportedly has reached a tentative agreement with the Regional Transportation Authority for purchase of the railroad's commuter service.

Sources close to the negotiations Wednesday said both sides are putting together the paperwork needed to complete the agreement. They said only disagreements on the language of the document remain to be resolved.

Officials at both the RTA and the railroad refused to discuss the negotiations except in general terms.

"I KNOW THAT there is a lot of paperwork being done," said railroad spokesman James Macdonald. "I don't know the numbers involved and I don't want to know. It is enormously complex."

MacDonald, however, said negotiations include purchase of the railroad's equipment. This purchase has been a point of controversy between RTA directors, with some strongly favoring the purchase and others opposing it.

Both sides reportedly have agreed on a $6.2 million subsidy for fiscal 1977, a $8.5 million subsidy for fiscal 1978 and a $10.3 million subsidy for fiscal 1979. No figures were released for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

RTA director Richard Newland of Waukegan said he expects the RTA board to meet on the matter by Dec. 23. He said any agreement will be announced at a joint press conference with the railroad.

An agreement with the North Western would bring RTA benefits to the Northwest suburbs, which rely heavily on rail service to the city.

Bruce isn't dead, his family says

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Some U.S. officials are eager to declare Navy Lt. Bruce Fryar "officially dead," but his family is not.

It has been seven years since the family first learned that Fryar's plane was shot down during a bombing mission over Laos.

The news came just after Christmas 1969, and the holidays have never been the same for the Fryar family, formerly of Rolling Meadows.

THE GOVERNMENT never clarified details of the incident, and it still is not known whether Fryar was killed or taken prisoner, whether he was tortured or lives within the confines of a Communist jail, hoping to return home.

The family was not surprised Wednesday when it heard that a Congressional committee is recommending that all American soldiers reported missing in action be declared dead.

"It upsets me because there are a lot of things the government could have done to find out what happened to these men and never did. It's been a very impersonal attitude toward men missing in action," said Dawn Slice, Fryar's sister, who lives in Hoffman Estates.

I'm not satisfied that they ever tried to find out what happened to my brother and the guys who went down over Laos. I hate to see them quit trying to find out what happened to them," she said.

FRYAR WAS ONLY 25 when his life became a question mark. He is considered to be among 1,300 Vietnam War veterans still unaccounted for.

"My folks have reluctantly accepted the idea that he is dead. But, there is still hope. There is no evidence to prove that he is dead and this committee recommendation would just be a declaration that would leave many questions unanswered," Mrs. Slice said.

It is more convenient if the government can classify these missing soldiers as dead, even if they are not, she said, "but, it's not fair to the families."

"They shouldn't feel they can

Fender-benders increase in area

Northwest suburban police departments reported an unusually large number of auto accidents Wednesday as high temperatures melted away snow and ice from area roadways. No statistics were available Wednesday night, but police said many accidents were occurring. Few mishaps, however, resulted in serious injuries. Twelve persons, including two families, were treated and released at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, Wednesday night following two separate car collisions in the Prospect Heights area. Injured in a 6:30 p.m. accident near the intersection of Ill. Rte. 83 and McHenry Road were Merl Boumstein and children Matthew, 6, Aron, 2, and Lisa, 11, all of 1324 Amy Ln., Wheeling. Traveling with the Boumstein family were 4-year-old Dawn Luebke and 2-year-old Brett Luebke, of 1325 Amy Ln., Wheeling, who were also treated and released. At 8 p.m. an accident took place on Willow Road west of Sanders Road. Five persons were treated and released from the hospital. They were Earl Roben, 165 Kincaid Ct., Des Plaines; Michael Wolfinsohn and Harvey Kaluzna both of 1550 Sandpebble Dr., Wheeling; Jim Leve, 1450 Sandpebble Dr., Wheeling; and David Grandt, 636 Piper Ln., Wheeling. All were in their early 20s. Details on the accidents were not available from police Wednesday night.

Man charged in hit-run death

Hoffman Estates police Wednesday afternoon arrested a 22-year-old Schaumburg man and charged him with the Friday hit-and-run death of a pedestrian on Higgins Road. Charged is Mark Griffeth, 1310 Cambia Dr. He was arrested after police saw his car, which matched the description of an auto being sought for the hit-and-run death of Raymond V. Doyle, 46, of 1507 Revere Circle, Schaumburg. Griffeth's car, a red 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo that allegedly sustained front-end paint and grill damage when it struck Doyle, was located in front of Griffeth's apartment shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday. At 5 p.m., Griffeth, confronted by Hoffman Estates police, agreed to accompany them to the station, where he reportedly admitted hitting Doyle. He was charged and released on $500 bond and ordered to appear Jan. 7 in the Hoffman Estates branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Mayoral work declarations urged

A proposal to allow Des Plaines voters to decide if they want a full-time or part-time mayor by requiring candidates to declare their positions on the issue before the April election has been proposed by Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th. Abrams said he wants the city council to require all candidates for the office to declare whether they will serve full-time or part-time in the post. Abrams said he made the proposal because he doesn't believe the city council will adopt the part-time, mayor-city manager form of government, and there is not enough time for a separate referendum on the issue before the election. Charles Bolek, a third ward alderman, is serving as interim mayor following the retirement of Mayor Herbert Behrel in August. The mayor's post is now full-time, although Bolek continues to hold a job as president of Jeco Industries, Des Plaines.

Data backs damage to ozone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The scientist who first reported fluorocarbon gases from aerosol sprays were eroding the Earth's ozone layer said Wednesday new information supports his theory and indicates the damage may be even worse than expected.

"The message is quite clear," Prof. F. Sherwood Rowland of the University of California at Irvine told a Senate hearing. "Continued release of chlorofluorocarbon gases will cause an unacceptably large change in the average stratospheric ozone concentration."

Rowland testified before a space sciences subcommittee examining what has happened in the two years since his theory first was publicized.

Representatives of three government agencies controlling consumer aerosol products containing the gases all testified they were moving to ban the propellant, with a target date of one year from now.

J. PETER JESSON, a researcher for the Du Pont Co., a major manufacturer of the gases, said the latest calculations indicate damage to the ozone layer will be less than originally thought.

But Rowland said new data have been gathered since the National Academy of Sciences issued its report last September saying fluorocarbons probably were at fault for harming the ozone layer which protects the Earth from the sun's harmful ultraviolet rays.

"Many of the remaining uncertainties mentioned in the NAS report have been substantially reduced, and the current estimate of long-term ozone loss in steady state at current rates is somewhat higher, about 10 per cent, instead of 7 per cent," he said.

"The numerical change is not major, and is obviously within the uncertainties" expressed by the NAS report, he said.

THE ESTIMATES are based on continued releases of fluorocarbons into the atmosphere at the same levels which existed in 1973. That amount increased by 10 per cent in 1974 but dropped back in 1975.

Chairman Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said he was disturbed that federal funding has been withheld for upper atmosphere research because the NAS report recommended a two-year delay in regulatory action.

He also said he was "appalled" that Congress earlier this year had refused to write into law a phase-out of consumer fluorocarbon aerosols which several agencies are doing.

"It's a little like the man who tells a cemetery lot salesman, 'I don't need one, I ain't even dead yet,' " he said.

No statistics were available Wednesday night, but police said many accidents were occurring. Few mishaps, however, resulted in serious injuries. Twelve persons, including two families, were treated and released at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, Wednesday night following two separate car collisions in the Prospect Heights area. Injured in a 6:30 p.m. accident near the intersection of Ill. Rte. 83 and McHenry Road were Merl Boumstein and children Matthew, 6, Aron, 2, and Lisa, 11, all of 1324 Amy Ln., Wheeling. Traveling with the Boumstein family were 4-year-old Dawn Luebke and 2-year-old Brett Luebke, of 1325 Amy Ln., Wheeling, who were also treated and released. At 8 p.m. an accident took place on Willow Road west of Sanders Road. Five persons were treated and released from the hospital. They were Earl Roben, 165 Kincaid Ct., Des Plaines; Michael Wolfinsohn and Harvey Kaluzna both of 1550 Sandpebble Dr., Wheeling; Jim Leve, 1450 Sandpebble Dr., Wheeling; and David Grandt, 636 Piper Ln., Wheeling. All were in their early 20s. Details on the accidents were not available from police Wednesday night.

Man charged in hit-run death

Hoffman Estates police Wednesday afternoon arrested a 22-year-old Schaumburg man and charged him with the Friday hit-and-run death of a pedestrian on Higgins Road. Charged is Mark Griffeth, 1310 Cambia Dr. He was arrested after police saw his car, which matched the description of an auto being sought for the hit-and-run death of Raymond V. Doyle, 46, of 1507 Revere Circle, Schaumburg. Griffeth's car, a red 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo that allegedly sustained front-end paint and grill damage when it struck Doyle, was located in front of Griffeth's apartment shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday. At 5 p.m., Griffeth, confronted by Hoffman Estates police, agreed to accompany them to the station, where he reportedly admitted hitting Doyle. He was charged and released on $500 bond and ordered to appear Jan. 7 in the Hoffman Estates branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Mayoral work declarations urged

A proposal to allow Des Plaines voters to decide if they want a full-time or part-time mayor by requiring candidates to declare their positions on the issue before the April election has been proposed by Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th. Abrams said he wants the city council to require all candidates for the office to declare whether they will serve full-time or part-time in the post. Abrams said he made the proposal because he doesn't believe the city council will adopt the part-time, mayor-city manager form of government, and there is not enough time for a separate referendum on the issue before the election. Charles Bolek, a third ward alderman, is serving as interim mayor following the retirement of Mayor Herbert Behrel in August. The mayor's post is now full-time, although Bolek continues to hold a job as president of Jeco Industries, Des Plaines.

Data backs damage to ozone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The scientist who first reported fluorocarbon gases from aerosol sprays were eroding the Earth's ozone layer said Wednesday new information supports his theory and indicates the damage may be even worse than expected.

"The message is quite clear," Prof. F. Sherwood Rowland of the University of California at Irvine told a Senate hearing. "Continued release of chlorofluorocarbon gases will cause an unacceptably large change in the average stratospheric ozone concentration."

Rowland testified before a space sciences subcommittee examining what has happened in the two years since his theory first was publicized.

Representatives of three government agencies controlling consumer aerosol products containing the gases all testified they were moving to ban the propellant, with a target date of one year from now.

J. PETER JESSON, a researcher for the Du Pont Co., a major manufacturer of the gases, said the latest calculations indicate damage to the ozone layer will be less than originally thought.

But Rowland said new data have been gathered since the National Academy of Sciences issued its report last September saying fluorocarbons probably were at fault for harming the ozone layer which protects the Earth from the sun's harmful ultraviolet rays.

"Many of the remaining uncertainties mentioned in the NAS report have been substantially reduced, and the current estimate of long-term ozone loss in steady state at current rates is somewhat higher, about 10 per cent, instead of 7 per cent," he said.

"The numerical change is not major, and is obviously within the uncertainties" expressed by the NAS report, he said.

THE ESTIMATES are based on continued releases of fluorocarbons into the atmosphere at the same levels which existed in 1973. That amount increased by 10 per cent in 1974 but dropped back in 1975.

Chairman Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said he was disturbed that federal funding has been withheld for upper atmosphere research because the NAS report recommended a two-year delay in regulatory action.

He also said he was "appalled" that Congress earlier this year had refused to write into law a phase-out of consumer fluorocarbon aerosols which several agencies are doing.

"It's a little like the man who tells a cemetery lot salesman, 'I don't need one, I ain't even dead yet,' " he said.

Argentina bomb kills 15; threats here

From Herald news services

A powerful bomb exploded Wednesday among a crowd of military officers and civilians in a Ministry of Defense office building in Buenos Aires, Argentina killing at least 15 persons and wounding 30 others. Bomb attacks in the United States also were threatened.

The bomb in Argentina, apparently made of dynamite and blasting caps, went off in a small auditorium of the third floor of the seven-story glass and concrete building as a group of high defense ministry officials were listening to a lecture by an army lieutenant colonel.

Police said the victims, tossed high in the air by the force of the blast, included at least 15 dead and 30 wounded. Authorities put all hospitals in the city in a state of emergency to handle the wounded, most of whom were taken to the police hospital of Bartolome Churruca.

The leftist Montoneros guerrillas took responsibility for the blast in a telephone call to United Press International, saying the explosives were planted by the group's "Ester Norma Arrostito commandos."

IN OKLAHOMA CITY, meanwhile, a letter to the mayor and city manager Wednesday threatened bombing of 50 buildings unless the city paid $1 million to terrorists seeking "to destroy capitalism."

Authorities would not speculate about the seriousness of the threat. "We are not treating it like a hoax," said Oklahoma City Police Chief I. G. Purser. "If it is a hoax, it is a cruel hoax. To hold a gun at a city's head is the method this person used."

Kenneth Whittaker, special FBI agent in charge, said the letter was left at the door of city hall and warned that the bombs had been activated and would explode during a 26-hour period, ending at 10 a.m. today.

The letter, which Whittaker described as "very articulate," said further instructions would be given in a 1 p.m. telephone call to city hall. Five times the phone rang and the caller hung up immediately, but there were no further instructions.

BOB MILLER, head of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms unit, said a diagram with the letter showed an "extremely dangerous" device. He said it also might be highly volatile.

Purser said schools, hospitals, business offices and "every key building in Oklahoma City" were being searched, but no explosives were found. There were several false alarms and one high school was evacuated. Two police teams used dogs trained to sniff explosives.

In other bomb developments:

• San Francisco police were guarding the homes of members of San Francisco's top governing body to protect against threatened new bomb attacks by a terrorist group. A powerful bomb misfired Tuesday at the home of Dianne Feinstein, a member of the city's board of supervisors.

• A telephoned bomb threat forced the jet carrying Portuguese Prime Minister Mario Soares to Brazil to make an emergency landing in the Canary Islands. No bomb was found.

• The bomb that exploded at Baghdad airport Tuesday night killed between 3 and 14 persons, Iraqi officials Wednesday said.

THE REV. PAUL Lindstrom of Prospect Heights said Wednesday a Congressional report recommending American servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia be declared dead "is a lie and a cover-up that ought to disgust every American."

Report 'a lie and cover-up'

Lindstrom fights Congress on MIAs

by DIANE MERMIGAS

A Congressional report recommending that American servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia be declared dead "is a lie and a cover-up that ought to disgust every American," Rev. Paul Lindstrom Wednesday said.

Lindstrom, a Prospect Heights minister and chairman of the Christian Defense League, has sought the release of prisoners of war and others held by Communist governments since 1968. Lindstrom Wednesday said he will urge President Ford to continue a moratorium on reclassifying missing American soldiers as dead until each man is accounted for.

Lindstrom responded to a report released Wednesday by the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia which recommends that the United States government declare Americans who did not return from the Vietnam War as "officially dead" instead of "missing."

THE REPORT SAYS no American prisoners of war are being held alive in Indochina and only a partial accounting of the 2,546 Americans missing in action will be completed.

The committee says there is evidence that the missing soldiers are dead, that Americans missing in action from previous wars never have returned alive, and that communist officials repeatedly say no American prisoners of war are in their countries.

"This report is a Ford-Kissinger whitewash of a very embarrassing issue that they want to sweep under the rug before they leave office," said Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty and Academy, 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights.

Lindstrom, who also is national chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee, said he met for more than nine hours with the select House committee several months ago in preparation for the report released Wednesday.

LINDSTROM AND HIS organizations have been working toward the safe return of missing Americans and prisoners of war since gaining the release of crewmen of the USS Pueblo when it was captured by North Koreans in 1968.

"United States government files can document the fact that some of these 1,300 or so Americans missing in Southeast Asia were known to be alive as recently as eight months ago," he said.

"The family and friends of these men are not so naive as to believe that their loved ones are dead. We will not concede that all of the prisoners and missing men have succumbed," Lindstrom said.

Lindstrom says the North Vietnamese are holding Americans to extort political concessions from the United States.

THE REMEMBER THE Pueblo Committee and the Christian Defense League have been communicating for five years with two Chinese citizens who are seeking political asylum in the United States and who have information on prisoners of war in Asia, Lindstrom said.

"We're hoping we get that information from them as soon as possible so that we can begin to account for those missing Americans," Lindstrom said.

"Until then, I don't see how the American people can rest this Christmas season knowing that more than 1,300 fellow Americans in Southeast Asia cannot be accounted for and are being passed off for dead," he said.

Lindstrom recently helped to secure homes for about 200 Vietnamese orphans who were being held by the Danish government and in the past has charged that U. S. servicemen are being held against their will in Soviet slave labor camps.

Vietnam MIAs are dead, U.S. House panel reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans missing in action from the Vietnam War are dead and their families should expect only a limited account of their fates, a special House committee said in its final report Wednesday.

The House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia said 751 American servicemen remain listed as prisoners of war or missing in action.

"The sad conclusion is that there is no evidence to indicate that any of these missing Americans are still alive," said the report presented by Chairman Rep. G. V. Montgomery, D-Miss.

CAROL BATES, OF the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, promptly called the committee's staff "inept" and "incompetent" and said it had depended on incomplete information from federal intelligence agencies and the departments of State and Defense.

"Sitting in his office in Washington, or playing golf in Meridian, Miss., Sonny Montgomery does not know these servicemen are dead or alive," she said.

She called it "insensitive" to release the report just before Christmas.

The report summarized: "More than 2,500 Americans were not fully accounted for . . . At the end of direct American involvement, 1,100 of these were listed as killed in action, body not recovered, and 1,400 were listed as missing in action. Today, more than 750 men are still listed as MIA or POW" — 728 as missing and 33 as prisoners.

But nothing has emerged to show other than they are dead, the committee concluded.

REPS. BENJAMIN A. Gilman, R-N.Y., and Tennyson Guyer, R-Ohio, dissented from the committee report saying it was premature and prejudiced "the possibility of obtaining an accounting for our missing men."

The report said "a total accounting by the Indochinese governments is not possible and should not be expected." Many of the missing were lost over sea or shot down in jungles, and others were "blown to bits."

The committee recommended American military forces create special raiding units, such as the one that assaulted a prison compound at Son Tay, for quick POW rescue raids in future wars.

And the Defense Dept. should be more realistic: "If the probability of survival is slight, this fact should be made clear (and) service communications should not encourage the belief that the missing man is alive without a reasonable basis for such a belief."

sweep this all under the rug. These are people who were serving their country when they disappeared. The families deserve to know what happened to them," Mrs. Slice said.

While Fryar's parents, who now live in Arkansas, still pray that someday their son will return home, others have accepted his death.

FRYAR'S WIFE HAD the soldier's status changed to "presumably dead" more than a year ago so that she could remarry, Mrs. Slice said.

"Life has to go on, but the memories stay with you. You remember getting the news, you remember the pain of wondering and you remember what times were like when he was home," she said.

Spain approves change to Western parliament

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spaniards Wednesday approved changes in the constitution that will establish a Western-style parliamentary system and scrap the key institutions of the Franco regime.

With more than a third of the ballots counted the "Yes" votes were running at 94.8 per cent. "No" votes counted for 2.3 per cent of the ballots and the remainder were blank.

Despite a campaign by left-wing parties urging voters to abstain, the turnout was better than 75 per cent, the government said.

THE RESULT was a victory for reform-minded King Juan Carlos who succeeded Generalisimo Francisco Franco a year ago. It was also a victory for Premier Adolfo Suarez, the architect of the reform program for step-by-step democracy.

Die-hard supporters of Franco, the only political group that had advocated a "No" vote, apparently suffered a crushing defeat.

Approval of the "Law for political reform" meant that Spain's first free elections for governmental office in 41 years will be held within six months. The government has said approval of the referendum means Spain will go all the way to full democracy.

THE VOTING was marred in the Basque region by street clashes between left-wing separatist demonstrators and police who used clubs, smoke flares and tear gas to break up the demonstrations.

More than 20 persons were arrested and an unknown number were injured, among them four policemen.

In downtown Madrid, scattered clashes erupted between police and several hundred Maoist protesters.

A more serious threat of violence came from a group of left-wing urban guerrillas who last Saturday kidnaped Antonio Maria de Oriol y Urquijo, the president of the Council of State, in a protest against what they called the "phony fascist referendum."

JUDY CARTER, daughter-in-law of President-elect Jimmy Carter stresses the importance of passing the Equal Rights Amendment as she met with Democratic Senate President Cecil Partee Wednesday. Judy said she was representing the Carter family as she lobbied for passage during the current veto session of the Illinois General Assembly. Partee said he would decide by today whether to call the proposal.

State restores funds for special education

by DIANE GRANAT

The Illinois General Assembly has restored $11.8 million cut from this year's special education budget, a move which local educators say will help area private schools for the handicapped.

The Illinois House Tuesday overrode Gov. Daniel Walker's special education fund cuts. The bill, which was approved several weeks ago by the Senate, will provide $3.4 million for adult education for welfare recipients, $6 million for state tuition payments to private schools for handicapped children and $2.4 million for special education transportation.

The funds were restored despite repeated requests by lame-duck Walker and his successor, James Thompson, that the legislature show fiscal restraint and go along with the reductions.

The tuition payments for private schools will help Clearbrook Center for the multiply handicapped, Rolling Meadows, said Marc Savard, executive director. The funds will apply to 44 day school students and 20 sheltered workshop clients who are referred to Clearbrook from public schools, Savard said.

The money will reimburse local public schools for their payments to Clearbrook in 1975-76, Savard said.

Savard said tuition payments from public schools for Clearbrook students last year amounted to $163,000. This year's tuition payments are projected at $181,000, he said. Clearbrook also receives payment for transportation, which is reimbursed through these funds.

Senate stalls death penalty bill

The Illinois Senate, heeding calls from some of its members for a more detailed study of the measure, Wednesday voted to leave a bill to restore the death penalty in committee, apparently dashing hopes for passage of the legislation this session. Sen. Robert Egan, D-Chicago, the Senate sponsor, said earlier in the day he did not think the measure could be extracted from the Senate Rules Committee this session, but said he would make the effort anyway.

The motion to discharge the bill from committee fell 11 votes short of the 30 necessary to put it before the full Senate. The measure failed 26-19 with seven voting present. Members of the committee voted to hold onto the bill Dec. 2, the day the measure came to the Senate following an overwhelmingly favorable vote in the House. The Senate committee, composed of leaders from both parties who decide what legislation will go to the floor, said the bill was not an appropriation or emergency measure.

U of I tuition hike delayed

University of Illinois trustees Wednesday deferred action on a proposed tuition increase, and approved an increase in their budget request to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, pending the outcome of legislative action. At the meeting on the U of I Medical Center campus, university Pres. John E. Corbally asked the board what it thought of a tuition increase of $90 for a full academic year which would have taken effect in January 1977. Board members said they favored an increase, but preferred to wait until more information was available at the January or February meetings.

Murder suspect rational: medics

Three psychiatrists testified Wednesday that Michael Drabing suffered from a personality disorder and antisocial behavior but was completely rational when he killed three members of the Lloyd Schneider family. "Michael Drabing's acts were antisocial and terrifying, and that's exactly what he intended to be," Dr. C. Robert Cloninger, St. Louis, said while testifying for the prosecution. Drabing, 21, Lincln, who has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, is charged with murder in the stabbing and slashing deaths of Schneider, 44, his wife, Phyllis, 45, and their daughter, Terri, 17, in their Lincoln farm home last Aug. 19.

Walker veto of fair bill stands

The Illinois Senate Wednesday fell two votes short of overriding Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of a bill that would have taken control of the Illinois State Fair away from the governor. The measure, introduced by Rep. J. David Jones, R-Springfield, and sponsored in the Senate by Sen. John Knuppel, D-Virginia, got only 34 of the 36 votes needed for an override. The House overrode Walker's veto earlier this month.

Metropolitan briefs

Chicago schools OK hiring freeze

The Chicago Board of Education Wednesday approved a motion freezing all but emergency hiring in an effort to save $32.8 million and avert closing schools early next spring. Board members unanimously approved a motion by board member Herbert E. Johnson calling for the job freeze until Schools Supt. Joseph P. Hannon offers a specific plan to deal with the unfilled positions.

The board authorized Hannon to fill vacancies only if "a condition of emergency" can be demonstrated. City public schools were closed 16 days early last June because of a fiscal crisis. Hannon is projecting a $115.3 million deficit for the current school year.

Man hospitalized from toxic gas

One person was overcome by a toxic chemical gas leaking from a truck Wednesday in an industrial area on Chicago's South Side. Marvin Pickle, 32, Oak Forest, suffering from nausea, dizziness and drowsiness, was admitted to St. Anthony Hospital in fair condition, a hospital spokesman said. The truck, containing 72 drums of an insecticide called phorate, leaked the gas in the yards of the Navajo Freight Lines Inc. Workers near the yards were evacuated for a couple of hours until a cloud formed by the gas dissipated.

Woman sentenced in murder plot

Kathleen Thompson, 26, of Sauk Village, was sentenced in Cook County Circuit Court to 1 to 10 years in prison Wednesday after she pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to murder her husband. Mrs. Thompson originally was charged with murder but the charge was reduced to conspiracy to murder after she testified against her former boyfriend, Robert Gorham, 25, who also was charged with murder.

Gorham was convicted on Nov. 19 of fatally shooting Kenneth Thompson, 29, after he allegedly planned with Mrs. Thompson to split her husband's double indemnity insurance money. Testimony disclosed Mrs. Thompson and Gorham lived together in Sauk Village and spent the $66,000 life insurance payment on drugs, a sports car, a boat and a motorcycle.

Signs appear when train goes by

THE "PEEK-A-BOO" no-turn signs at Walnut Avenue and Northwest Highway have caused a lot of double-takes among motorists who notice them for the first time. The signs are obscured until a train approaches and signals the metal shutters to open.

Now you see it, now you don't.

That's the way the electronic no-right-turn and no-left-turn signs at Walnut Avenue and Northwest Highway work, but officials say they confuse some motorists and aren't noticed by others.

The signs remain hidden until a train approaches the intersection, then their metal covers automatically roll back to reveal the no-turn warning.

The four signs, two each on the east and westbound lanes of Northwest Highway, were installed three months ago, said Bill Bachem of the Arlington Heights Public Works Engineering Dept.

They were required by the Illinois Commerce Commission because there is little "storage" room for cars turning onto Walnut Avenue when the crossing gates are down,he said.

"A person who drives by there at the same time every day on his way to work probably doesn't realize the signs are there," Bachem said. "So if he comes a few minutes late one day and the signs are open he probably won't even notice them."

Public Works Supt. Donald Renner said he would like similar signs installed at other intersections that parallel the railroad tracks. But because the devices cost $400 each, he said Walnut Avenue and Northwest Highway probably will remain the only village intersection equipped with the electronic no-turn signs.

Insufficient evidence against McKlutz: Ryan

No action will be taken against A.K. McKlutz's 150 E. Rand Rd., for allegedly serving drinks after closing time Nov. 5.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan, serving as liquor commissioner, ruled this week that there was insufficient evidence presented against the restaurant, which faced possible suspension of its liquor license for the incident.

Arlington Heights police had charged the restaurant with serving drinks after 1 a.m. Nov. 5 in violation of its liquor license, which requires that all drinks must be off the bar within 10 minutes after it is closed.

Three police officers testified Monday that they saw drinks in front of customers at the bar at 1:50 a.m., but witnesses for Leslie Goldsmith, owner of the restaurant, said all glasses had been removed from the bar and set on the bar rail.

Ryan, however, ordered Arlington Heights police to continue making checks of A.K. McKlutz's because of the discrepancy in testimony.

Goldsmith also will face the liquor commission in January for a similar incident reported by police Dec. 8.

RICK MANZIE, 36, husband of entertainer Barbara McNair, was found shot to death Wednesday in the couple's 20-room home in Las Vegas. Police said the death apparently was a homicide. Miss McNair cancelled an engagement in Chicago to return home. The body was discovered by the singer's brother, Horace McNair. The couple are shown in 1972 photo following their wedding.

Dead man had 2, possibly 4 wives

A man killed last Friday when his private plane crashed in Indiana had at least two wives and families and may have had as many as four, Franklin County, Ohio, Prosecutor George Smith said Wednesday. Smith said Joseph Gordon Sharp, Gahanna, Ohio, has a family in Gahanna and one in Grosse Point Park, Mich. A woman from Montreal, Canada, has also notified officials that she is married to Sharp and a fourth woman from Chicago may also be involved with the dead man, Smith said.

"Wt have confirmed at least two families and we are investigating the reports of two more," said Smith.

Smith said Sharp was married to Helen Sharp of Gahanna in 1967 and has two children, Michael 8, and Christina 4. He was also married, Smith said, to Mary Louise Sharp of Grosse Point, Mich. in 1960 and has two children by that marriage, Cindy, 12 and Joseph, 10. The Michigan woman told authorities she never divorced Sharp.

A Montreal woman who identified herself as Wendy Sharp notified Sharp's employer, Docutel Crop., Toledo, Ohio, Tuesday and claimed to be Sharp's wife and a woman who said she was from Chicago also called Docutel to inquire about Sharp, company officials said.

A passenger train with more than 100 persons aboard plowed into an oil transport truck at a foggy rural crossing Wednesday, killing the truck driver and two crewmen on the train. The truck and front of the train burst into flames, igniting parched pasture land near the north-central Oklahoma community of Marland. Three fire trucks and a foam truck were sent from Ponca City, 10 miles away.

Tom Seal of Arkansas City, Kan., a passenger on the Amtrak's southbound Lone Star run between Chicago and Houston, said he pulled one crewman from the flames but could not reach the other. Authorities said the truck exploded on impact and the train sread the burning oil nearly a mile before stopping, starting a large grass fire.

Carter appointments today

Jimmy Carter met for four hours Wednesday with one-time presidential rival Henry Jackson, prior to announcing more appointments Thursday. One of the new appointments was expected to be Rep. Andrew Young, a long-time black supporter. Press secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday's meeting was only about energy issues and the Washington senator denied reports he is opposing former Air Force Secretary Harold Brown's possible nomination as defense secretary. Powell said Carter would hold a news conference at 1:30 p.m. EST Thursday.

Young, D-Ga., who backed Carter strongly and early in his presidential campaign, was expected to be named ambassador to the United Nations. Powell also said Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., black and a member of the House Judiciary Committee during the Nixon impeachment inquiry, remained under consideration for attorney general.

GOP saved $1.1 billion

Republican administrations since 1973 have saved taxpayers $1.1 billion and removed 490,000 ineligible persons from relief rolls through efforts to eliminate error, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported Wednesday. Robert Fulton, HEW's chief welfare administrator, said he will recommend a continuation of the error-cutting campaign to the Carter administration "as a way of establishing public confidence" in welfare.

Despite improvements so far, one in four welfare families is either ineligible or paid improperly, HEW said in a report. This represents a reduction from a 41.1 per cent national error rate when the so-called "quality control" effort began Jan. 1, 1974.

Helmut Schmidt wins reelection

Helmut Schmidt Wednesday survived a rebellion within his Social Democratic ranks to win reelection as Chancellor of West Germany by a one vote margin. The Bundestag tally gave Schmidt 250 votes—one more than needed for election on the first ballot—with 243 against, one abstention and one invalid vote. One Social Democrat was unable to attend.

3 die in Italy shootout

A young guerrilla and two policemen died Wednesday in Italy's second shootout in two days between left-wing gunmen and police. Officers said Walter Alasia, 22, emerged with his gun blazing from a bedroom plastered with portraits of Joseph Stalin, Ho Chi-minh and Ernesto "Che" Guevara when police called before dawn to search his home in a province-wide crackdown on left-wing extremists. Deputy police chief Vittorio Padovani and policeman Sergio Bazzeca were fatally wounded. Alasia, a reputed member of the "Red Brigades," was killed by submachine gun bursts from police.

Gilmore to die at dawn Jan. 17; release denied

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Gary Gilmore was ordered shot at sunrise Jan. 17 by a judge who rejected the condemned killer's demands Wednesday for either quick execution or release from his death penalty.

An angry Gilmore, pale and thin after a 25-day hunger strike, called Utah 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock "a moral coward" for rejecting his request to die at dawn next Monday.

"You don't have the guts to carry out the law," Gilmore fumed. "You are a moral coward. I'm going to seek my immediate release."

The 36-year-old admitted killer instructed his lawyers to pursue a petition for a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the death sentence on grounds it wasn't carried out within 60 days of sentencing as required by state law.

Bullock tossed out the writ an hour later, saying a U.S. Supreme Court stay prevented Gilmore's execution on Dec. 6 and therefore it was "legally impossible" for the prison warden to carry out the death sentence within the time limit.

"As the law does not require an impossible or an illegal act, the complaint is dismissed upon its merits," the judge said.

Bullock's decision on the execution gave death penalty opponents more time to erect legal barriers.

OPEC meeting opens in debate on oil price hike

DOHA, Qatar (UPI) — OPEC oil ministers, sharply divided about raising the price of oil or freezing it for six months, Wednesday met behind steel shutters and guarded by Qatar's entire army to decide if they will tack on $12 billion to the world's fuel bill.

The ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met at the Gulf Hotel in a sumptuous but bunkerlike room, sealed off by steel shutters and heavily guarded by helmeted troopers toting automatic rifles.

On the table before them, the oil ministers had a range of suggestions from Saudi Arabia's call for a six-month price freeze to Iraq's demand for a 25 per cent increase in oil.

THE CONFERENCE was scheduled to last three days.

Expert betting was that the final figure would be somewhere in the middle of that range — about 10 per cent. An increase of 10 per cent would add $12 billion to the world's oil bill.

Qatar mustered the nation's entire 3,500-man army to guard the ministers. Jet fighters flew low along the deserted beaches, from where attackers might come, and a gunboat stood anchored offshore.

The intense security was aimed at preventing a repetition of the attack on an OPEC meeting in Vienna a year ago at which the ministers were kidnaped.

POLICE STATIONS posted mugshots of Illych Ramirez Sanchez, the Venezuelan terrorist known as "Carlos," or "The Jackal," who masterminded the Vienna raid.

OPEC President Mohammed Sadli of Indonesia said as the conference opened the ministers bear "a heavy burden of global responsibility" because their decision "will affect the state of health of the world not only now but for some time to come."

President-elect Jimmy Carter Tuesday said he felt "very good" about the attitude of certain OPEC countries which have been in contact with Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger and with Cyrus Vance, the secretary of state-designate.

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, called for a continued price freeze because world economic recovery had not been as strong as hoped. Iranian minister Jamshid Amucegar said he would seek an increase between the extremes. The Shah of Iran has been calling for a 15 per cent hike.

THE SAUDIS and Iranians, OPEC's biggest oil producers, both heavily dependent on the United States, hold the key to the price increase.

Despite their far apart public positions, Yamani and Amucegar appeared to be on good terms — strolling arm in arm along the onyx-floored lobby of the Gulf Hotel.

Yamani has called for a price freeze in advance of previos OPEC meetings, then gone along with an increase. But he was largely instrumental in maintaining the current price of $11.51 a barrel at a meeting in Bali, Indonesia, last May.

The current price of a barrel of light Arabian crude oil has been in effect since October, 1975.

Ford urges oil reserve to thwart any embargo

The Ohio and Kentucky sites have been virtually ruled out, Zarb said, since the storage sites should be on the Gulf Coast, close to the refineries and pipelines that now handle half of all U.S. imports.

FINAL SITE selection will be announced early next year.

FEA experts believe a 500 million barrel reserve would enable the United States to ride out an oil embargo lasting six months, assuming such an embargo would block only half the flow of foreign oil.

President Ford proposed last year creating a billion-barrel reserve by 1985. Zarb said a decision to go ahead with the second half of that program may be made in 1978.

"We've always calculated that we need one year's protection of half the amount of oil that is imported," Zarb said. "That would, generally speaking, make the nation embargo-proof, because no embargo is likely to be maintained for more than a year."

Hanukkah focuses on tradition

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Tradition has characterized Judaism from the start of its ancient heritage.

And at sunset today, about 15,000 Northwest suburban Jews again will usher in the beginning of the traditional eight-day Hanukkah celebration.

The sweet smell of latkes (potato pancakes) simmering in the oven, children singing folk songs and playing the dreidl (spinning top) game anxiously waiting to exchange gifts and candles reverently placed in the Menorah (Hanukkah lamp) ready to be kindled, all are customs observed during the Festival of Lights.

THE FIRST HANUKKAH was celebrated 2,141 years ago when East European Jews triumphed over Syrian forces to regain their religious and cultural freedoms.

Hanukkah historically is observed on the 25th day of the Jewish month of Kislev. Some Jewish historians say the celebration of Christmas Dec. 25 is merely coincidence. Some say it is not. But regardless of apparent similarities between the two religious holidays, it is a misconception to call Hanukkah a "Jewish Christmas."

Rabbi Floyd Herman of Temple Chai in Buffalo Grove said there is no relation between Hanukkah and Christmas "theologically or any other way. Haukkah predates Christmas by at least 200 years."

Christmas, Rabbi Herman said, commemorates the birth of a savior. Hanukkah symbolizes the victory of a people fighting to maintain cultural identity.

THE STORY OF Hanukkah, which literally translated means "dedication," cannot be found in the Bible. The celebration represents an historical event — the victory of a group called the Maccabees in the Judean-Syrian War of 165 B.C.

The battle was fierce as the Syrian King, Antiochus IV, sent forces into Palestine attempting to coerce the Jews into worshiping what they believed were false gods. Syrian tyrants all but destroyed the Jewish temple. However, the Maccabees, whose forces were greatly outnumbered, managed to retaliate victoriously.

While rebuilding and rededicating their sanctuary, legtnd says, the Maccabees found a tiny flask of oil — enough, they feared, to keep their Eternal Light burning only one day. But the oil lasted eight days. The Maccabees cried out in Hebrew: "N'es Gadol Ha-yah Sha'am," A Great Miracle Happened There. Today, Jews light one candle each night for eight nights in homage to the historical miracle.

RABBI HERMAN said history may, in fact, repeat itself, citing the current unrest between Israel and its Arab enemies in the Middle East.

"You can try to draw parallels between any two points in history," he said. "But the Maccabees fought for cultural and religious survival. The Israelis are fighting for physical survival. The danger then is one of physical not cultural annihilation."

Rabbi Hillel Gamoran of the Beth Tikvah Congregation in Hoffman Estates admitted Hanukkah, like Christmas, has become commercialized. He said, however, he cannot overlook the Middle East situation today while celebrating events of the past.

"When we celebrate Hanukkah at times such as these, we can't help but think of Israel with her three million people, surrounded by Arab states with more land, population and natural resources," Rabbi Gamoran said. "Unfortunately there is hostility and strife between Israel and its neighbors today."

OH HANUKKAH, OH HANUKKAH, come light the menorah. That is how the traditional folk song goes and that is what Karen Kushner and Barbara Kutik are doing as they prepare today to begin another Hanukkah celebration. The Jewish holiday is observed for eight days.

Plus state and local taxes

Every four years I feel silly clinging to this.

The way we see it

Electoral College absurd

Another episode in this democracy's most absurd voting procedure, the Electoral College, was played out this week in America's state capitals.

The folly in Illinois, where 26 state electors journeyed to Springfield to vote for the loser, Gerald R. Ford, illustrates the need to abolish this absurd tradition.

They traveled at state expense, but that is only a minor consideration. They served no purpose except to affirm what the voters did on Nov. 2 and the state board of elections did on Nov. 22.

The electors, all active in the Illinois Republican Party, cast their ballots for the president, who lost the election more than a month ago.

The electors did not seem to mind the situation nor the limited attention they received from the news media. Some complained there could have been a little more excitement. One woman, who had made this trek since the Roaring '20, suggested the electoral college system might be unneeded.

The Founding Fathers created the electoral college in the belief that the common rabble could not be trusted to elect their own leaders. There is little evidence the college was needed then, and there is nothing to support its existence in 1976.

The quickest way to rid the Republic of this unnecessary and outdated trapping would be to follow a suggestion U.S. Sen. Birch Bayh made a decade ago.

Bayh is the proponent of a constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college. The measure has consistently passed the U.S. House but has been blocked in the Senate. Bayh hopes to have 50 colleagues as cosponsors this time around, and his aides are hopeful that national sentiment has caught up with the Senate's opposition to the change.

The amendment calls for direct election of the president and vice president by popular vote. Bayh's amendment also includes a provision to deal with elections in which a candidate fails to get more than 40 per cent of the vote.

While this situation has occurred only once, in 1860 when Abraham Lincoln was not on the ballot in 11 southern states, Bayh wants to cover all of the bases.

Bayh's provision for contests in which the candidates receive less than 40 per cent of the vote would entail a joint session of Congress voting for president and vice president from the two top candidates on a one man-one vote basis.

The Congress should approve Bayh's amendment when the new session resumes next month.

Voters can have a hand in the process by letting their congressmen and senators know that the electoral college system should be eliminated.

Juvenile court needs quick approval

Cook County Circuit Court Judge John Boyle should take prompt affirmative action on the proposal from State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, and the Northwest Municipal Conference asking creation of a Juvenile Court branch in this area.

Boyle received petitions last week with more than 5,000 signatures calling for creation of a suburban Juvenile Court branch. In addition, he formally received offers from the villages of Schaumburg and Hanover Park to make space available for the court rent free.

Boyle has said he will discuss the proposal with the chief Juvenile Court judge and the chief judge of the Third Judicial Circuit, which includes Schaumburg and Hanover Park.

Certainly those consultations are necessary. However, we hope Boyle will not delay approving the plan to bring this much needed court branch to the Northwest suburbs once the consultations are completed.

Presently there is a branch of the Juvenile Court in Niles, which is certainly preferable to downtown Chicago. However, an even closer location for Northwest suburban residents would improve the access area residents have to the court.

Creation of the juvenile court branch also may be a first step toward other expanded court facilities in this area to handle such matters as divorce and probate which are now only available in Chicago.

"No, it's NOT 'conceptual art' — it's a crummy pile of logs!"

A defense of the Caucus

Your Friday editorial seems to be based upon very limited knowledge of the Arlington Heights Caucus.

For example, you stated that in 1975 the Caucus was made up of local politicians. What politicians? Who were they, among the inexperienced key personnel in committee, and in the campaign itself?

Your reference to reform, as if there were evil aspects present, is ridiculous. If realistic, you should be able to comprehend that keeping interviewee's names confidential is a matter of courtesy to those interviewed. Many times, well-qualified persons have not been recommended for reasons beyond their control — for example, too much business travel to permit attendance at board meetings on a regular basis. For you to imply that this confidentiality breeds mistrust of the Caucus seems childish — who would subject themselves to an interview if they had to risk being labeled publicly as a Caucus reject? I'm sure that every interviewee, every resident, can readily understand and agree with this policy.

Now about that time interval between announcement of Candidate recommendation and the public meeting of Jan. 16: all who attend that Jan. 16 meeting will receive background information and hear each person express his or her attitudes. Would another five or six days "to ponder" really help the average voter to reach a judgment?

Your people apparently do not comprehend the broad significance of the basic Caucus idea that the office should seek the person. Simply stated, this means that at the village level, better government is realized from people who serve as a civic contribution rather than from people who have political ambition.

This is not to decry political ambition — far from it! Every American has the right to run for any office in the land, with or without approval of any other person or group. However, most knowledgeable people recognize that people on village boards who hope to go on to higher political office eventually base too many judgments upon cost-or-gain in voter popularity rather than upon dictates of conscience. That is simply a political fact of life.

This concept has prompted the Caucus through the years to not only encourage but also to persuade good people to stand for local office who never would have done so otherwise. Results of this concept brought to office people like John Woods, Norval Stephens and scores of others of similar drive and integrity. This concept in action is the principal reason that Arlington Heights, in contrast to many other suburbs, has remained scandal-free through the years.

To call this system outmoded is like saying honesty is out of style.

Our current problem in quickly securing broad-enough choice reflects the fact that many qualified people are not willing to give the required time to village office — a reticence possibly augmented by frustrations seen in the more political type of our government since 1975, after which you have repeatedly termed a major defeat for the Caucus. A switch of only 583 votes out of 10,551 would have elected a Caucus-recommended president: that's a major defeat?

If the Caucus is ever unable to find enough qualified, public-spirited, non-political candidates to present, our village offices can go by default, eventually, to political hacks. When that happens, the unique character of our village will change overnight.

The Herald can perform a real community service by factually reporting and interpreting the Caucus to its readers, rather than pontificating about minor details. All we ask is: please report the facts — after separating the forest from the trees.

Tribute to a teacher

She was one of the best. She loved the children dearly. I had the pleasure for years to know her. I was fortunate that she taught my four children, my two sons who are out of high school down to my 7-year-old who had her this year until her illness.

Mrs. Logan from Kimball Hill School was her name and a lot of us who knew her through the years are deeply saddened by her death. She was a special lady.

There's some good in the news

I compliment the Village Official who is responsible for the computerized application for processing Mount Prospect vehicle stickers and dog licenses.

It is indeed comforting to a taxpayer to learn that there are some people in the Government who are concerned with efficiency and cost of village management.

A theme such as "What can I do to do the job better with less" instead of "Raise the taxes" is one that more federal, state and local government officials should mimic.

Philosophy and actions such as that displayed in the computerized application could indeed, if allowed to spread, go a long way to balancing government finances.

I am sending this letter of thanks and gratitude for the wonderful job expertly done by a team of Mount Prospect paramedics, T. Lynch and A. Labbe.

Carter might gain ideas

Involvement aids local government

by RAY CROMLEY
A commentary

WASHINGTON — If President-elect Carter wants ideas for getting people involved in government and in improving services, he should look at what's happening in some of our cities.

Mt. Pleasant in South Carolina interviews all municipal employes quitting their jobs to find out what they think is wrong with the way things are run.

In Independence, Mo., neighborhood councils elect representatives to keep in close touch with specific city departments. Cleveland Heights, Ohio, achieves the same end through street associations.

Plainfield, N.J., has organized a citizens group which makes recommendations to the mayor in preparing and reviewing the annual city budget.

A WORCESTER, MASS., steering committee seeks out executives in private industry who will volunteer their services to the city part time. Major contribution thus far has been in developing a financial control and reporting system.

Madison, N.J., has compiled a list of citizens expert in specific fields. They're called in, when needed, to come up with solutions to persistent municipal headaches. Scottsdale, Ariz., holds regular sessions aimed at finding new ways to handle nagging problems, invites private professionals, academic types and the officials concerned.

Fond du Lac, Wis., has held citizen meetings in school cafeterias to get the views of low-income residents on community needs and on priorities for investing federal development funds.

WORTHINGTON, OHIO, used volunteers, including architects, for planning, financing and constructing major improvements in a public park.

Fairfield, N.J., has set up an ombudsman office to help residents deal with city agencies. The deputy city administrator analyzes the complaints, and when he finds a pattern, identifies policy changes necessary to prevent recurrence of the problems.

Lancaster, S.C., requires city employes to turn in something called a Fix-A-Gram whenever they note potholes, missing stop signs and other problems in their daily work, whether concerned with their own department or not.

Livonia, Mich., has a complaint service staffed by 30 volunteers, each of whom has gone through an intensive five-week training program covering each city department, social agencies, local recreation programs and clubs and organizations which offer service to citizens.

GREENVILLE, S.C., has set up suggestion boxes at convenient points through the city to encourage citizen suggestions and complaints.

With the cooperation of the National Science Foundation and a number of high-technology industries, a California non-profit organization has placed science advisers in 11 California cities to discover ways in which new technology can be used to improve efficiency and services.

Recent reviews of efficiency studies seem to indicate that feedback, both positive and negative, is perhaps the prime essential in improving productivity. And in fact, those city and county departments known to this reporter which have set up systems which encourage citizen response have, in my mind, the best records of efficiency. By contrast, the closed systems, more often than not, end up as hopeless quagmires. Shortchanged citizens are shunted from official to official and clerk to clerk until they give up in despair.

We must stay fit for laughs

by DICK WEST
The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I have here a brochure from George Q. Lewis, founder of something called the National Laugh Foundation.

Lewis is promoting something he calls "laugh exercises." His premise is that people need to laugh more but have trouble doing it because their faces are out of condition.

There's a lot in what he says.

All about us, people are jogging, riding bikes, doing push-ups and otherwise engaging in physical fitness programs. But I don't know even one person who does anything about facial fitness.

Great effort expended to build up the body. Nothing to build up the face. Yet keeping your face in tiptop condition can add years to your life.

I'M NOT TALKING about mud packs, lotions, astringents and unguents. Those treatments may make you look better but they contribute nothing to facial endurance, salubrity and vigor.

For the latter, you need exercise. In which regard, our next president should be an inspiration to us all.

Other chief executives have established councils on physical fitness to encourage body development. But none in recent times has been as exemplary as Jimmy Carter in the field of facial fitness.

I DON'T KNOW whether Carter takes regular laugh exercises of the type advocated by Lewis. There can be no doubt, however, that his face gets frequent vigorous workouts.

Consider, for contrast, former President Calvin Coolidge. You may not realize this but Coolidge was a very jolly fellow, much given to mirth and merriment.

His face, however, was so badly out of shape he couldn't muster anything more than a fleeting smile. Thus, his sunny disposition largely went unnoticed.

Lewis recomends 30 seconds of smiling exercises before a mirror every morning when you first hop out of bed. Warm up with perhaps a few sly grins and then move on to more rigorous drills, such as twinkles, smirks and simpers. Wind up with a full beam.

The second part of the regimen calls for "at least 20 seconds of inward or outward laughs" before each meal.

I would advise, however, that you undergo what Lewis calls a "laugh check-up" to make sure you are sound enough to withstand the exertion.

Otherwise, the belly laughs might cause you to split your sides.

73% surveyed play Santa for employers

Many firms giving Yule bonuses

by LEA TONKIN

If employes had their druthers, would they choose a turkey, a trip to Acapulco or a wad of cold cash for their holiday bonus this year?

A survey by Dartnell Institute of Business Research, Chicago, shows 73 per cent of companies surveyed plan some kind of a bonus, 8 per cent more than in 1975. One out of every three firms even plan multiple holiday gifts.

A Herald survey, however, of nine Northwest suburban companies shows less than overwhelming acceptance of the Christmas bonus idea. Only three of the local companies plan to present cash or other gifts to their employes.

"WE GIVE TRIPS to Acapulco and Hawaii," said Jack Kemmerly, president of the Palatine-based Kemmerly Real Estate & Insurance firm. The trips are given, to the firm's nine top sales personnel.

"To the winners go the spoils," Kemmerly said. The lucky recipients of the expense-paid vacations each participated in 30 realty listings and more than $1 million in sales.

Kemmerly said he formerly used a point system for sales and listings. The more points, the more jewelry, camping equipment and other items that could be ordered free from a catalog.

A $50 gift will be given to all employes at the Bank of Elk Grove, said Jim Fagerson, personnel manager. The bank has given gift certificates to employes in past years. "But cash seems to be the thing people appreciate the most," Fagerson said. The bank doesn't expect any response from employes, he said. "There usually isn't any overwhelming rush of people breaking down the door to say thank you."

A TURKEY IS handed out to every employe at UOP Inc., Des Plaines, said Artist White, manager of compensation. "This has been a tradition in the company for I don't know how many years," he said.

Although the remaining companies in The Herald sample said a holiday bonus is not planned this year, several reported Christmas parties and other benefits. "Christmas Day off with pay" is reported at United Air Lines, Elk Grove Township. Employes have a "good benefits package" at Mobil Oil Corp. in Schaumburg, a spokesman said.

Holiday parties for employes are slated by Cockrell Coffee Service, Schaumburg, Northern Petrochemical, Des Plaines, and Chemplex Co., Rolling Meadows.

"We get two days off at Christmas and at New Years'," said Nancy Wheelock of Ekco Products Inc., Wheeling. "That's kind of a bonus."

IN THE DARTNELL study, the percentage of firms reporting bonus plans are as follows:

Earned bonus based on performance, 29 per cent.

- Annual bonus based on profits, 48 per cent.
- Regular year-end bonus, 15 per cent.
- Christmas bonus, 45 per cent.
- Other bonus, 9 per cent.

The bonus based on profits is often reserved for top management and professional employes. The Dartnell survey showed that office and plant workers also gained this type of bonus at year-end. Bonuses given for performance are generally reserved for management, supervisory and professional personnel.

Airline tax law decision near

The Treasury is nearing a decision on whether certain fringe benefits traditionally given airline workers, retail clerks and other employes must be declared os income for federal tax purposes, officials said Wednesday. The airline industry has urged its workers to fight the tax law changes, first suggested 16 months ago, and the response has overwhelmed Treasury aides. Included in the proposed package are airline employes, including flight attendants, and commercial travel agents who currently are not taxed on discount travel passes; retail store employes given discounts on the purchase of merchandise; interior decorators not taxed on the discount purchase of furniture for personal use; use of company airplanes by executives, their guests and family members when the purpose of the flight is strictly entertainment; free parking spaces in company-owned garages; company-provided cars for executives, including use of government-owned autos for Cabinet members, congressional leaders and other top government officials including ambassadors.

Midwestern farmers to get aid

President Ford, citing "an immediate and serious threat" to much of the livestock industry, Wednesday ordered the government to give drought-stricken farmers cash assistance to buy feed grain for their animals through the winter. Ford said the problem was greatest in the Midwest, and aid would go first to producers in South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, but that other states probably would be eligible for the same help from the Agriculture Dept. and the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration.

Women workers group formed

The recent U. S. Supreme Court decision in favor of a company that refused to pay pregnant employes disability benefits has led to formation of a new group dedicated to seeking health benefits for affected workers. Some 43 representatives of women's rights groups, civil rights organizations and labor unions announced formation of the "Coalition to End Discrimination Against Pregnant Workers" following a five-hour meeting at the University of Pennsylvania campus, Philadelphia. The U. S. Supreme Court, by a vote of 6-to-3, ruled last week that the refusal of a company to pay disability benefits to pregnan employes did not constitute unlawful discrimination in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Telemed foresees high earnings

"Telemed will produce record financial results on substantially higher revenues and earnings during its current fiscal year which ends March 31, 1977," said Jack Henn, president of the Hoffman Estates-based firm in a recent talk before the New York Society of Security Analysts. Demand for the firm's electrocardiographic equipment and related services will benefit Telemed's earnings, he said. The firm recently reported revenues of $5,074,770 and net income of $780,394 for the six months ended Sept. 30.

New shops open at Woodfield

Toys, plants and other gift items are featured at new stores recently opened in the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg. In the Mary, Mary Plant and Gift Shoppe there are pottery, macrame, wicker and glass accessories in addition to domestic and imported plants. The F.A.O. Schwarz store sells educational games and toys, hobby equipment and stuffed animals.

Dow gains 3.16 in heavy trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite profit-taking pressures, prices ground out a modest gain Wednesday in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange where investors were betting Arab oil magnates would approve only a modest petrolem price hike.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up nearly 4 points at the outset and off nearly 3 later, gained 3.16 to 983.79. The closely watched average, a 6.39-point winner Tuesday, has gained 59.75 points since Nov. 4 and has reached the highest level since it closed at 990.19 Sept. 30.

The Dow Jones transportation and utilities averages reached 1976 highs, strongly indicating investors were betting that oil prices wouldn't be pushed to exorbitant levels.

On a broader scale, the NYSE common stock index gained 0.04 to 56.63 and the average price of a common share increased by 2 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, added 0.07 to 105.14.

Another shot at flu inoculation brings in 'tardy'

Karen Gannon of Arlington Heights came because she was in Florida last time.

Kay Latta of Mount Prospect made the trip because she was sick the last time the swine flu inoculations were given.

Mary Ann Lachman of Hoffman Estates stopped in for her shot because last time she had been waiting for her husband, a heart patient, to get permission from his doctor.

Rich Panerali of McHenry came because the earlier swine flu clinics just didn't fit into his time schedule.

THEY CAME from all across the Northwest suburbs Wednesday for a second chance to be inoculated against swine flu.

A needle in the arm was the only price they paid for being a little late.

The jet injector guns that were used in November's swine flu clinics now are busy fighting a measles outbreak in southern Cook County, said Hoffman Estates health officer James Demos.

But because his office was flooded with phone calls after the November clinics, Demos scheduled the mop-up clinic as soon as he could get a new supply of vaccine.

"THERE'S BEEN a big increase in interest since two people (one in Missouri, the other in Wisconsin) caught swine flu," he said. "When that happened, we got a lot of calls."

A crowd of patients gathered inside the lobby of the Moon Lake Convalescent Center, 1545 Barrington Rd., Hoffman Estates, before the clinic opened at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The traffic moved quickly, Demos said, because the village had asked that persons phone 882-9100 for an appointment.

The village plans to inoculate 200 persons in the 4 to 8 p.m. sessions scheduled today, Friday and next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition, shots are offered from 9 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The calls have been coming in so fast, Demos said, that all the time through Friday and part of Saturay morning already has been filled.

Flu not linked to paralysis

ATLANTA (UPI) — The national Center for Disease Control Wednesday said there appears to be no connection between the swine flu vaccine and a rare form of temporary paralysis that has struck at least 30 persons inoculated with the serum. Occurrences of the paralysis have been reported in ten states.

Wendell Bradford, assistant coordinator of the CDC's swine influenza task force, called the paralysis "a very unusual condition, the cause of which is not known.

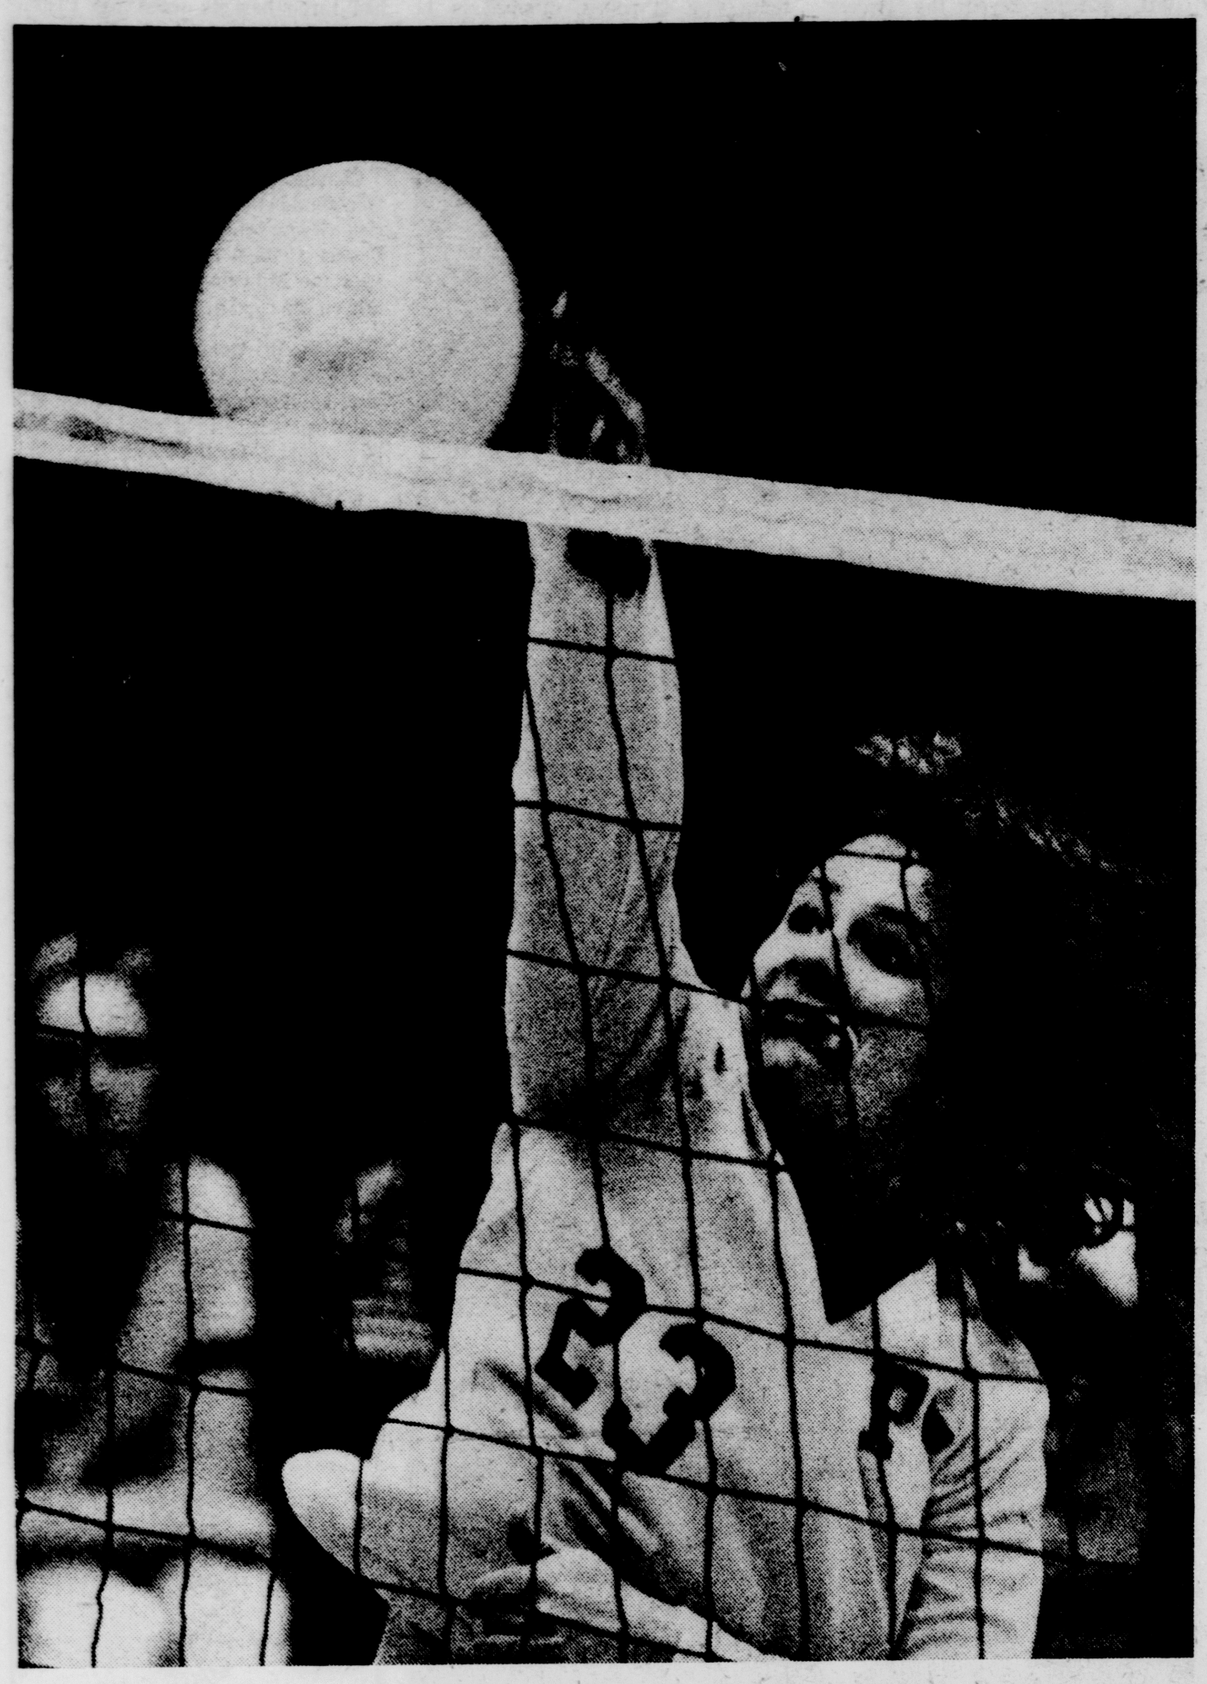
Forest View girls take top honors in volleyball



SPIKE AND CHEW. Biting her tongue in concentration, Forest View's Lori Frighetto, powers a shot over the net against Buffalo Grove Wednesday night. Her solid play supported a 20-13, 20-11 triumph for the Falcons to earn them the Mid-Suburban League volleyball championship.

Scorewise, Forest View made it look easy Wednesday night.

The Falcons posted 20-13 and 20-11 verdicts to charge past hosting Buffalo Grove and claim their first Mid-Suburban League volleyball crown.

In a preliminary match Rolling Meadows turned back Arlington for third place honors, 20-18, 20-5.

THE TRIUMPH by coach Denise Van Huele and her aggressive outfit in the main bout avenged a much tighter-looking Bison victory over the Falcons very early in the season.

The rematch was every bit as close, much to the pleasure of a big and responsive bipartisan crowd. Many of the serves were volleyed back and forth more than a dozen times with each side coming up with their own share of diving saves and tenacious spikes.

In the end, by the admission of both coaches, it was the serving that spelled the difference.

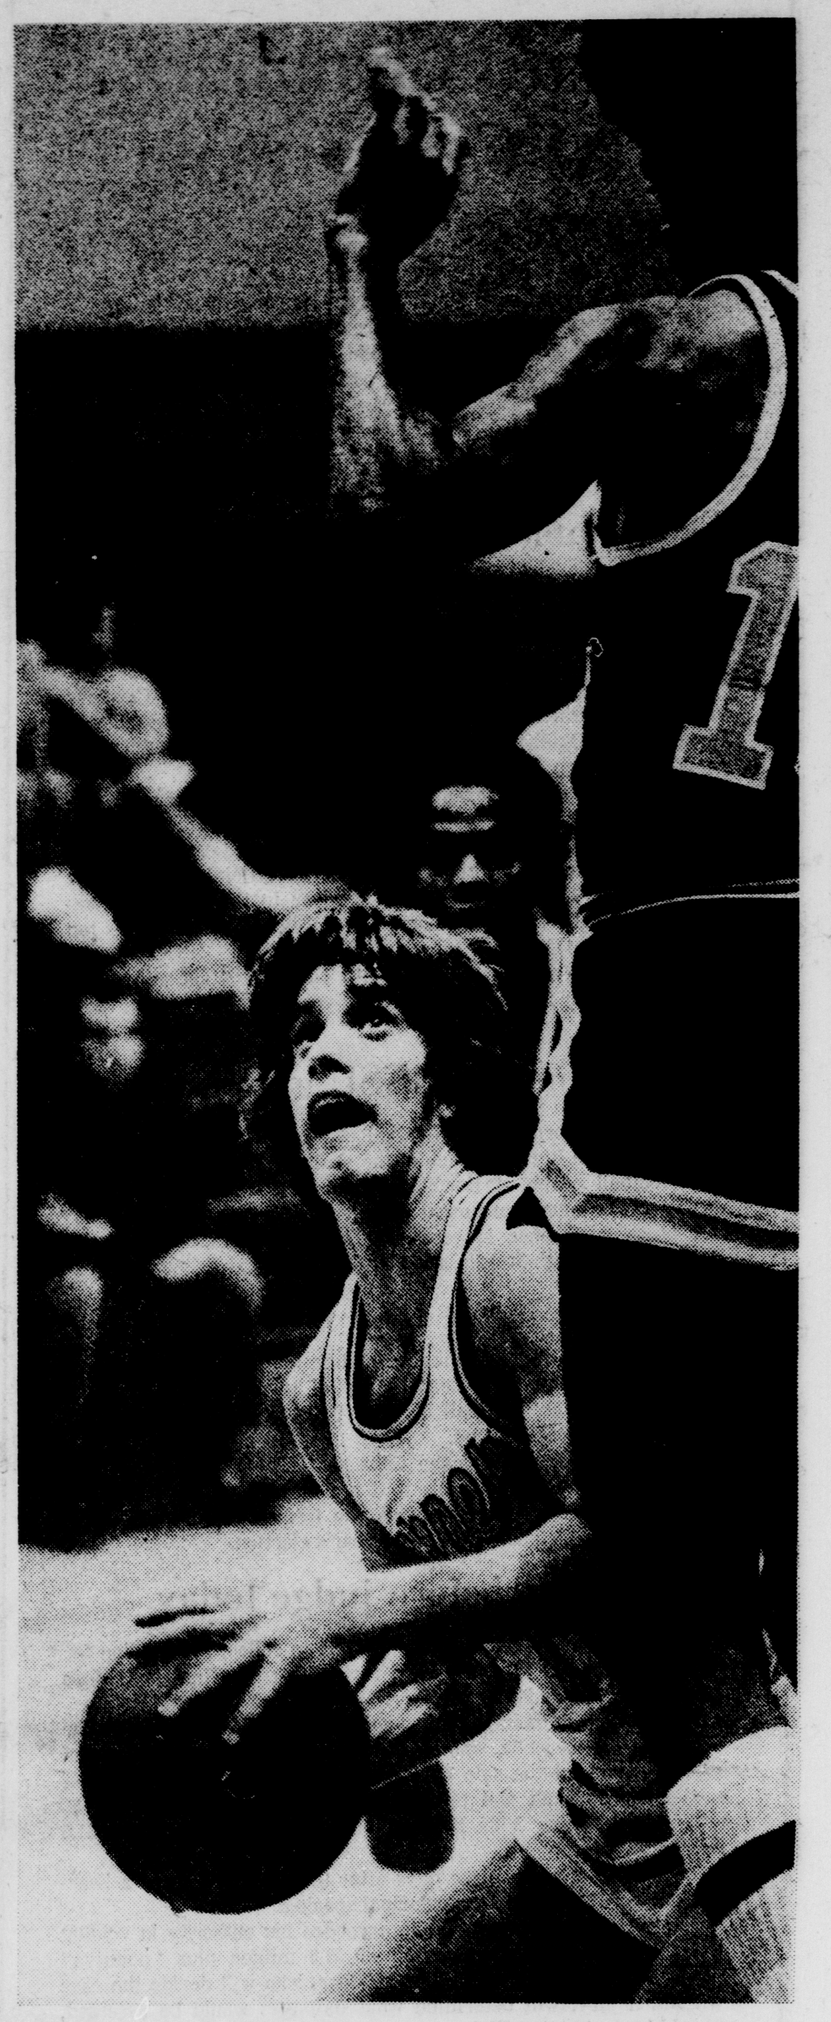
"Buffalo Grove hustled and played well tonight," Van Huele pointed out. "We were just darn lucky they didn't serve better."

Bison coach Paula Von Gerichten echoed similar sentiments. "Our kids came up with a good effort tonight. I was pleased with everything except our serves. We shuffled a number of players in and out of the lineup trying to find the hot hand but never did."

Both coaches were also in agreement about the closeness of the battle, despite the score. "Scores aren't always indicative in volleyball," Von Gerichten explained. "Most points didn't come easy for either side. There was no question about who was the better team tonight. Forest View had to play exceptionally well to beat us and they did."

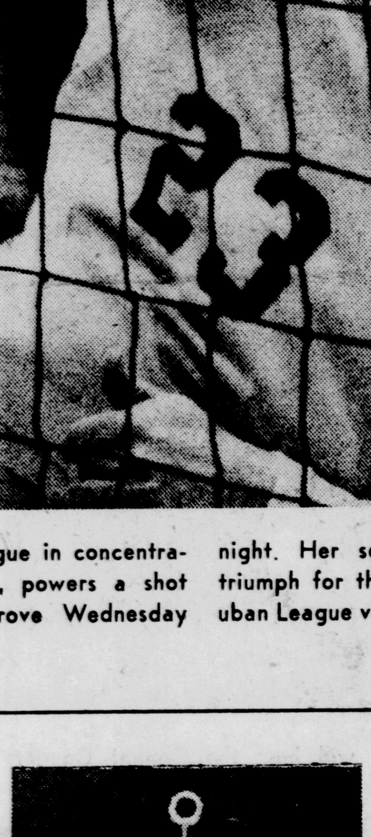
After taking the first game, the Falcons opened a 5-0 lead in the second contest. The hosts rallied to knot the score at 9-all but Holly Borchart served up four straight points for Forest View and they never trailed again.

While both coaches also declined to name any outstanding individual, the statistics showed seniors Lori Frighetto and Nancy Lancaster pacing the winners in several important categories.



HANKERIN' TO SCORE. Littl Ken Hanks of Harper puts a pump-fake on DuPage's Chris French during DuPage's 82-72 win in N4C action at St. Viator. Hanks, the smallest man on the court, led Harper with 16 points.

Fremd leads Cup race



THE PADDOCK CUP

Fremd High School, carrying league championships in soccer and cross-country and strong finishes in golf and football, owns the lead after fall sports in the battle for The Paddock Cup.

Official standings released today by The Herald show Fremd with 46.5 points in four sports and a lead of 4.5 over runnerup Forest View.

The Paddock Cup is presented annually to the Mid-Suburban League school with the best over-all varsity sports performance.

HERSEY WON the title for 1975-76 and has four championships in the past five years. Arlington has five titles since the trophy was introduced in 1967-68.

Points in The Paddock Cup chase are awarded in relation to a school's Mid-Suburban finish in each varsity sport. The total points then are divided by the actual number of sports in which a school participates, enabling soccer and swimming to be included in the over-all picture.

The addition of soccer to the Mid-Suburban picture helped both Fremd and Forest View, the 1-2 Paddock Cup teams. The schools also held the 1-2 spots in soccer.

FREMD (cross-country and soccer), Prospect (golf) and Hersey and Elk Grove (football) claimed the fall sports titles.

Defending Cup champion Hersey currently holds third place with an average 9.4 points per sport, and Palatine and Prospect round out the top five.

FALL SPORTS — 1976

	Spts.	Pts.	Avg.

Doug Olson keeps climbing up hockey ladder

Staff Sportswriter

Hockey stars are a dime a dozen in Canada, but you wouldn't expect to find a future Bobby Orr walking through the halls of Schaumburg High School.

Not any more, you wouldn't. Not since Doug Olson graduated and took his curved stick with him.

OLSON IS THAT rare breed of American — rarer still in the Chicago suburbs — who can handle a hockey stick the way a Canadian does. At 19, young Olson just might be on his way to a career in the National Hockey League.

That's one of his goals. First, he'd like to represent the United States in the 1980 Winter Olympics.

Olson will take the first step next Friday when he and 19 other members of the U.S. Junior Olympic team travel to Czechoslovakia. Over a period of two weeks, they will meet teams from the Soviet Union, Poland, Sweden, Canada, Finland and the host country.

"It's been unreal, just great," said Olson, who made the team after being scouted by a representative of the Olympic Committee. "This team is preparing for the 1980 Olympics — and that's always been one of my big goals in life."

HIS MAIN PROBLEM, however, was that Schaumburg High isn't exactly a hockey factory. And the northwest suburbs aren't exactly a proving grounds for budding young stars.

So Olson was constantly traveling, going everywhere in pursuit of his hockey education. He played for seven years with the Chicago Minor Hawks, then went to Canada for a year of special tutelage, learning the tricks of the trade.

While in Canada, playing for the Junior B Pickering Panthers, Olson was offered a full scholarship to St. Louis University, where he is now a left winger on the varsity's third line.

"There's no way I could have gotten a scholarship if I had stayed in the states after graduation," admitted Olson, a first-year student who hopes to pursue journalism in college.

"Three-fourths of the team at St. Louis University is from Canada," he said.

Most of the rest of them come from American hockey hotbeds such as Minnesota, North Michigan and Upper New England.

"HOCKEY IS just too commercialized in the Chicago area," said Olson. "Fathers push their kids too much. In Canada, the kids go out and get involved by themselves.

"Right now, I think American hockey players can skate with the Canadians," Olson continued. "I really think they can. They just don't have that hockey sense — stick-handling, shooting and checking, those kinds of things. Not as much finesse. We'll catch up with them in maybe five years or so."

Meanwhile, it will take someone with Olson's total dedication to the sport to make it big in hockey.

"Hockey has been my life since I was seven years old," he said. "I did play baseball in high school until my senior year when I hurt my arm. My arm went out and that was it. I decided to narrow it down to one sport — and hockey was it."

SCHAUMBURG baseball coach Dick Stephens was sorry to see Olson spend so much time on the ice instead of the diamond. Olson's only claim to fame during his short-lived prep career was a base hit off Forest View ace Larry Monroe, now with the Chicago White Sox.

"We sure could hav used him," Stephens sighed. "I think Doug could have done well in baseball if he had gone on in it. He had a lot of potential. But he played so much hockey — and it paid off for him."

The next dividend is the trip to Europe, sponsored by the Olympic Committee. Olson and his teammates will play nine games in 15 days. First, they will assemble in New York and get in a couple of days of practice at the Nassau County Coliseum (where the New York Islanders play).

"When we come back, we'll all go back to our schools and teams," said Olson. "We'll probably get together periodically through the next four years until the Olympics."

IF HE MAKES the Olympics in 1980, it would be the fulfillment of one of Olson's life-long dreams.

And from there? Who knows.

Might not be as ridiculous as it sounds.

Payton, Chambers on NFC star team

Walter Payton and Wally Chambers of the Chicago Bears, who Tuesday were named starters to the National Football Conference team for the Pro Bowl Jan. 17, were selected to the first team of United Press International's 1976 NFC All-Star team Wednesday.

The Minnesota Vikings, champions of the NFC's Central Division, placed six players on the squad, including record breaking quarterback Fran Tarkenton and powerful running back Chuck Foreman.

Payton was the NFC's leading rusher with 1,390 yards. Chambers, a defensive tackle, anchored a much improved defense that elevated the Bears to a 7-7 record, their best in recent years.

Akers named new Longhorn coach

AUSTIN, Tex. — The University of Texas Wednesday ignored the wishes of athletic director Darrell Royal and hired Wyoming coach Fred Akers to fill one of the choicest collegiate head football coaching jobs in the country.

Akers, who in his second year at Wyoming guided the Cowboys to a Western Athletic Conference championship and a Fiesta Bowl berth against Oklahoma, signed a five-year contract at $43,000 a year.

Akers, 38, served as Texas' offensive coordinator before going to Wyoming in 1974.

Royal retired from coaching Dec. 4, but will stay at Texas as athletic director. And although he had no official voice in the naming of his successor, he made it clear to the selection committee headed by school president Dr. Lorene Rogers that his top choice was Mike Campbell.

Campbell, 54, had served as Royal's No. 1 assistant and defensive coordinator for Royal's entire 20-year coaching career with the Longhorns.

Stolz named to BGSU grid post

Denny Stolz, former head football coach at Michigan State University, and the Big Ten coach of the year in 1974, has been named head football coach at Bowling Green State University, athletic director Dick Young announced Wednesday.

A press conference is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Thursday in Bowling Green with Stolz in attendance.

Banks on latest Hall ballot

NEW YORK — Ernie Banks and Eddie Mathews, each of whom hit 512 career home runs, head the list of 34 eligible players to be considered by the Baseball Writers Association of America for election to the Hall of Fame.

Banks, the slugging Chicago Cubs shortstop-first baseman who retired in 1972, is making his first appearance on the ballot, released Wednesday, while Mathews, the former Milwaukee Braves third baseman, finished fifth in last year's election.

Finley case before judge today

CHICAGO — Charles O. Finley's effort to collect $3.5 million for players he never sold gets a legal review starting Thursday before U.S. District Judge Frank McGarr.

Finley filed a damage suit against Bowie Kuhn because the baseball commissioner, who said he acted "in the best interests of baseball," voided the sale by Finley's Oakland A's on June 15 of outfielder Joe Rudi and pitcher Rollie Fingers to Boston for $2 million and pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million.

Kuhn's ruling came three days after the sales and after a hearing at which Finley was the principal speaker.

Finley's suit alleges that Kuhn exceeded his authority in voiding the sales and requests damages of $3.5 million plus "punitive" damages, specifying $10 million. McGarr, who will decide the case without a jury, will determine what damages would be assessed, should he decide that Finley wins the suit.

Taking Low President honors...

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — President Gerald Ford has accepted Bing Crosby's invitation to play in Bing's 36th National Pro-Am golf tournament at Pebble Beach next month, a spokesman for Del Monte Properties announced Wednesday.

President Ford's entry blank notes that he will be unable to play on the first day of the tournament, Jan. 20, but will join his foursome on Friday, Jan. 21, said Bob Campbell, publicity director for Del Monte, which owns the Pebble Beach golf course.

It will mark the first time in history a sitting president or a retired one has played in a PGA event. The Crosby is the third stop on the PGA's 1977 calendar, following stops in Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.

Big 10 to set MSU penalty today

CHICAGO — The Big Ten has called a news conference for 2:30 p.m. Thursday, presumably to announce a penalty on Michigan State for violations of recruiting regulations.

The conference penalty would be for the same violations for which the National College Athletic Association last Jan. 26 placed the Spartans on probation for three years, barring them from NCAA football television and post season games for three years.

The NCAA penalty resulted in the firing of football Coach Denny Stolz, who was replaced this season by Darryl Rogers. The penalty also ruled several Michigan State players ineligible for varying numbers of games.

Badgers tip Loyola, 71-68

The University of Wisconsin pulled away in the final seconds to edge Loyola of Chicago, 71-68, in Madison Wednesday night. The Badgers were led by a pair of freshmen, Ray Sydnor and Arnold Gaines.

Dave Welmer tipped in an errant pass under the basket with 14 seconds left to give Ball State a 57-55 win over visiting Ohio State.

Senior guard Gary Hoder fired in 26 points to lead the ninth-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats to a 79-68 win over previously unbeaten Miami of Ohio. Yoder hit nine of 12 shots from the floor.

University of Detroit forward John Long pumped in 28 points to lead the Titans to a 99-94 win over Michigan State University. The Titans are 5-1 while MSU fell to 1-4.

Dr. J, Big Mac lead Sixers' win

Julius Erving scored 25 points and George McGinnis added 20 to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 97-87 victory over the Phoenix Suns Wednesday night.

Erving scored 13 of his points in first quarter as the Sixers raced out to a 17-point lead and were never headed the remainder of the game as they held on to first place in the NBA Atlantic division.

The suns cut the lead to two points midway through the second quarter, but Philadelphia paced by three baskets by Doug Collins scored 11 straight points to take a 44-31 lead, and the Suns could get no closer than seven points after that. Lloyd Free added 19 points and Collins 18 for the 76ers. Alvan Adams led Phoenix with 27 points.

Indiana outscored visiting San Antonio by a dozen points in the third quarter Wednesday night and waltzed to a 116-102 NBA victory which squared its season record at 14 wins and 14 losses.

WIL JONES keyed the Pacers' triumph with 26 points and 19 rebounds, but Dave Robisch added 18 markers and a dozen boards in his usual strong game off the bench. Billy Knight tallied 20 points for Indiana which has won 11 of its last 12 games at home.

Elvin Hayes scored 45 points — his regular season high as a Bullet — in powering Washington to a 104-100 victory Wednesday night over the Kansas City Kings in National Basketball Association action.

Hayes, whose previous high with the team was 43 points, dumped in 14 points in the fourth quarter when the Bullets enjoyed their biggest advantage of the night. His career high of 54 points was with San Diego in 1968.

Guard Kevin Porter scored 23 points and grabbed nine assists and 6 other Detroit players finished in double figures Wednesday night to spark the Pistons to their biggest scoring assault of the season in the 136-116 National Basektball Association victory over the Golden State Warriors.

PORTER AND CHRIS Ford each had three baskets when the Pistons went on a 16-0 burst in the first period to move from a 10-6 deficit into a 22-10 lead. From then on the Pistons were never in trouble as they rolled to their fifth victory in the last six games.

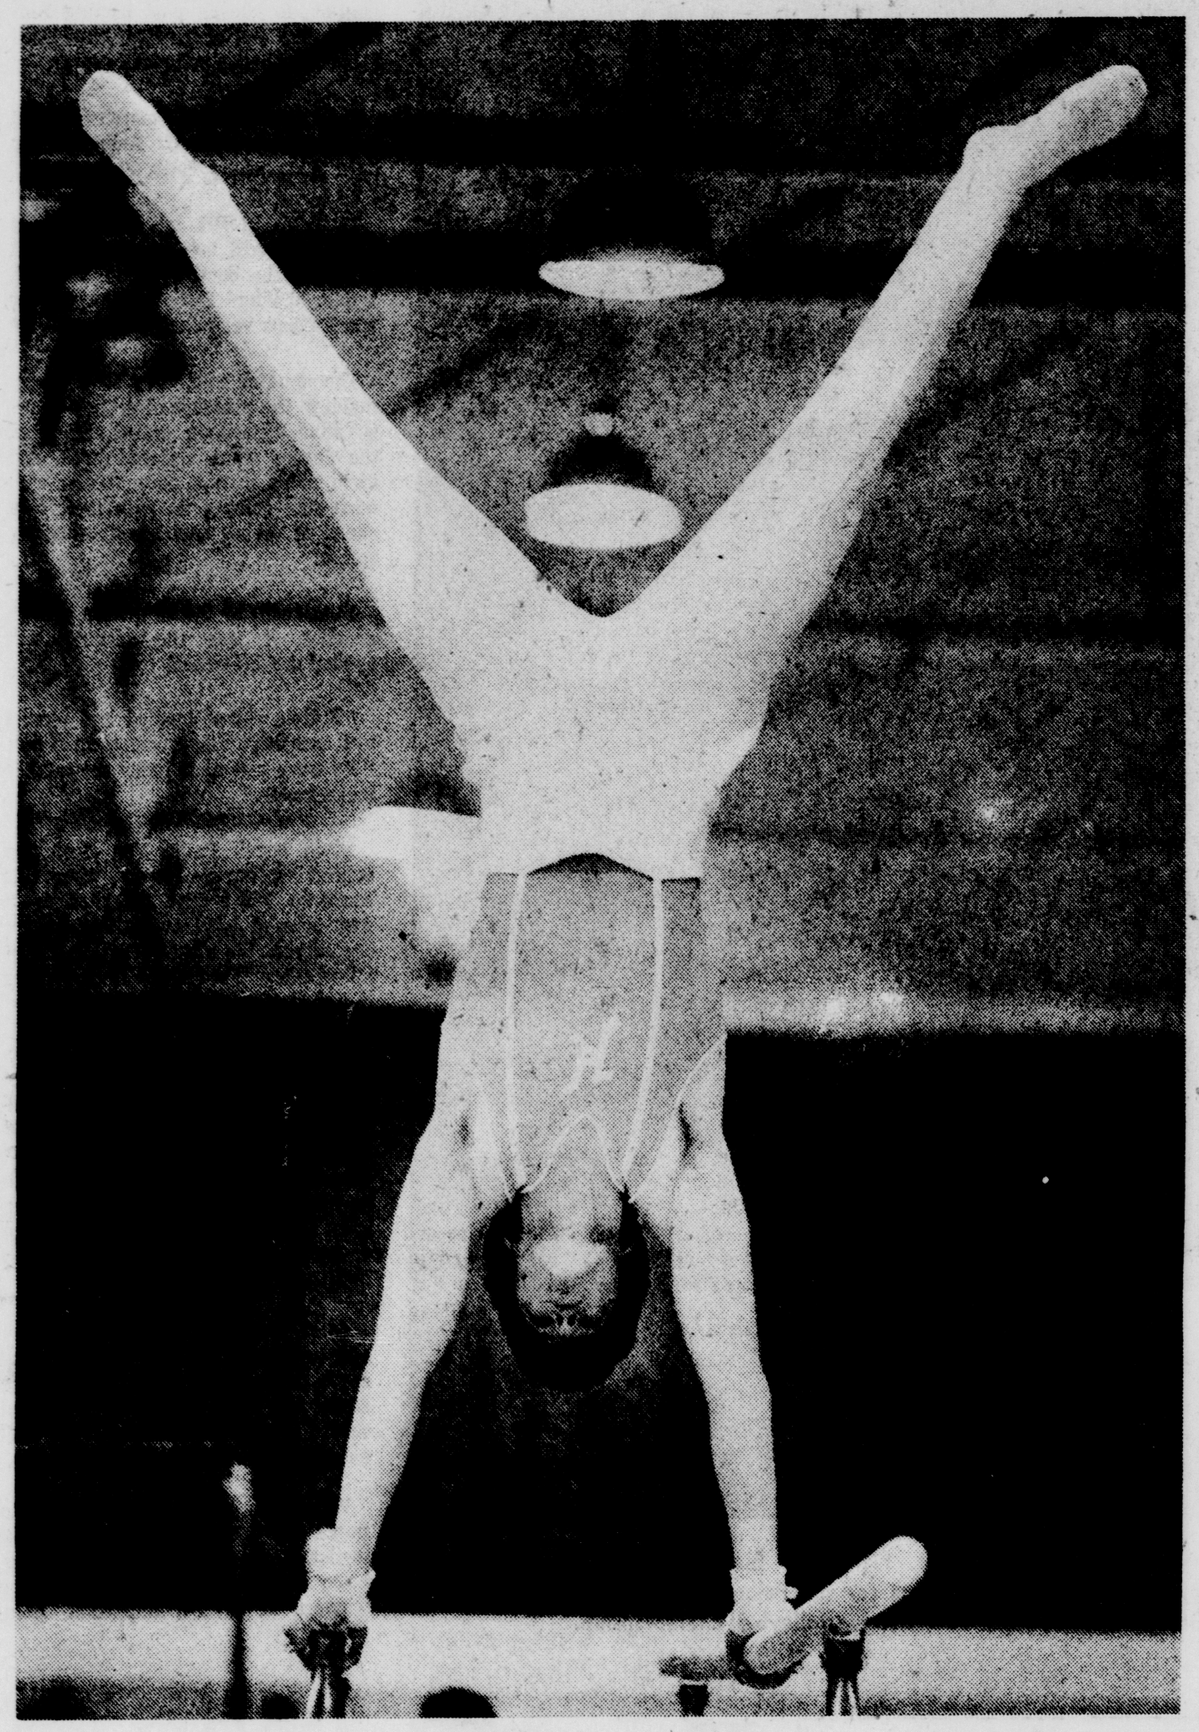
Charlie Scott tossed in 12 straight points midway through the fourth period Wednesday night to spark the Boston Celtics to a 129-125 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks, still winless on the road after 16 games.

Junior Bridgeman, a second-year pro form Louisville, scored a career high of 41 points for the Bucks, who have lost seven in a row. Gary Brokaw added 27 for the losers.

KAREEM ABDUL-JABBAR, Cazzie Russell and Lucius Allen combined for 85 points Wednesday night to give the Los Angeles Lakers a 115-105 win over the Nore Orleans Jazz in the Louisiana Superdome.

Jabbar finished with 35 points while Allen had 26 and Russell 24. The Lakers broke a four-game losing streak on the road and pushed their record to 15-12.

The Jazz played the second half without Pete Maravich, the NBA's leading scorer. Maravich had 15 first-half points before spraining an ankle two minutes into the third period.



HERSEY all-arounder Jim Huck won the P-Bars event with a 7.10 in a recent dual meet with Prospect. The Huskies will host the Conant Cougars tonight as 12 MSL teams have dual meets.

Leafs, Kings and Barons in NHL wins

Right wing Lanny McDonald scored a first period goal 16 seconds after assisting on another to pace the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Blues Wednesday night.

Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas, playing in only his 12th game of the season, stopped 40 shots, while his counterpart in the Blues' net, Ed Staniowski, faced 31 shots.

Marcel Dionne stole the puck to set up a tie-breaking goal and then scored himself Wednesday night to ice the Los Angeles Kings' 3-1 victory over the Atlanta Flames.

Atlanta's loss broke a string of eight unbeaten games for the Flames. The Flames had not lost in 10 home games before Los Angeles beat them.

The Flames outshot the Kings 40-25 but Rogie Vachon thwarted Atlanta.

Bob Murdoch scored his first hat trick of the season and Mike Fidler scored two goals Wednesday night as the Cleveland Barons, ignited by a five-goal first period, ran their winning streak to three gomes with a 7-3 NHL victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

Murdoch, who tallied 22 goals last season, beat Detroit goalie Ed Giacomin with his eighth goal with five minutes gone in the first period and lit the red light four minutes later to give the Barons a 2-0 lead and Red Wings never caught up.

NO SKIMP ON FIT!

Price is nice, but walking away with clubs that are precisely suited to your own strength, build and playing style is what's really important. Clubs that are not exactly what you need may be a bargain, but they're not a value. Our Super Swift Artist has drawn three average golfers for you. You can't possibly believe that one particular set of clubs can fit all three players. Visit us for Golf Clubs and thru the use of the electronic swing recorder we will determine the optimum combination of shaft length, shaft flex, swing weight, grip size and composition, loft and lie, and set make up. (We offer over 20 different wood finishes.) All this at stock prices. A representative set of 4 woods (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7) and 9 irons (any combo) fitted as previously stated for $385.

For those who are happy with their current clubs, we also repair all types right here. Clubs with worn finishes can be affected by moisture absorption or drying out which will alter swing weight, delaminate, swell or shrink the wood itself. And the way we are set up you can watch safely as the work is being done. Do so and you'll be amazed at the talent recruited at Dahle's.

TAKING AIM, St. Viator's Steve Notaro gets set to pop in another free throw in the Lions' "mail order" competition. Players shoot free throws in matches against teams from across the country, sending their individual results to a host school which computes the standings. The competition continues all season.

Lions winning—by mail

by BOB GALLAS

There were no fans, referees or cheerleaders present when the St. Viator basketball squad won three straight games recently.

Only the sound of the basketball bouncing off the floor echoed through the empty Viator gym as the Lions trounced such foes as St. John, Kan., Oshkosh, Wis., and Willow Springs, Mo.

Not even the opposition was present. The "game" was played through the mails and involved only free throw shooting.

THE LIONS are one of 26 teams across the country who are taking part in a free throw shooting contest that will continue throughout the high school basketball season.

Schools are scheduled in two matches per wetk. The shooting is done before or after practice, and the results are tallied through the host school in Oshkosh.

"You're on your honor when it comes to reporting the results," said Viator coach Ron Cregier, who learned of the contest at a coaching clinic and hopes the little bit of added pressure will make his charges better free throw shooters.

Viator is the only area entry in the contest which featured schools from as nearby as Aurora, Wheaton and Lombard to such distant schools as those in Midland, Tex., Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Blythe, Calif., and Keokuk, Iowa.

THE WINNING team gets a trophy and will hopefully see an improvement in its free throw shooting percentages.

Coaches select their 10 best free throw shooters and rank them one through 10. Each man shoots 50 free throws in a match, with the No. 1 shooter of the team going up against the No. 1 shooter of another team. Two points are awarded to the individual winners and another three points are awarded to the team that hits the most free throws in a match.

"Usually you hit free throws better in practice than you do in a game because there's less pressure," said Cregier. "Hopefully, this added pressure in practice will help them shoot better during a game."

So far the contest appears to be paying off. Viator has hit an average of seven of every 10 free throws in game competition this season, a respectable average.

And they're 3-0 in free throw shooting competition so far. A fact that had Cregier thinking.

"Too bad we can't play any games by mail."

New junior hockey team

The organization of a junior hockey team for young players ages 16 through 20 has been announced by Robert Anderson, president of the Flames Hockey Club.

"We want to form a fine junior team to represent the state of Illinois and prevent the exodus of excellent young players to Canada as is happening now," states Anderson.

Now being formed, the team is playing at the Waukegan Tri-Skate Arena at Rt. 132 and Grand Ave. Stu Robertson, formerly of the Detroit Red Wings, is the coach of the team, which is based in Arlington Heights.

The Flames team will play similar teams from other states, as do the other Flames teams — Bantams, Juniors and Midgets. In order to pursue their hockey careers, midget players — who are aged 15 and 16 — move on to junior teams in Canada because up to this point there have been no effective junior teams in Illinois, says Anderson.

It is Anderson's plan to provide college scholarships to the junior team players so that Illinois will retain the best of its young hockey players.

Persons interested in learning more about the Flames junior hockey team are invited to call Anderson at 593-1260.

American academy teams take 1-2 spots

The American Academy of Gymnastics, Inc. of Des Plaines sent two teams and finished first and second at the Twin City Invitational held at Parkland College in Champaign, Ill.

Two teams represented the Academy as only seven girls were eligible on a team.

The first place Academy maroon team (337.85) consisted of Dawn Burke, Christa Canary, Nina Dziem and Sue Koch of Des Plaines, Kim McCabe of Arlington Heights, Peggy Mosher and Jackie Pakis. The second place pink team (333.55) were represented by Laurie Birk, Rickee Farrell, Mary Ann Kostyniuk, Sue Magnotti, Nancy Quattrocki, Donna Silber of Mount Prospect and Erin Tanner of Arlington Heights.

Capturing the all-around title again in her second successive meet was Christa Canary (71.75) followed by teammates Donna Silber 2nd (70.60), Peggy Mosher 4th (68.10), Rickee Farrell 8th (66.90) and Laurie Birk 10th (66.05).

On bars Christa swung to 1st place (18.30), Silber 2nd (18.10), and Farrell 6th (17.05). On floor exercise Donna Silber won 1st (18.30) followed by Canary 2nd (18.00), Mosher 3rd (17.95) and Farrell 5th (17.50). On vault Canary took 2nd (18.30), Silber 4th (17.40), while teammates Nina Dziem and Jackie Pakis tied for 5th (16.95). The beam found Christa 2nd (17.15), Mosher 3rd (17.00), and Silber 4th (16.80).

Skate-A-Thon ahead in Palatine

The Palatine Amateur Hockey Assn., sponsors of the youth hockey program in Palatine will be holding their 3rd Annual Skate-A-Thon on Tuesday, Jan. 11, 1977 at the Ice Spectrum.

Stan Mikita and a number of past and present Black Hawks will be skating with the boys as well as posing for pictures and autographs.

As the youth hockey program is a Palatine Park District activity, it depends to a large degree on fund raising events and particularly the Skate-A-Thon for financial support.

Boys from the program will be soliciting people to sponsor them with a financial contribution for each lap they skate. The maximum number of laps the boys are allowed to skate is 200.

Youth Basketball

Arlington Heights

4th Grade
Kings 10, Bucks 8
Top Buck players were Steve Ullenius who pulled down four rebounds, Tim Schuler with five steals while playing tough defense. Rob Dogen and Rich Weber both played well in a loosing cause.
Pistons 16, Hawks 15
Hawks fought back from a four point deficit to tie it at 12 all. Davey Urbain, Jay Spurr, and Robby McKinney played a super last quarter. Chris Knoeppel hit two 20-foot jumpers, Robby McKinney had six points and three steals and Jimmy Peterson contributed driving layups and numerous tie ups. The Pistons were led offensively by Rich Baker's 12 pts. and strong rebounding game. Joe Bullock had two points and contributed several steals. John Chamberlain had a good floor game with several rebounds and Gene Cuttone had two points.
Braves 27, Suns 11
The Braves remained undefeated as they won their 5th straight game over a stubborn Suns team 27-11. Mike Cohen connected for 12 pts. Dave Benoit scored 9. Pete Freund and Mark Gibbs played well.
Hawks 10, Bucks 6
Eric Lusson lead the Bucks in scoring with four pts. Gary Myers and Shawn Kosyla both played super defensively.
Suns 15, Bucks 9
Dan Fay led the way with three points. Fay had help from teammate Tim Raupp who was outstanding on rebounding. Andress and Schuler played strong defensive games.
Braves 15, Hawks 2
The Braves played super defense and ball control throughout and won going away. The defense was so tough that the Hawks only score by Dan Niemburg came midway thru the final period. Jay Spurr had four rebounds for the winners. Urban and Halpren played the boards well for the Hawks. The Braves' Dave Benoit led all scorers with five points. Pete Freund followed with four points. Mark Gibbs, Pat Carew, and Mike Cohan scored two each.
Kings 20, Pistons 18
The winning basket was scored by Dan Crowley in overtime play. John Zumph and Tom Cawthorne were high point men with six points. Joe Bulloch had 10 points and contributed a great defensive game, including two steals. John Chamberlain and Ed Hardy also played great defense for the Pistons. Rich Baker had six points in a loosing cause.
5th Grade
Lakers 25, Knicks 18
Scott Stoller hit for 11 points and teammate Matt Krueger ripped the nets for six more to lead the victory parade. Both also controlled the boards. Callanan and Kauss played super games on defense. Chris Mussachio put on a fantastic offensive show for the Knicks with 18 pts.
6th Grade
Pacers 29, Squires 16
The Pacers are setting the pace in their league as they recorded their 5th straight victory. D. Pritchard and D. Kane both shared scoring honors with eight points each, followed by J. Meyer with 7. J. Schurr, G. Fox, and S. Bruns all contributed two points. J. Sharp and J. Meyer engineered the floor game, as K. Nelson had two rebounds and one steal. John Bostrom hustled in nine points, and grabbed eight rebounds. Steve Fencl was 2-for-2 at the charity line, and Mike Whisler had two points as did Del Kosyla.
Jazz 40, 76ers 10
The winners were led by Jim Messineo's 12 points. Brian Owens added eight. Tim Kilbourne six and Chris Peterson four. John Hribar, Gary Ripp and Ricky Johnson all played well. The 76ers' Dean Niro scored four points, while teammates Chris Shepard and Bob Julinssen both had two points each. McErlean also played well.
Nets 30, Capitols 23
John Merkel scored seven points, and Matt Dooley and Mike Setnan contributed six points each, as the Nets slowly pulled away to a hard-fought victory. The Capitols had their own hero's as Kubon, Brohm, and Marsillo all turned in super games.
Bullets 21, Rockets 18
Only one point separated the two teams with 36 seconds left on the clock, when J. Jacobs broke free, ran the length of the court for a layup and put the game out of reach of the Rockets. P. Donahue was high point man with eight, followed by Jacobs with seven. T. Snell contributed six for the winners. The Rockets efforts were turned in by Peterson with six pts., Leydon four pts., followed by Gaul, Rood and Crise with two points each. Potter and Joy scored one point each.
Bullets 33, Squires 22
The Bullets had balanced teamwork in winning their first game of the season. Tom Loftus was outstanding in working the ball up court for Jacob and Snell, who did the heavy scoring with eight pts. each. Donahue had seven and Kelly had four in a victorious effort. Kevin Neumann had nine pts., John Bostrum seven and Dan Etter four points.
Pacers 23, Rockets 20
As expected, it was a see-saw battle all the way. The Pacers remained undefeated and played like champions in beating the Rockets in an overtime contest. D. Kane had the hot hand by netting nine points. D. Pritchard played his usual strong game and contributed seven. J. Sharp had three pts., as J. Meyer and B. Dion contributed two each. B. Soucek and G. Fox rebounded for the Pacers. The Rockets had outstanding efforts from Leydow their leading scorer with six pts., followed by Gaul and Gleason, both with four points. M. Joy had three points, Nil had two and Peterson one.
Jazz 30, Nets 24
Leading from the outset, and displaying a balanced attack as Greg Marshalla, Brian Ownes, and Scott Reishus who contributed eight points each, and Jim Messineo's seven, the Jazz had the Nets off balance throughout and they never got closer than four points midway thru the last period. The Nets outstanding efforts were turned in by John Merkel with eight points followed by Mike Setnan, Bob Hajek, and Matt Dooley, all contributing four points each.
Capitols 26, 76ers 10
The winners were led by Chareas, Brohm, Popp, Ambros, Baum, and Wingett. Niro lead the 76ers in scoring with six points. Stava had four. Outstanding defensive efforts were turned in by Niro, Stava, McErlean and Shin.

Champs feted in racquetball holiday events

The second annual Court House Holiday Classic tournament was held this past weekend at The Court House, 106 E. College Drive in Arlington Heights.

Participants in the six events were players from all five Court House clubs in the Chicago area (Mid-Town Chicago, Northbrook, Schaumburg and Skokie as well as Arlington Heights). Finals of the tournament were held Sunday.

The events and finalists were:

Men's Open — The top places were attained by three members of the Schaumburg Court House. Winner Mark Coleman of Elgin beat Clyde Senters of Schaumburg by a score of 21-4, 21-19. Rick Hobday of Palatine won third place.

Men's Doubles — Larry Putterman and Jordan Tilden, both of Chicago, beat Alvin Barasch of Skokie and Spencer Karlin of Glenview 9-21, 21-12, 11-1. In a tough fight for third place, Schaumburgers Clyde Senters and Tom Street overcame Rick Hobday and Alan Shetzer of Schaumburg by a score of 31-29.

Men's Seniors (over 35) — Tom Street beat Jordan Tilden 21-2, 10-21, 11-1.

Men's C — Barry Buske of Streamwood beat John Kelvie of Elk Grove Village 21-13, 21-13.

Women's Open — Ade Crabtree of Wheeling handily beat Sheila Overcast of Chicago with a winning score of 21-7, 21-5. In the Women's Open Consolation, Mona Kaufman of Wheeling beat Pat Spence of Arlington Heights.

Women's C — Mary Carlson of Streamwood beat Kathie Klein of Buffalo Grove by 21-17, 21-10.

Mixed Doubles — Ade Crabtree and Jim Hall of Arlington Heights won in a close match over Sheila Overcast and Jordan Tilden with scores of 16-21, 21-5, 11-10.

A Christmas gift idea

If you were wondering what to give your youngster for Christmas, why not a set of golf clubs? The top four PGA money winners earned more than $200,000 in the 1976 season. Leading the pack was none other than Jack Nicklaus ($266,438). Twenty-four players cracked the $100,000 mark

Ethics chief to seek probe of Korean payoffs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Ethics Chairman John Flynt said Wednesday that based on a preliminary inquiry, he will ask the new Congress to formally investigate allegations some congressmen accepted gifts from South Korean agents.

Flynt told a news conference he will recommend the hiring of Philip A. Lacovara, a former Watergate assistant prosecutor, to head the investigation.

Flynt sought to get a meeting of his ethics committee Wednesday to vote on the investigation but only five of the seven members needed to constitute a quorum appeared.

FLYNT SAID he and Rep. Floyd Spence, R-S.C., senior GOP member of the panel, were ready to recommend the formal investigation.

Flynt said committee investigators began a preliminary inquiry Sept. 27 into published allegations that South Koreans were influence-peddling among congressmen. Since that time, said Flynt, "we have accumulated substantial documentation of matters reported in various media."

Flynt refused to discuss what his investigators uncovered or how many members were named in the inquiry. Some sources have said that a Justice Dept. investigation into the allegations have involved at least 12 House members.

LACOVARA, 33, was counsel to the Watergate special prosecutor but resigned the post in September 1974 in protest over President Ford's grant of a pardon to Richard Nixon.

Lacovara, now in private practice in Washington, has advised the ethics panel on a nonretainer basis. Flynt said his first act when the ethics committee meets would be to propose the formal investigation and the hiring of Lacovara.

The ethics panel came under fire from some Democrats in the last Congress for failing to move quickly or forceful enough in the wave of sex-scandal allegations this past year. Indications were that efforts would be made to replace most, if not all, Democrats on the panel.

FLYNT SAID the preliminary inquiry has accumulated 500 pages of printed matter but he declined to answer questions of whether any members of the current ethics panel were named in the preliminary inquiry.

Flynt said he was ready to introduce several bills in the new Congress aimed at ethics reform, including one to provide enforcement powers for his committee in overseeing the current law that bans acceptance of gifts from foreign governments.

Another Flynt bill would require accounting by members of their "unofficial office accounts," sometimes described as "slush funds" which come from contributions and which do not have to be reported.

Beirut seaport reopens but no ships arrive

by DAVID D. PEARCE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Beirut's crippled port, once the busiest in the Middle East, officially reopened Wednesday. But no ships came.

Only one wharf of more than a dozen, Pier 8, was back in business to receive shipping. Beirut's formerly huge "free zone," where vast amounts of merchandise used to transit without passing through Lebanese customs, will remain closed.

The first ships to be received at the port since it closed last February were to have been the M.S. Caliope, a Red Cross ship, and a Lebanese cargo ship the "Abdel Basset." Neither showed up.

"THE M.S. CALIOPE is carrying 350 tons of food and blankets," a Red Cross official said. "It was delayed in Athens for repairs and will not arrive for another week."

The reason for the delay of the Lebanese freighter was not known.

The only vessel to appear all day was a small Lebanese ship that, unlike the other two, had not been authorized to dock and was turned away.

Capt. Zacharia, skipper of the tugboat "Emir Fuad," deftly eased his craft around the harbor, blocked in several places by the tilting phantoms of three sunken freighters resting absurdly on their keels, with only their upper decks poking out of the water.

PORT DIRECTOR Philippe Tawily estimated it will take $40 million and 25 years to repair all of the damage.

The only things that ppear relatively untouched are the cement wharves and some of the monster East German-made loading cranes that used to service the freighters.

Otherwise, all is rusting and in disrepair.

Warehouses once stood where now there is only tangled metal and ashes. Shipping agents once lined the quayside where now there are only shell-torn buildings with their roofs blasted off.

CONTAINERS LIE scattered about like a child's toy building blocks, jimmied open and their contents long stolen.

Lebanese harbor police and Syrian troops of the Arab peacekeeping force patrol the docks.

Harbor policeman Abdallah Murtahdah said, "I am happy to see the port open again. There was much shooting here, but we are going back to work now." Then, surveying the ruined portscape, he added, "Only a little bit, at first."

Trustees table resolution of congratulation

A resolution congratulating Arlington Heights trustees and their predecessors for their "puritanical propriety" has been tabled.

It wasn't for reasons of modesty that the resolution introduced by trustees Robert Miller and August Bettman was postponed.

It was because copies of the report on government corruption issued recently, calling Arlington Heights "a model of puritanical propriety," were not circulated to all trustees.

"I really think it's very nice that somebody has come here and found out that Arlington Heights officials in the past have been honest and trustworthy, but I really feel very uncomfortable voting on anything that I haven't seen," Trustee Madeline Schroeder said.

"The only thing I know is what I read in the paper."

TRUSTEE FRANK Palmatier said he would vote against the resolution which was based on a report written by John A. Gardiner, a professor from the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle campus.

"I don't think we should commend our own virtue. I disagree with the resolution to that extent," Palmatier said.

The move to table the motion upset other members of the board.

"As my sainted mother use to say, if your horn has a good tone, blow it," Trustee Richard Durava said.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said the resolution would "lose a certain amount of its weight" if it wasn't passed unanimously.

"By tabling this, it's already lost its enthusiasm and its intent. You might as well forget it," Trustee August Bettman said.

Unit district good? Where's proof: residents

Thirty residents of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214 Wednesday had their say about the unit school district proposed for the Dist. 59 area.

The proposal would combine Dist. 59 schools and Elk Grove and Forest View high schools under one school board and administration.

Dist. 59 is one of several elementary districts in the High School Dist. 214 area.

OPPONENTS OF the unit district said that Dist. 59 has enough financial problems of its own and should put its house in order before trying to assume greater responsibility.

Testifying at the last public hearing on the unit district proposal, Elk Grove Village Trustee Nanci Vanderweel Wednesday said Dist. 59's instability is evidenced by its history of paying teachers in script, using deficit spending, and having a constant turnover in superintendents.

"To the present Dist. 59 fiscal and management problems will be added two high schools, 5,000 students and over 200 teachers," said Richard Chierico, a teacher at Elk Grove High School. "The history of Dist. 59 doesn,t warrant additional educational responsibilities."

Several residents said, they have seen no evidence that the proposed unit district would offer their children an education better or even as good as the education now being provided by Dist. 214.

"WHEN MORE than 1,700 classroom teachers who have the students' welfare at heart do not support the unit district proposal, something must be suspect educationally," said Robert DeBolt, president of the Dist. 214 Education Assn.

Proponents of the proposed unit district said they have been shortchanged by Dist. 214. They said Dist. 59 residents have not had adequate representation on the Dist. 214 Board of Education and charged that Forest View and Elk Grove high schools do not offer the same facilities and educational opportunities as the other six schools in Dist. 14.

"We continue to contribute significantly to Dist. 214's financial resources and continue to have little voice in the utilization of these resources," said Charlene Bessey, a member of the committee of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed the petition seeking the formation of the unit district.

Dist. 59 Board member Gerald Smiley said only twice have two Dist. 59 residents been represented on the Dist. 214 Board at one time.

Volunteers help children adjust

by DIANE GRANAT

"A child's hands were clenched, and you open them. A child's legs were tight, and you relaxed them. A child knew only wetness, and you dried him."

Opening a child's hands, relaxing his legs or drying him seem like simple tasks. But to volunteers at Clearbrook Center for the handicapped, this message written for them thanks them for some major accomplishments.

The volunteers are part of a total stimulation program for severely handicapped children. The children, who range in age from 3 to 9 years old, all have abilities at about the level of a 1-year-old, said Renee Moses, Clearbrook day school director.

THE PROGRAM at Clearbrook, 3201 Campbell St., Rolling Meadows, attempts to get these children a little bit more in touch with the world, to wake them up to their environment, Mrs. Moses said.

The teachers work to stimulate the child's senses through different activities. To improve their sense of touch the children rub different textures such as mud and sand, said teacher Kathy Connelly. While the child is trying the new feeling, his teacher repeats, "This is mud" or "This is sand," Miss Connelly said.

The sharpen their sense of hearing the teachers play tapes of household sounds: ringing bells, banging pots and flushing toilets. Another tape the children hear teaches them body sounds; Coughing, clapping, burping.

"We bombarded them with one little tiny thing," Miss Connelly said. "We might do coughing for three minutes, constantly repeating the word. Hopefully the child will pay attention and make associations."

BEFORE THE children are able to sense new odors or distinguish new sounds their bodies must be prepared, Miss Connelly said. The children who have low muscle tone are "tuned in" before an activity and the children who are tight are relaxed, she said.

During a recent physical therapy session teacher Kathy Oleson spent 15 minutes rubbing a child's back while he lay on a rocking toy. At the same time volunteer Ellen Butler held a child in her lap while she massaged his back.

"Can you imagine yourself being so tight that you're shivering all the time?" asked Mrs. Oleson. The back rubs and rocking are used to relax tense children while special positioning helps the children with "floppy" muscles.

Clearbrook volunteer Kim Cashmore uses special techniques at lunch time.

One of the program's goals is to get the children "to look a little better, so people are more comfortable working with them," Mrs. Moses said.

IMPROVING EYE contact and trying to limit drooling are some tasks teachers work on "to help the kids look more normal and more palatible during feeding time," Mrs. Moses said.

Feeding time is one of the key parts of the total stimulation program, Mrs. Moses said. Since most of the children cannot feed themselves this is where volunteers are most needed, said Marcy Logan, Clearbrook's volunteer coordinator.

During lunch time the volunteer helps the child close his mouth and move his lips and tongue. Each volunteer is assigned to one child, learning how to place her hand on the child's chin and under his lips.

"It's not just getting the food in the kids," Mrs. Moses said. The feed process involves complete "restraining — some of the children may not even know they have food in their mouth," she said.

BECAUSE EACH child has special needs "somebody has to be here consistently. Somebody has to be aware to observe subtle changes in the child," Mrs. Moses said.

This means the volunteer must be there at the same time every day. There are now six high school students who volunteer each morning but there is only one volunteer at lunch time, Mrs. Logan said.

Mrs. Moses said the teachers must now feed the children in shifts when they could be better used as observers, assisting and advising the volunteers.

Anyone who is interested in volunteering in the total stimulation program can call Mrs. Logan at Clearbrook, 255-0120. She offers them her message: "A child saw, felt, heard a new world, only because of you!"

After a shaving cream experience.

Debbie Golota shares a special feeling with her charge.

THE FOOD WAS on the house Wednesday at Bella's Inn in downtown Arlington Heights and customer skepticism did not fail to lessen the appetites of luncheon guests. Owner James Jezierski said the freebie was his way of saying Merry Christmas to customers.

Free lunch? The catch is Christmas

by NANCY GOTLER

The sign on the door said "free lunch," but most customers at Bella's Inn, 15 E. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Wednesday were skeptical.

"What's the catch?" Carol Fanchi of Palatine asked waitress Debbie Doppke. When told she could order anything on the menu, except drinks, without charge, she said, "That's impossible, You've got to be kidding."

The offer, good from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, was not a joke. It was owner James Jezierski's way of wishing his regular customers Merry Christmas.

"Many of them don't understand why I'm doing it. I guess they're not used to getting something for nothing," he said.

"MOST CUSTOMERS are skeptical and want to know what the menu restrictions are," Miss Doppke said. "They just don't believe it. I think they should just sit back and enjoy it. You don't run into something like this very often."

Many customers weren't aware of the free offer before seeing the sign on the door.

"Do we have to sit at the bar or something to qualify?" asked one woman who at first refused to believe the meal was free.

By noon the restaurant was filled, and patrons began lining the entry way and waiting for tables.

Jezierski, who wouldn't estimate how much his generosity would cost said, "I hope we have a lot of people show up. This is our way of repaying our customers for their regular service. But for some reason people find it hard to believe there isn't a catch when someone is nice t them."

Real estate industry responds

Reselling condo a specialized task

by LYNN ASINOF

A "for sale" sign in front of a two-story house is a common sight, but no one puts a "for sale" sign in the window of their condominium apartment.

The reselling of condominiums is something new in real estate. Until recently, most people in the condominium field were concerned with selling new developments. Now many of those bright shiny new condominiums are being resold, and the real estate market is beginning to respond.

Carl Bongi, president of Condo/Realty Ltd., Rolling Meadows, started out in the business of selling new developments for builders.

"ALL OVER, no matter what part of the state we were in, people were going back to us and saying 'What did you sell us. We can't sell it," Bongi said.

That's when Bongi decided there was a wide-open market for a real estate broker who specialized in condominiums, quadrominiums and townhomes.

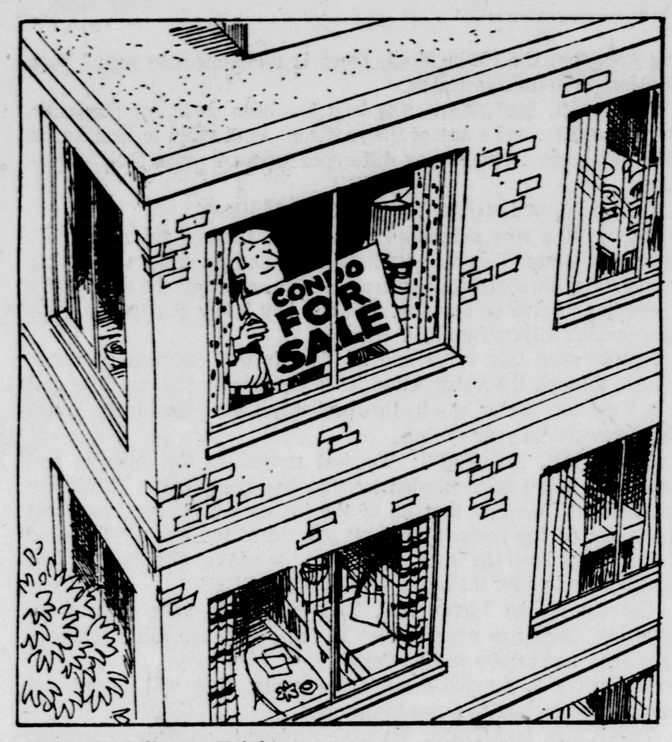
Eugene Matanky, national chairman of condominiums for the National Assn. of Realtors, said there are many differences between condominiums and single-family homes. He said real estate brokers are going to have to become aware of them.

"There is a basic difference in the presentation of condominiums and free standing homes. But there are also basic differences between home sales and investment sales," he said, noting that many real estate firms have different departments to handle residential and commercial properties.

RIGHT NOW, most real estate firms handle condominiums the same as single-family homes, but some say that will change as more and more condominiums come on the market.

Condominiums are not difficult to sell, but local brokers say the single-family house is still the front-runner.

"It's easier to move homes. People prefer a single-family home with the exception of certain categories like older people," said Katherine Lionitis, salesperson with Kemmerly Real Estate and Insurance, Arlington Heights.



Betty Felix of the Schaumburg office of Robert L. Nelson Real Estate said people who buy condominiums are buying a lifestyle.

"I think it is a concept of living that is going to become more popular as years go by," she said.

BONGI SAID more and more people are buying condominiums as the first step towards home ownership. He said, however, almost any renter will be better off buying a condominium. "Even staying only two years, we can show you it's less than rent," he said.

Different forms of condominiums attract different buyers, Bongi said, noting that the quadrominium is usually the least expensive. This form of housing usually has the smallest rooms when compared to condominium apartments and townhouses.

Most quadrominiums are two stories and come with garages, which are a strong selling point, Bongi said. "They appeal to young marrieds who don't have too much money," he said.

Joann Hartman, sales manager of Condo/Realty, said many people opt for a quadrominium instead of a condominium apartment because they don't want elevators and hallways.

"TO SOME PEOPLE, walking down a hall and using an elevator is foreign to their way of life," she said, noting that many people also do not like their children using elevators.

Bongi said condominiums usually are not suited for families, but do appeal to young marrieds, older people and singles.

"The full market gamut is there, but less for the family with two children," Bongi said. He said some advantages to condominiums are the large rooms and the fact that the cost of utilities is often covered in the monthly association assessment.

Townhouses generally are the most expensive form of condominium living since they are most like the single-family house. Bongi said the rooms in a townhouse are usually larger than a quadrominium but smaller than a condominium apartment. Most have garages, and the owner pays his own water and utility bills.

IN THE NORTHWEST suburbs, 80 per cent of the townhomes are located west of Ill. Rt. 53, Bongi said, noting that Schaumburg is primarily a community of townhomes.

When buying a condominium, there are several advantages to choosing one of the more established developments because they are a better buy and "you know exactly what you are getting, not just a concept from a model," Ms. Hartman said.

Matanky said the older condominiums also are less expensive and often better located.

Record keeping saves house value from tax man

Good record keeping by a homeowner is the best way to protect the growing value of his home from the tax collector, says Robert G. Walters, senior vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of its residential sales division.

"The average homeowner realizes that he can deduct mortgage interest and real estate taxes from his annual income for federal tax purposes," he said.

"What he may not realize is that the growing value of his home, an average of 8 to 10 per cent annually in the Chicago area, is a return on investment that can be taxable when the home is sold," Walters said. "The only way to defer the tax on the profit of the sale of a home is to buy and occupy an existing home of equal or greater value within a year of the sale, or build and occupy a new home within 18 months."

BESIDES DEFERRING taxes, homeowners can also reduce the amount of taxes they may have to pay eventually. The amount of taxable profit on the sale of a home can be reduced through allowable deductions for purchase expenses, improvements made during the owner's occupancy and selling expenses.

"For example let's say that you bought a home in 1960 for $25,000, and you sold it this year for $42,000. If you don't purchase and occupy another existing home worth at least $42,000 within a year of the sale, or build and occupy a new home within 18 months, you are subject to a tax on $17,000 profit," Walters said.

"Even if you do move into a home of equal or greater value within the alloted time, the tax on the profit is considered postponed, but cannot be forgiven until you are over age 65, and even then only under certain conditions. The profit on the sale must be reported on your income tax form, even if taxation is postponed because you've bought another house."

There are however, deductions that will trim that $17,000 "profit" eventually . . . provided you keep proper records. Walters said proper record keeping for deductions can reduce the taxable gain on a sale.

"THE RECORD keeping must begin as soon as you purchase your first home, including what you paid for it, settlement or closing costs such as legal fees, title search and insurance, a recording survey, and if possible an appraisal fee," he said.

"In succeeding years, you'll be making repairs and improvements to the house. Many of these will be deductible from any eventual profit on the home's sale. Others, considered routine maintenance, will not. If good records — bills, receipts, canceled checks — are kept on all major expenses, a tax accountant or the IRS can help you sort out those that are deductible.

"It's not a bad idea to keep a running record of these expenditures with your other tax records. Fixup measures such as repainting, which would normally be considered maintenance and not deductible, can be subtracted from profit if they are taken within 90 days of putting the home up for sale.

"When you sell your home you will probably pay for a broker's commission, an attorney's fee, advertising, a mortgage satisfaction fee, a state tax stamp, and a title abstract. These are also deductible from profit."

Additional information is available in an Internal Revenue Service publication, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home." One section discusses the tax advantages allowed to persons who have sold their home after age 65. Another section details benefits for members of the armed forces.

"Many people, when improving or remodeling their home, have no intention of ever selling it for a profit. However, homes are resold on an average of about once every seven years. A new job, a growing family, a desire to upgrade, or any number of other circumstances can spark a sale when none was planned.

Regional shopping center boom ending, expert says

The recent building boom of large regional shopping centers is coming to an end, said Lee D. Corbin, CPM, who believes that construction trends will turn toward the smaller neighborhood and community centers.

According to Corbin, president of Space Management Corp. and a partner of Property Management Associates in Sacramento, Cal., "The super regional center provides major planning problems for some cities.

"Access is critical and existing streets are inadequate to handle the thousands of cars that jam an ever-widening sea of asphalt creating heavy loads on drainage and sewer facilities from oil deposits, trash and run-off," he said.

"Air pollution from traffic jams and slow-moving automobiles in large parking areas makes adjacent residential areas less desirable, and, in some instances, has been a factor in influencing better housing growth to move still further into suburbia. The cycle then begins again with the undesirable side effects of extending high-cost community services for fire, police, sewage, causing the property tax rate to increase even further," Corbin said.

CORBIN SAID that the point of saturation for regional and super regional centers is at hand. He sees growth in shopping center business, at least during the next five years, in the community center occupying 15 to 20 acres or less, the conversions of downtowns into enclosed, regional-type centers, and the rehabilitation of older centers of all sizes.

Corbin said there are many opportunities for professional property managers in these new centers if they follow certain guidelines.

"First," he says, "if at all possible, become a member of the team during the development phase." Managers who get involved as early as possible, he said, are in a better position to catch architectural mistakes, review leases to judge if they are practical, and better understand the proposed tenant mix.

"Next," said Corbin, "write a contract which defines your authority and responsibilities, as well as those of the owner. This contract becomes the basis for day-to-day management in accordance with the management plan developed to meet the owner's goals."

House sales at near record: unit

Sales of existing single-family homes in October continued at near the record-setting pace established in September, according to the latest monthly existing home sales report of the National Assn. of Realtors.

Kenneth J. Kerin, director of economics and research for the association, said that existing single-family homes were sold at a seasonally adjusted rate of 3,290,000 units during the month.

The figure is 1.2 per cent below September's record pace of 3,330,000 units, but 19.6 per cent above October 1976 when an estimated 2,750,000 transactions occurrred.

"A PLENTIFUL supply of mortgage credit throughout most of 1976 has spurred the single-family market to new heights," Kerin said. "During the first 10 months an estimated 2,569,000 homes actually were sold, making 1976 the best year ever for the resale market. In the previous record year, 1975, 2,452,000 homes were sold. There are still two months to report for 1976."

During October, an estimated 245,000 singe-family homes were sold in the United States. The figure represents an increase of 26,000 units over the same month in 1975.

The highest October regional total was recorded in the South where an estimated 87,000 homes were sold during the month. The North Central region followed with 70,000 transactions. Trailing behind were the West, with an estimated 49,000 transactions, the Northeast, with 39,000.

Total value of the existing single-family homes sold during the month was an estimated $10.4 billion, the report says, $1.9 billion more than the total recorded in October 1975.

THE SOUTH LED all regions in total value of homes sold, with $3.5 billion. In the remaining regions, the West recorded an estimated $2.6 billion in sales, the North Central $2.5 billion and the Northeast $1.8 billion.

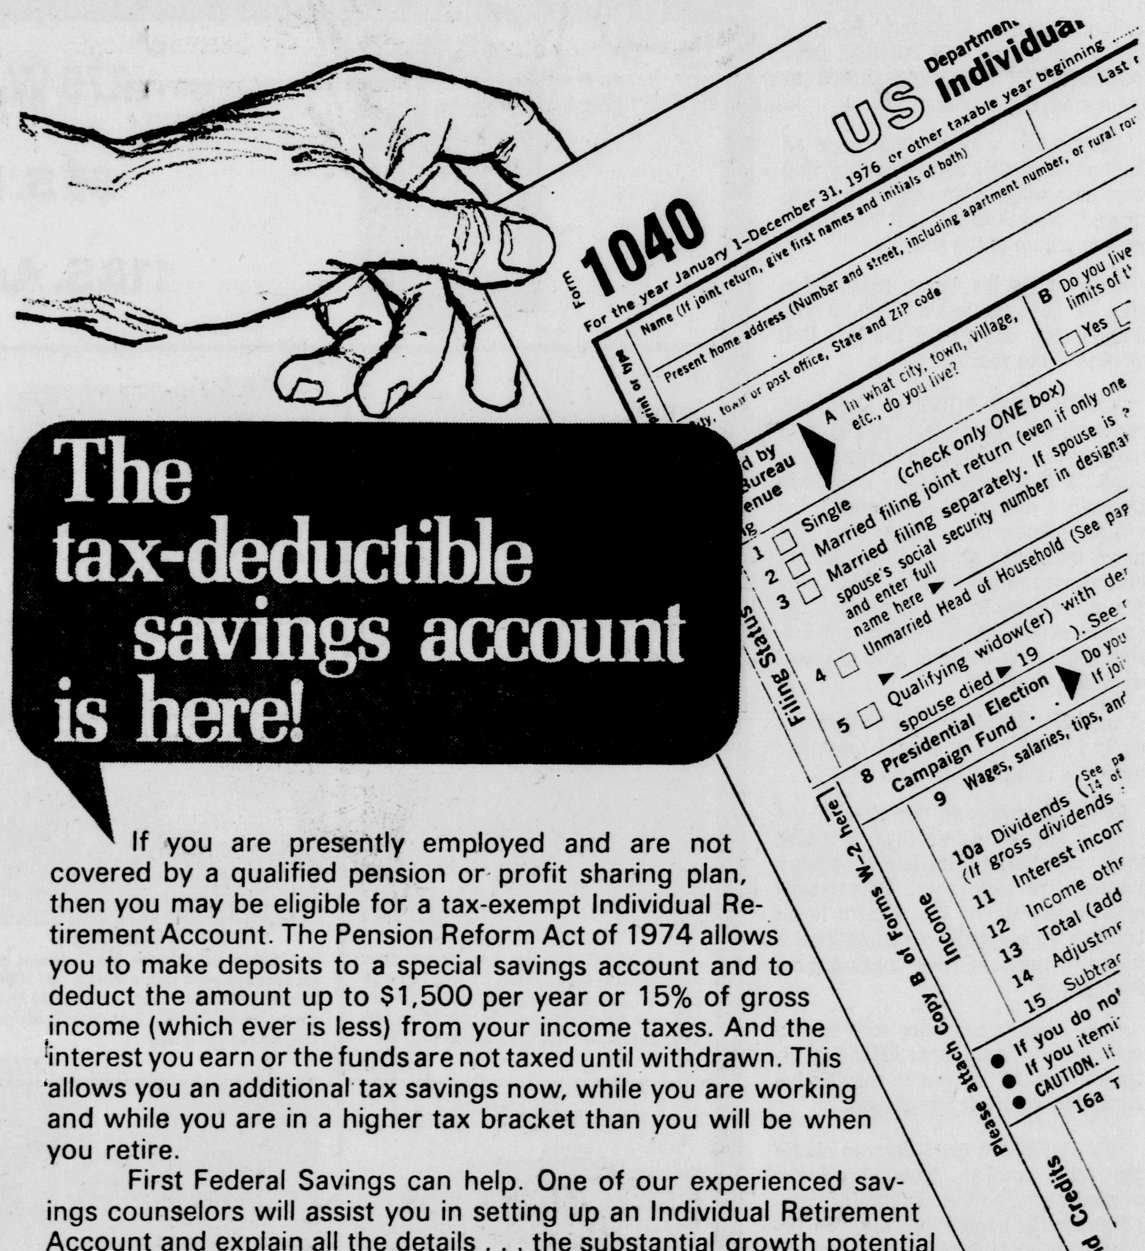
Compared with a year ago, the median sales price of existing single-family homes moved up 8.8 per cent to $38,500 in October. The rise marks the 12th consecutive month that the year-to-year price rise has been less than 10 per cent.

By region, prices in the West continued to increase at a faster pace than the rest of the nation. The median price in the West was $48,300 in October, 19 per cent higher than a year ago.

In the remaining regions the median prices and rate of increase over last year were as follows: North Central, $33,500, 10.6 per cent; Northeast, $41,200, 6.7 per cent and South, $35,900, 4.1 per cent.

In spite of increasing utility costs, buyer interest in homes with four or more bedrooms continues, according to the report. October sales of existing single-family homes in this category constituted 25.4 per cent of the market. The figure is only slightly less than the 25.8 per cent figure recorded a year ago.

Home sales in the $30,000-39,000 range continued to outnumber any other $10,000 range nationally in October, with sales in this category accounting for 22.1 per cent of the market. The second highest total was for homes in the $40,000-49,000 category. Homes in that range accounted for 17.9 per cent of the market in October.



The tax-deductible savings account is here!

If you are presently employed and are not covered by a qualified pension or profit sharing plan, then you may be eligible for a tax-exempt Individual Retirement Account. The Pension Reform Act of 1974 allows you to make deposits to a special savings account and to deduct the amount up to $1,500 per year or 15% of gross income (which ever is less) from your income taxes. And the interest you earn or the funds are not taxed until withdrawn. This allows you an additional tax savings now, while you are working and while you are in a higher tax bracket than you will be when you retire.

First Federal Savings can help. One of our experienced savings counselors will assist you in setting up an Individual Retirement Account and explain all the details . . . the substantial growth potential provided by the compounding of interest . . . how your savings account will not be subject to market fluctuations . . . and your funds will earn from the day of deposit until you begin to withdraw them. Owners need to know buying terms

Empty condo upkeep fees fair

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

Many persons who buy condominiums are not well versed in what their responsibilities entail in that kind of transaction. The following letter is an example of one such problem.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: When my parents sold their house, they bought a condominium in a medium-rise apartment building. They occupied it for approximately one year.

Last winter my mother and dad went to Florida for a month to visit relatives. While they were there, my father took sick and has not returned to his apartment since then. The apartment has been empty for almost nine months.

I have been making the mortgage payments for them, but have refused to make maintenance payments, since it is obvious they are not using the elevator, having their trash picked up, burdening the doorman, or any other similar expenses that the monthly maintenance charge covers.

The organization responsible for managing the building is threatening to have the apartment sold unless I make an immediate payment to cover monthly maintenance for the past nine months. Do you think this is fair? — VACANT CONDO

To you, of course, it is not fair. But it is also not fair to the other owners in the building. The monthly charges for upkeep must be paid, whether you occupy your apartment or not.

Under your maintenance agreement, there is no provision made for empty units. Therefore, I'd say you are responsible for the payments. I suggest also that if it doesn't seem as though your parents will return, you think about selling the apartment.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: there is a very attractive girl in our apartment building. I've had my eye on her for some time. After flirting with her on the elevator for many months, my message finally got across last week.

At two o'clock in the afternoon we were both in my apartment in a very intimate situation. Lo and behold, the maintenance man opened the door with his passkey and marched in! He said he was looking for a leak.

The girl screamed so loudly they could hear her on the first floor. I don't want to go into detail about what happened after that, but believe me, my reputation is ruined in this building. I would move except for the fact that I just signed a two-year lease. Can I sue the management of the building, since none of this would have happened if their man hadn't barged in unannounced? —LUNCHTIME COWBOY.

The typical apartment lease has a clause in it stating that the owner or his agent can enter your apartment at any reasonable hour to inspect the premises or make repairs. If you were making love in the evening, you might have a claim.

As things stand, I think two o'clock in the afternoon would be considered a reasonable hour. This is why many people install their own chain locks on the inside of the door. If someone entering sees that the chain is on, there is an immediate signal that someone is in the apartment.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: The heat has been on in my house for several weeks, and some of the radiators don't seem to heat up. It does not seem to make any difference where I place the thermostat.

Does this sound serious to you? —STEAM HEAT.

It may be a very simple problem. There may be air in your hot water radiators. This air acts as a block and prevents water from circulating through the system. Most radiators have a little "bleeding" valve on the side. You can buy a key at any hardware store which will operate this.

Simply open this valve and let the air out. As soon as water comes through the valve, close it. If you are on the top floor and can't get any water at all, this probably means that there is not enough water in your system.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: We just moved to the suburbs and bought a house on a wooded lot that has many trees. Within the past month, we find that all of the leaves are on our lawn, and none are on the trees. Should we get rid of the leaves? Someone told us they keep the lawn warm over the winter. Others have told us they are bad for the lawn. —WHICH IS TRUE?

Get rid of the leaves now. They will keep your grass from growing. They are much easier to remove in the fall when they are light, and can be easily raked.

If you try to remove them in the spring, they will be wet and soggy, and require 10 times the effort.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: We have decided to do some renovating in our house. The question I have is, how many bids should I obtain from contractors? Please answer this as soon as possible, because we are anxious to start work. —REMODELER.

The optimum number of bids to obtain is three. This is enough to give you a sufficient reading on what it should cost to have the work done.

More bids than this are usually unnecessary. You may find that it is very difficult today to obtain even one estimate, let alone three. It takes much persistence and telephone calling, but you should find, in the long run, that it is well worth it.

"MONEY TALKS"

DONALD F. MORTON PRES.

If you are deferring the purchase of a home until interest rates come down, you get an "A" for trying to make the most of your money but an "F" for making the wrong decision.

The question here is not so much if and how far interest rates will decline as how much housing prices will rise.

Long-term interest rates such as those applicable to home mortgage loans are slower to change than the short-term interest rates which make the news headlines. They don't hit the same extremes.

Economists specializing in the home mortgage market anticipate a decline in interest rates of not more than one-quarter to one-half a percentage point over the next six to twelve months.

On the other hand, home prices are increasing at an average annual rate of approximately 10 percent. There is little likelihood, with increasing lumber prices, labor costs, zoning laws, building codes, and environmental restrictions, that this annual rate can be slowed down.

If you believe that the ceiling has been reached on how much the home buyer is willing to pay, take a look at the experience of our Canadian neighbors. In mid-year 1976, the least expensive lots in Vancouver, British Colombia, ranged from $34,000 to $37,000 for a 33-foot lot. The largest increase in residential land prices was in an area where in nine months a 60 to 70 foot lot increased 23 percent to a minimum $80,000. The average price of real estate sales handled through the Vancouver multiple listing service was $68,900.

Economists for the United States League of Savings Associations have tabulated break-even points between declining interest rates and rising housing costs. Their tables show that if you are interested in a $40,000 home, for which you have $10,000 available for down payment and can obtain an 80 percent loan at 9 percent, and you decide to wait a year in hope of getting a mortgage loan at 8 percent, the house must appreciate in value 7.243 percent (considerably under the average) in the 12-month period for you to come out even.

If the mortgage rate dropped to only 8.5 percent within a year, the house you desire would have to appreciate only 3.483 percent in market value or you would be a loser.

Similarly, at a current mortgage loan rate of 8.5 percent, a drop of a hoped-for full point to 7.5 percent in the next year would have to be paralleled by a below-average rise of 7.473 percent in the house sales price for you to break even.

Home ownership, now rather than later, continues to be a good investment, just as it has been for anyone whose memory goes as far back as the 1930s.

Winter OK for home sales: broker

Contrary to what many people advise, this is an excellent time to sell a relatively new subdivision home or any home in good shape, says one broker.

Robert Starck, president of Starck & Co. with offices in Mount Prospect, Lake Zurich, Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and Palatine, says homebuying is no longer limited to just spring, summer and fall.

"People buy a home and move as their needs dictate and when they find what they want. With corporate transferees," says Starck, "that can be almost any time of the year."

Starck says his buyer market begins to heat up around Jan. 2 and doesn't slow down until the late Fall months of the year.

"COME THE FIRST of the year, corporations promote, retire and move people around in large quantities. Most transferees are looking in December and right on through the winter months for a home they can move into right away without having to make too many repairs. That's why it's an especially good market for owners of the relatively-new subdivision home or a home in good physical condition," he said.

Another advantage this year, especially for the seller, is that mortgage money is still plentiful, says Starck.

Some advantage to this time of the year is the real estate firms increase their advertising from late November through the new year. This means more emphasis on the seller's home because he's usually competing with fewer homes in the marketplace, Starck says.

Also, he says, salesmen tend to give each seller's home more individual attention during the winter months because "there are fewer of them."

"IT TAKES 10 to 15 days to obtain the photographs, have brochures printed and plan the advertising campaign for the home," he said. "So December is a good month to take care of the myriad details connected with marketing the home. It also puts the home in a 'market-ready' position Jan. 2 when the homebuyer market really opens up."

Actually Starck said, his firm does 25 per cent of their sales volume in the first three months of the year.

"For one thing, sellers find fewer lookers bothering them needlessly. Usually people we take out in the winter months are really serious homebuyers."

He estimated the approximate "looking" time for a transferee from only one day in many cases to from 30 to 60 days. "They usually want to get relocated fast so that the family is separated as little as possible. They may even be moving during their children's Christmas vacation."

In any case, Starck advises homesellers not to follow what they think is popular opinion and beliefs but to check out their theories of when the best time is to sell their particular home with their local broker.

'Home construction outlook good'

Construction of apartments and single-family homes should continue to improve in 1977, according to the monthly mortgage trends bulletin of Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago.

In viewing the outlook for the coming year, Home Federal said housing's bright prospects stem substantially from the continued savings gains at savings and loan associations.

"In recent months, the build-up in the supply of mortgage money has been so strong that it has produced a softening in mortgage rates," Home Federal said.

"The softening in mortgage rates has been particularly significant in the secondary market, but rates in the Chicagoland primary market also have dropped and continue under pressure."

Home Federal, which has offices in the Loop and in the suburbs of Brookfield, Buffalo Grove, Hazel Crest and Winnetka, added that market conditions are likely to continue favorable for borrowers through the winter months, with an ample supply of mortgage money and a scramble for loans among lenders.

"This winter conditions are likely to be even better than usual."

Home Federal also noted that the big problem facing the new Carter Administration will be how to increase the pace of economic recovery without triggering a new inflationary boom and a major new spiral in interest rates.

And it noted that the views of President-elect Carter show that he will be an active president so far as housing is concerned.

"President-elect Carter will find elements of sluggishness in the economy and some leading indicators pointing downward," the bulletin said, "but housing is not a negative force.

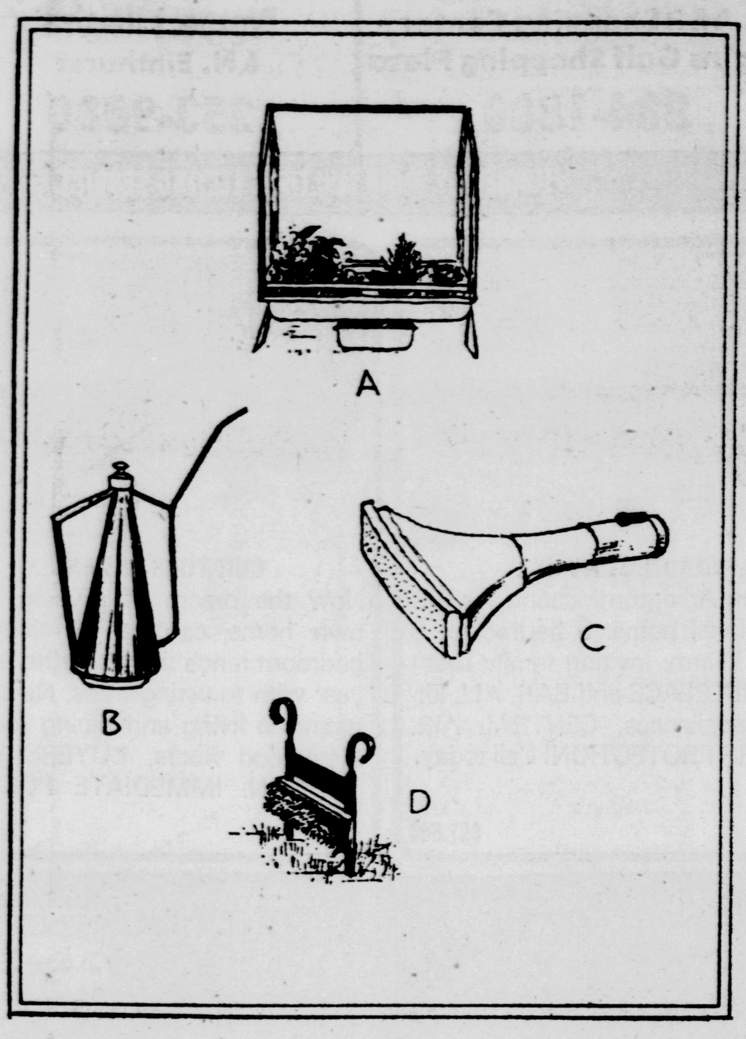
New gadget



Christmas gifts for plant people

Shopping for gifts for gardeners and plant lovers is relatively easy. The greatest problem is finding something they don't already have. However, this, too, is fairly simple since each year brings new things on the market to please the plantsman. Sometimes these are only old things in new forms, but often they include worthwhile improvements.

Take, for instance, he little greenhouse shown in Sketch A. This is not a new idea, but this one can be folded up for storage when not in use. It will accept two 15 watt fluorescent tubes for lighting and it is automatically watered with wicks from water in a tray beneath it.

In this little structure you can maintain a humid atmosphere that is ideal for starting seeds and for growing a great variety of house plants. Its dimensions are two feet long by two feet high by 18 inches wide.

THE MODERN-LOOKING copper-colored watering can in Sketch B is 12 inches tall and has a seven-inch spout for pouring. The long spout makes it ideal for watering plants in a group where foliage makes it difficult to use a pitcher or watering can with a shorter spout. This can is also equipped with a push sprayer attachment so that you can use it for misting plants. Misting is esepcially valuable when plants are growing in a warm dry room.

Sprinkling newly planted seeds as well as seedlings is sometimes difficult with an ordinary hose nozzle. If the stream is too strong, you can wash out both seeds and seedlings. The fan spray shown in Sketch C eliminates this difficulty.

With 87 small holes water sprays gently from this sprinkler. It comes equipped with a metal spike that fastens to the spray head so that you can plunge the spike into the ground, setting it at any angle you desire. You can also use it as a hand sprinkler.

Anyone who lives where heavy clay builds up on feet after working in the garden on wet days will welcome the shoe scraper and brush combination illustrated in Sketch D. This practical gadget easily removes mud and dirt from your shoes.

It's your landscape

Brown elected frat head

Gavin A. Brown, assistant director of education for the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America, has been elected national president of Rho Epsilon professional real estate fraternity.

The election was held at the association's national convention, which meets in conjunction with the National Assn. of Realtors convention in Houston.

Brown, who began his career by selling real estate in Colorado, is a former director of the Academic Real Estate Program at Eastern New Mexico University. He has been associated with Rho Epsilon since 1969.

Also elected were B.E. Tsagris from California State University, Fullerton, national vice president; Bruce N. Wardrep from East Carolina University, national secretary; Jerry T. Ferguson from Virginia Commonwealth University, national treasurer.

Rho Epsilon was founded in 1947 as a professional collegiate fraternity for those students interested in study or pursuit of a career in real estate. The fraternity has 21 local chapters on college and university campuses.

Inner city management plagued with problems

The management of inner city properties is different and more difficult than other types of housing management according to Joe L. Mattox, Certified Property Manager (CPM) and president of Addis Professional Management in Kansas City, Mo.

Mattox, who has studied the reasons unique problems are associated with inner city management, states they range from the diverse lifestyles of inner city tenants to the economic and social inequalities that cocoon the entire black community. He groups the various reasons under five headings: lifestyles, attitudes and values of tenants; the family folkways of black people; the welfare agencies; bad management; and economic and social inequalities imposed on the entire central city.

As an example, Mattox points out that "many inner city residents have an attitude that no one place is home and that every address is only temporary. They have been made to move many times either for being a bad tenant or for not paying their rent. When people don't care if they live in decent housing or a slum, management can only hope that such tenants do not tear up a building, that they keep their apartments clean so as not to cause rats and roaches, and they don't use public area electricity when their lights have eeen cut off."

Bad management is also cited by Mattox as a strong contributing factor towards inner city problems.

"Some surveys show that small management firms are involved in more proven cases of bad management than large management organizations," says Mattox. "One reason is that a few managers backed into the property management profession and didn't know what they were doing. Several years ago there were novice managers who did not know the difference between mortgagee and mortgagor, cash flow and debt service and invoice and purchase order."

Mattox emphasizes the need for good tenants to move into the inner city. "Housing projects need a majority of their residents to be good tenants. Inner city projects are 90 per cent occupied but are hurting for good tenants. Those individuals with money to pay their rent and who want a decent, safe and pleasant place to live are running away from the inner city because of redlining, denial of insurance, inadequate street lights and police protection, no code enforcement and street improvements and poor trash collection and park maintenance."

'Phantom' landlord causes problems

by Don G. Campbell

Landlord-tenant relationships — which can get sticky under the best of circumstances — need very few complications to become completely impossible.

There's the landlord, for instance, who sets himself up as the guardian of his tenant's morals. Or the tenant who owns neither broom nor dusting cloth. Or, there's the landlord who is invisible.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

We (myself and two teen-aged children) rented our home through a reputable broker and never met our landlord until the night before we moved in. When we were shown the house, about Aug. 1, the broker said that the landlord would:

- fill in the unfinished opening between the living room and bedroom where he had started to make a doorway,
- finish the uncompleted electrical outlets and lights in the bath, kitchen and basement,
- wash the basement carpet which was extremely soiled and smelled, and
- move his things from the shed in the backyard.

None of these things were in the lease which I signed on Aug. 10, but the broker reiterated that they would be taken care of. The owner gave me the key Saturday night, Aug. 14 and we moved in the following day. He said that he would be back the following Monday to move his things out of the basement and yard and to complete the work.

I haven't seen him since. He hasn't responded to my letters and has an unlisted phone number. On the advice of the broker, I mailed my rent to what I feel is an incomplete address, but I wanted to carry out my part of the bargain. The broker says the landlord has broken the lease, but I'm afraid to move out and afraid to fix things without his permission. I can't move his possessions and we can't utilize the basement. Mrs. V. C. (Bath, Penn.)

A. You can't do business with a phantom. I think that you have no legal or moral obligation to honor this lease. The understanding was apparently witnessed by the real estate broker and I am inclined to agree with him that the landlord has, in effect, "constructively evicted" you.

This occurs when the landlord — by either doing something, or failing to do something — lets the physical condition of the property become unsuited for the tenant's peaceful enjoyment of it. I don't think he would have a leg to stand on in trying to bring action against you if you moved out.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I read with interest your recent column on "points," in which you made the statement that "the law forbids the buyer from paying the points in the case of a VA loan." In our case, we bought a $44,950 home with such a loan, paying a $1,000 deposit held by the real estate firm. The first we heard of points was at settlement where it was listed as an "origination fee" at 1 per cent, or $449.50. Were we required to pay this amount because we made no down payment? Mrs. J. J. J. (Silver Spring, Md.)

A. No, the expense had nothing to do with your down payment — or lack of down payment. The origination fee has nothing to do with points, but is compensation to the lender for the documentation and the over-all bookwork involved in setting up the mortgage, which in all fairness to the lenders, is indeed a very expensive procedure.

Normally, there is no origination fee in the case of conventional mortgages — only on VA and FHA mortgages where it is customary for the buyer to pay it. The points you made reference to (a sweetener to the lender to compensate him for a possible gap between VA and FHA interest ceilings and conventional interest rates) are paid by the seller in VA and FHA mortgates and by the buyer in conventional mortgages.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I was disappointed in the answer you gave to the elderly couple about the noise coming from their neighbor's air conditioner. I, too, am a victim of such harassment — not for one, but two, air conditioners. In asking for relief from the noise I have been subject to further harassment. Machines that stick out of windows should be outlawed. My only alternative is to move after a lifetime investment in my home. Mrs. G. N. (Cheektowaga, N.Y.)

A. I'll be the first to admit that my "solution" to her problem (mount her own air conditioner in the window abutting the neighbor's) wasn't without its flaws. But, since the couple definitely didn't want to move (like you) and since such units are NOT illegal, I could think of no suggestion but that of installing a competing unit to muffle the noise of the neighbor's.

Urban sprawl blankets Hong Kong coastal area

by PAUL LOONG

HONG KONG (UPI) — Ancient folk tales in Hong Kong's New Territories tell of a peasant woman who waited so long for the return of her husband's ship that she turned into a rock.

The Amah Rock — an outcrop which looks like a woman carrying a child on her back — still stands atop the hill overlooking Sha Tin valley today.

But the valley has been transformed beyond recognition.

The shallow cove, which once snuggled up to the villages and rice paddies, has been filled in; thus barring forever the return of that mythical ship bearing the woman's husband.

On the reclaimed land now stand blocks of high-rise public housing buildings. And work crews with bulldozers and piledrivers operate throughout the day to put up more structures. As one of the government's four planned "self-contained" new towns, Sha Tin will provide accommodations and work places for 500,000 persons. The valley's population before development was about 30,000.

With the completion of Sha Tin, Tai Po, Tuen Mun and Tseun Wan new towns, the government plans to house 40 per cent of the projected population — or 2.5 million persons — in the New Territory by 1986.

Officials said this urban encroachment on the New Territories, made up of some 366 square miles of land leased to Britain until 1997 by China during the Ching Dynasty — is necessary to relieve urban congestion. More than 85 per cent of Hong Kong's 4.4 million persons live in less than 20 square miles of urban areas, resulting in one of the world's highest population densities.

Actual construction for these projects still is in the initial stage. But already the government has had to acquire about 5 million square feet of land each year over the past three years for public purposes. This probably will continue for the next 8 to 10 years, officials said.

Rapid development of this once rural and agricultural area — which offers tourists a glimpse of the Chinese countryside — will bring changes in many aspects of life to its existing 400,000 inhabitants — sometimes irretrievably.

Up until September of this year, official figures showed that 14,195 persons had been directly affected by the development. And more will follow.

People have lived and farmed in the New Territories for centuries. Sha Tin, for example, was inhabited by rice farmers in the Ming Dynasty (1368-1644) and perhaps earlier. The rice crops have given way to market gardening in recent years. The construction of the new town, together with Hong Kong's second race course and private development, have rendered agriculture impossible in large areas of the once fertile valley.

To make way for a six-lane highway to Tuen Mun, the government is to clear about 100 buildings and 50,000 square feet of land along the western coast of the New Territories. In Tuen Mun itself, a million square feet of land is needed just for the factories which will employ the tens of thousands of people who will live there before the next decade.

Villagers uprooted from their ancestral homes have to find new ways to make a living: in factories, restaurants and other jobs in town. Farmers who have lived off the land in wooden huts now have to learn to live in concrete high-rise buildings.

Many accepted some form of compensation and quietly set about adapting to their new lives. Some, like the fisherfolk in the cove of Sha Tin and in Sai Kung, reacted violently to change and fought with police who had come to evict them.

All, however, gave way eventually.

Speaking about the "disruption" of the lives of the people, Sec. for the New Territories David Akers-Jones said "... in the end, whatever the house you have lived in, the pattern of compensation, the wrench from the life you have established, is considerable and we should and must make allowance for it."

He said Hong Kong is "a society whose traditional values and structure is being shaken from within and without."

The deserted villages, the ancient rice fields resting at the bottom of reservoirs and the filled valleys can be called "lamentable" remnants of a way of life disrupted by urban encroachment.

"But by far the most formidable and pressing encroachment has been that of, and for, people — homes, work, recreation, even rubbish dumps for people," Akers-Jones said.

The development of the New Territories is "not just an urban overspill but part of a deliberate process" to provide a better life for the teeming millions in this small British territory, he said.

"And all this has meant land: hills cut, valleys filled, seas reclaimed," he said.

"Gradually the threads and sinews of urban life have spread to enmesh and make indissoluble the life of town and country," he said.

Leasing agent moves into bank

J. R. Gottlieb & Associates, leasing agent for the First National Bank Building and the Des Plaines Mall, has opened leasing offices in Suite 600 of the Bank Building.

Now under construction, the new First National Bank Building will offer ten floors of commercial space for occupancy in mid-1977. The bank will move into its new facilities at the corner of Lee and Prairie in the early spring.

The Des Plaines Mall, offering three floors of commercial retail spaces, is scheduled to open in June.

Both the new First National Bank Building and the Des Plaines Mall are part of Superblock, the major redevelopment of the downtown Des Plaines business district, which began in 1975.

SUSPENDED CEILINGS, once dull coverups for cracked or broken plaster, now come in handsome patterns and textures. This rustic model disguises the grid in the over-all ceiling design.

New type suspended ceiling makes grid part of design

Suspended ceilings have for years been recognized for their economy, versatility and ease of installation. They're ideal for lowering a high ceiling, covering damaged plaster or finishing off a new room. And anyone handy with tools can complete the job in a few evenings.

Unfortunately, the decorative appeal of these ceilings has been limited.

Suspended ceilings are the type that employe large (usually 2 by 4 foot) panels which fit into an exposed metal grid system. The metal supports are required to hold up the ceiling, but do nothing to enhance finished appearance.

IN FACT, MANY people feel that grid-type ceilings are too "commercial" looking for use anywhere but the household hinterlands. As a result, suspended ceilings have traditionally been relegated to basements and attics where they produce a clean, modern appearance but not much visual excitement.

Now, all that is changing.

A new line of suspended ceilings developed by Armstrong blends board and grid into a totally integrated design effect. You can't tell where the ceiling pattern ends and the grid begins. The result is a pleasing sweep of texture and design, extending uninterrupted from wall to wall.

For traditional interiors, there's a rustic board and plank effect called Scotch Pine. Another new pattern, Royal Oak, simulates the popular look of hand-troweled plaster and wood.

While resembling the real thing, these ceilings are actually made of mineral fiber, which is dimensionally stable, washable and fire-retardant. Materials for a 12 by 15 foot room cost less than $140.

So lowering a ceiling no longer means lowering your decorating standards. Today's suspended ceiling can hang in there with the best of home furnishings in the best of rooms — not as a mere cosmetic, but as a full-fledged, dues-paying component of the indoor world.

Realtors urged to back community programs

Philip C. Smaby, president of the National Assn. of Realtors, has called upon the nearly 500,000 members of his organization to support local programs in 1977 which will benefit their communities.

"Politics never stop with the general elections," he said. "There are always public improvements being considered in most communities. Realtors are especially qualified to talk to voters about these projects because they are experts on the land use and tax base of their communities."

He said Article One of the Realtors Code of Ethics, which a real estate broker says he will support when he joins the National Association of Realtors, states that a Realtor should keep informed on matters affecting real estate in his area and contribute to public thinking on such matters.

"Realtors are urged by the association to take part in explaining such projects by being speakers at public meetings, giving interviews on radio and television and providing information to newspaper editors," he added.

Even though real estate already carries more than its share of the tax burden in most local governments throughout America, Smaby said Realtors share the responsibility to improve the quality of life in their communities. Improvement projects can include new streets and bridges, parks, playgrounds, nighttime illumination, educational facilities, new city halls, new sanitation projects, water systems and the like.

"Realtors must judge each referendum by its impact on the community," Smaby said. "They determine the value of the improvement to the community in terms of how it will enhance the quality of life for the people there. If a referendum meets those requirements, Realtors will work to promote its passage. Not all referenda contribute to the economic or social health of a community, so each one must be considered carefully on its own merit."

The 69-year-old National Association of Realtors serves about 1,700 local boards and associations in 50 states plus the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is the nation's largest business-trade organization.

Seay & Thomas appointed developer of new center

Seay & Thomas, Inc., has been named developer and exclusive leasing and management agents for the Park Plaza Shopping Center in Schaumburg. Robert P. Weber CSM, will be in charge of leasing.

Park Plaza is located at the intersection of Irving Park and Wise roads in the rapidly expanding northwest suburban area. The center has a total of 193,000 square feet.

Leases have been negotiated for a 106,000 square foot Woolco Department Store and a 36,300 square foot A & P. The balance of the available store space should lease out rapidly, according to Weber.

THE WOOLCO STORE is expected to open in March, 1977. The A & P and a free standing 3,600 square foot Lum's restaurant will open in February. Three of the smaller stores are leased and negotiations are underway with seven others for spring occupancy.

"With only a total of eighteen stories available, the individual tenant is well showcased," Weber said. "And the stores offered to them are in virtually a turn-key condition. The merchant will only have to provide his floor covering and decorating."

Park Plaza features parking for 1100 cars and has high visibility from the heavily traveled Irving Park Road at its intersection with Wise Road.

Both are main routes in that area, according to Weber. Park Plaza will also benefit from a signalized entryway that will be completed in the summer of 1977 and will be the only shopping center in the area having this safety and easy ingress/egress feature.

THE AREA WHERE Park Plaza is located is another major advantage to retailers. Between 1970 and 1975 Schaumburg's population grew from 18,730 to 37,400, a 99.7 per cent increase. The center also serves Hanover Park which has experienced a growth in population from 11,916 to 20,468, an increase of 71.4 per cent during the same period.

Median family incomes in the two suburbs have grown substantially in five years. Schaumburg incomes between 1970 and 1975 increased from $13,888 to $19,030, a 37 per cent increase.

During the same period, Hanover Park's median family incomes grew from $12,902 to $17,680, also an increase of 37 per cent.

Seay & Thomas has been appointed as development and leasing agent of Park Plaza because of its total in-house capability to handle construction management through leasing and property management. It is one of few firms in the Chicago area to offer this service for shopping centers to outside clients.

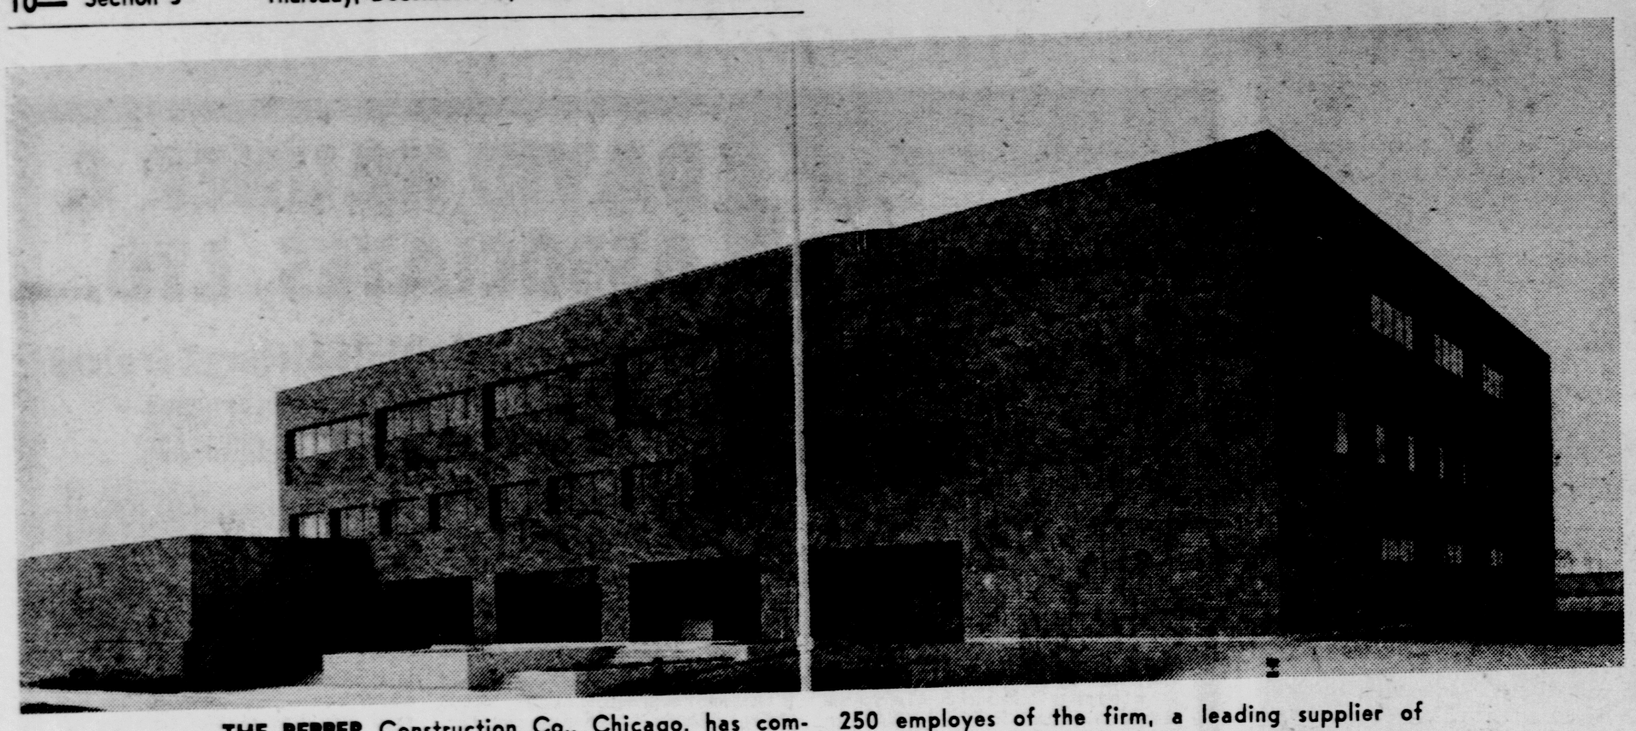
Four Convenient Offices Serving the Northwest Chicago Suburbs since 1949

Watch for our new Hanover Park-Streamwood Office — OPENING SOON!



THE PEPPER Construction Co., Chicago, has completed work on this 96,000-square-foot regional headquarters for the Hewlett-Packard Co., 5201 Tollview Dr., Rolling Meadows. The building houses 250 employes of the firm, a leading supplier of electronic test and measurement instruments, calculators, minicomputers and medical and analytical systems.

Suburban office expenses told

During 1975, average total vacancies and delinquent rents for suburban office buildings in the U.S. and Canada ran 51 cents per square foot or 7.8 per cent of the gross possible total collections, according to the 1976 Income/Expense Analysis: Suburban Office Buildings, a new publication, published by the Institute of Real Estate Management.

It contains data from 163 suburban office buildings located in more than 50 cities.

According to the analysis, average total operating costs, which exclude such items as ground rent, capital expenditures, mortgage interest, amortization, depreciation, or income taxes, were 47.8 per cent of average gross possible total collections or $3.14 per square foot. The entire sample indicated that actual collections for office space averaged $5.75 per square foot.

THE ANALYSIS, WHICH makes regional as well as national comparisons, found that vacancies and delinquencies were highest (13.2 per cent) in the Pacific southwest, including California and Arizona, and lowest (2.8 per cent) in the northeast coastal region extending from Maine to Virginia. Average total operating costs were highest for projects in the Midwest, including Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Ohio, while average costs were lowest in the Southeastern U.S.

Average rents were highest, $6.65 per square foot, for the Pacific southwest and lowest, $4.52 per square foot, in Canada.

The 1976 Income/Expense Analysis: Suburban Office Buildings also provides data according to age of buildings, size in square feet, and rental rate ranges. Included are national average, regional comparisons, and detailed analyses of 15 cities.

Income and expense figures for suburban office buildings are compared based on gross area of entire buildings, gross rentable area of offices, and net rentable areas. Comparisons are made on a dollars-per-square foot basis.

The book is designed as an invaluable aid in determining the market value of a suburban office building, as well as appraising or managing one.

'Grab' low rates on home loans, Caruso urges "Grab it and run," says a prominent suburban Realtor of the new, lower interest rate structure on F.H.A. and V.A. home loans.

Richard Caruso, president of Rich Port, Realtor, notes that "the rollback of F.H.A. and V.A. rates by the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent is a windfall for those contemplating the purchase of a home within the next few years." But he warns that only those who act immediately can be sure of picking up the benefits.

"As recently as three months ago," Caruso said, "economists were predicting a gradual firming of mortgage rates as a prelude to eventual increases. In the long run, these pessimistic predictions may prove accurate, but for the time being, home buyers with little or nothing to offer in the way of down payments may freeze thousands of dollars in mortgage money at bargain rates, and keep that freeze in effect for as long as 30 years. The direct savings to the buyer can run into thousands, in addition to the comfort of knowing that for the entire life of the loan, the interest rate may not be raised."

"SINCE F.H.A. and V.A. mortgages typically represent most of the purchase price," Caruso said, "this can have the effect of stopping one's inflation dead in its tracks for the next quarter century. But again, this bonanza will probably be unavailable to those who fail to make a move right now. We don't exactly know when, of course, but we are certain that this is but a brief, however welcome, pause in the upward march of interest rates. It is, in fact, just possible that we're seeing 8 per cent money in the F.H.A.-V.A. market for the last time."

Caruso said those with future homeowning plans should seek "competent advice on how to take maximum advantage of the new opportunities, and this does not mean taking the word of part-time practitioners who are only marginally informed about the current mortgage market."

While hailing the reduced mortgage rates, Caruso said that "history has taught us to treat sudden pauses in mortgages trends like the eye of a hurricane. Those who mistakenly conclude that the storm has ended may pay for their complacency with the very roof over their heads. Buyers who act now, will enjoy reduced housing costs for the next twenty-five years or more. Those who procrastinate will sadly look back on this period as the 'good old days' when they had the opportunity and muffed it."

Cleveland man to head realty management unit

Joseph T. Aveni, CPM, president of Hilltop Management Co., Cleveland, Ohio, will head the Institute of Real Estate Management in 1977.

Aveni was elected president of that national association of professional property managers during the recent IREM Annual Convention, in Houston, Texas.

Aveni has served IREM in a variety of capacities including regional vice-president and chairman of the experience exchange committee. In addition, he has chaired both the membership services and communications division councils of IREM.

A past president of the IREM Cleveland chapter, Aveni received that chapter's "Manager of the Year" award in 1973. He also is a recipient of the Cleveland Apartment-Home Owners' Association's "Man of the Year" award. Aveni served as president of that association in 1971, 1972 and 1973.

Erwin B. Drucker, CPM, a partner in the firm Drucker & Falk, Real Estate and Insurance, Newport News, Virginia, will serve as president-elect in 1977. Drucker served as IREM Secretary in 1976.

A graduate of the University of Virginia and Harvard Law School (cum laude), Drucker has been vice-director of Course I for the Institute of Real Estate Management, and also chaired the membership services division during 1976.

The post of IREM secretary will be held by Joseph C. Murray, CPM, vice president and director of property management for Shannon & Luchs, Washington, D.C. Murray is a member of the IREM national faculty and a past president of the Washington, D.C. chapter of IREM. He served two terms as an IREM regional vice-president.

He was selected 1971 "Realtor of the Year" by the Washington Board of Realtors. He has served as a member of the Washington, D.C. Landlord-Tenant Advisory Commission. Murray has also been Program Director of a six-month Task Force Project of the National Corp. for Housing Partnerships probing management inadequacies in federally-subsidized housing.

Wallace J. Boothby, Jr. will assume the duties of IREM treasurer in 1977. Boothby is president of Boothby Realty in Birmingham, Ala.

Boothby has served as vice-chairman of a variety of IREM committees. He is a past president of the Alabama Chapter of IREM, the Mortgage Bankers of Alabama, and the Birmingham Board of Realtors.

The Institute of Real Estate Management is an association of more than 3,000 persons engaged in the field of property management, who have met stringent requirements in the areas of education, experience and commitment to a code of professional ethics. Individuals meeting the foregoing requirements receive the designation Certified Property Manager (CPM).

Indian-White land battle rips Massachusetts town

by STEWART POWELL

MASHPEE, Mass. (UPI) — The Northwest wind has pushed old timers indoors for coffee, warmth and the relaxed conversations of winter in a summer Cape Cod town.

But the winter of '76 is winter with a difference.

Suspicion, rumor and fear divide the grey-shingled town of 2,496 in the aftermath of a federal court suit by local Indians seeking ownership of 31 square miles of valuable real estate owned by whites.

RESIDENTS TALK reluctantly of the tensions generated by the suit, but tension is apparent.

"No one calls anybody an S.O.B. or anything like that," says selectman Kevin O'Connell, 37, a resident of the town for nine years. "What happens is people are kind of sheepish with each other."

Greens on a local golf course were scarred with lettered protests: "Give us back our land" and "Once a tree grew here," a selectman said. The office of a local real estate developer was riddled by gunfire.

No arrests have been made.

INDIANS CONTEND whites have clamped a boycott on the only two Indian-owned businesses in town, a restaurant and a fuel oil company.

Surrounding communities no longer accept Mashpee children for local schools, forcing the tiny community to face the prospect of building new schools.

It may take years for a dozen attorneys, including Richard Nixon's impeachment lawyer, James D. St. Clair, to settle the suit.

Some residents worry it may take a generation to repair friendships shaken by the contest of neighbor against neighbor.

OPENING ARGUMENTS are expected within weeks in U.S. District Court in Boston on the suit by the Mashpee Warmpanoag Indian Tribe against 132 white landowners, many of them land developers.

Indians claim ownership "from time immemorial" of 20,000 acres of land on the interior coast of Cape Cod. They contend Congress in 1790 barred the sale of Indian land without government approval.

The suit, filed on behalf of the 1,000 member tribes by the Native American Rights Fund, seeks land worth as much as $200 million, a town official said.

Win, lose or draw, the Indian suit has achieved its purpose.

DESCENDANTS OF the Indians who welcomed the Pilgrims to America's stark coastline have halted booming land speculation by white newcomers to a community once entirely Indian.

Scrub pine woods no longer are bulldozed into clusters of condominium apartments constructed and advertised to attract the well-to-do out-of-town white man.

"Non-Indians were treating the town as if it was their own business," said Russell Peters, president of the Indian organization that filed the suit. "We saw it as people taking advantage of something that has been held for many years."

Indians regained with the court suit the political power lost to the steady influx of whites. Whites had captured control of town government in recent years and Indians now make up only 20 per cent of the populatio once entirely Indian.

"WE'VE GONE from a sleepy little town to what is a big, prospering business enterprise," Peters said. "Development is what we're against."

Development has taken place since the early 1960s.

While Indians hope to save the town by ending development, white landowners and town officials fear the end of development spells doom for the 106-year-old town.

House sales have ceased. Land sales are frozen in the fashionable development of New Seabury where lawyers, judges and doctors have purchased homes costing as much as $300,000.

MORTGAGES HAVE been suspended.

Bank foreclosures already have begun on land developments financially crippled by cessation of land sales.

The twon has appropriated $50,000 for legal costs expected to total several hundred thousand dollars.

Town officials hope Congress will step in to guarantee federal payment for settlement of the suit, arguing the guarantee would dispell the legal cloud now hanging over town finances.

BUT INDIANS oppose "a political solution to a legal problem," fearful the entrance of Congress might force a cash settlement of the dispute rather than the return of land.

Facing a legal thicket that may take years to untangle, both sides have turned to public appeals.

Town officials argue the town "can't exist like this for another 8 or 12 months."

But Boston attorney Morris Kirsner, owner of a summer home in Mashpee and a special town counsel, puts the stakes even higher.

"If the tribe should be successful, it could have a shattering effect on the entire country," Kirsner said. "It would open up the door to reclamation of land in numerous states."

Realty board aids political group

The Chicago Real Estate Board led all realtor boards in the nation during 1976 in contributions to the Realtors Political Action Committee, said Board President Richard A. Rauch.

Members of the board contributed more than $30,000.00 this year to RPAC, which is a national political election campaign funding element of the Realtors' political liaison program. Money contributed by individuals is donated to the election campaigns of politicians at every level of government throughout the nation on a non-partisan basis.

In contributing the $30,000.00 CREB nearly doubled its 1976 collection goal. The campaign was led in Chicago by RPAC Chairman Idylle Rosenfeld of Eugene Matanky & Associates. It was the second consecutive year the Chicago Board was responsible for the largest contribution of any Board in Illinois.

The Chicago board also has more Life Members of RPAC than any other Board in the nation. Life Membership in RPAC is granted to persons who contribute $1,000.00 to RPAC in a calendar year. CREB has 16 RPAC Life Members, and the first Realtor in the nation to be a Life Member contributor twice.

Other Life Members of RPAC in Chicago are Helen Beierle of Wildwood Realty, Abel Berland of Arthur Rubloff & Co., Don D. Clark of John S. Clark & Sons, Nicholas Gouletas of American Invs-Co. Realty Kenneth James of J. S. James & Co., Inc.; George Kemp of McKey & Poague, Inc., Howard Krafsur of Bennett & Kahnweiler, North Side Real Estate Board, Gerald Perlow of Kahn, Inc., Realtors; Roy Rohter of Century 21, Rohter & Co., Albert Rubenstein of Fleetwood Realty Co., Leo Sheridan, Jr., L. J. Sheridan & Co., Lowell Stahl of Century 21 Real Estate Corp. of No. Illinois, Dempsey Travis of Travis Realty Co. and George Waldman of All-Scott Realty.

GLADSTONE Realtors has moved into new headquarters at 390 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. The contemporary, one-story brick building houses management and administration offices for the firm.

Thermostat 6 degrees lower reduces heating bill $15

Now that cold weather is really here, the budget keeper in your family might be grim about this year's fuel bills.

There are somethings you can do to keep reasonably warm and not have sky high heating bills. A free Federal Energy Administration booklet called Tips for Energy Savers will give you some ideas. For a copy, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 591E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

During the day, lower your thermostat to 68 degrees. And, at night, to 60 degrees. If these settings reduce the temperature an average of 6 degrees, it should reduce your heating costs by 15 per cent.

You might consider the advantages of a control device to automatically turn the heat down at a regular hour after you go to bed and turn it up just before you get up.

If you haven't had your furnace serviced this year, do it now. Adjustment could mean a savings of 10 per cent in your home heating bill.

Caulk and weatherstrip your doors and windows. This is an inexpensive do-it-yourself project that can reduce the family's energy costs by 10 per cent or more. Storm windows and doors also protect against drafts and unnecessary loss of heat. And a sheet of clear plastic film tightly taped to the inside of the frames can be equally effective, and a lot cheaper.

Tips for Energy Savers (free) is one of over 200 selected Federal consumer publications listed in the Winter edition of the catalog, Consumer Information. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the catalog is free. You can get a copy of Consumer Information by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Dodge tells 31% hike in building contracts

Construction in October broke out of its recent lull with a surge of contracting for future work, reports the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

A sharp gain in electric power plant contracting, backed up by a higher rate of housing starts, boosted October's total construction contract value to $10,062,970,000 for a gain of 31 per cent from the year earlier.

McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company, an authority on the construction market, produces Dodge Reports on construction activity and Sweet's Catalog Files of construction product information.

THE SEASONALLY adjusted Dodge Index, heavily influenced by the start of nearly $2 billion of electric power facilities in October, leaped to a record 237 (1967-100). During August and September the index had slipped into the 160s after averaging 187 for the year's first half.

George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist for F. W. Dodge, said that "October's sharp housing and utilities gain will amount to a split benefit for the sagging economy in the months ahead. The portion of October's strong total of new construction that reflects the recent improvements in housing starts will bring an immediate payoff in jobs and building material sales. However, electric utility projects typically stretch out over many years and offer little in the way of immediate stimulation to the economy."

Christie noted that while it's still too early to expect results from the recent $3.7 billion appropriation under the Public Works Employment Act of 1976, it should not be long before this money prompts a gain in contracting for highways, sewers, and public buildings.

October contracts for residential building reached $6,792,158,000, a gain of 18 per cent over the year-ago amount. While all forms of housing gained in October, the month's biggest improvement was a 72 per cent increase in multi-family building due in large part to the acceleration of HUD programs.

A MIXED PATTERN of gains and losses left the nonresidential building category up 6 per cent to $2,728,449,000 in October, according to the Dodge economist. Gains for the month were shown in stores, offices, and hospitals. Declines were reported for schools, public buildings, and recreational facilities. Contracting for manufacturing plants held approximately even with the year-ago value.

Nonbuilding construction contract value soared 71 per cent to $3,270,812,000 in October, as five new electric generating facilities were started throughout the North Central and South Central regions. These projects, all using coal as their energy source, ranged in cost from $150 million to $600 million.

"The other two major classifications of nonbuilding construction — highways and sewer systems — showed declines in the latest month but will soon benefit from recently appropriated Federal funds for emergency public works employment," said Christie.

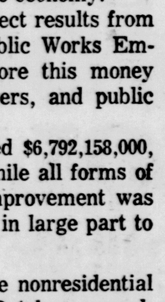
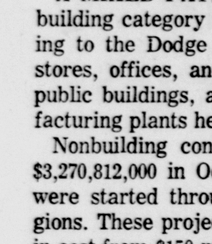
Here are a few Arlington Federal SPECIALS FOR YOU

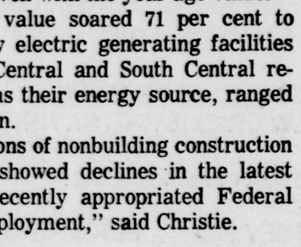
The popular Can-O-Cash which Arlington Federal introduced last year is being repeated to enable our customers to use a novel means of packaging their Christmas gifts. Coins, watches, diamond rings—anything that fits into a standard No. 2 tin can is sealed at the Association office. A regular opener is required to open the can, which looks just like a sealed can from the super mart. Can-O-Cash is available for 50 cents (25 cents to regular customers) while the supply lasts.

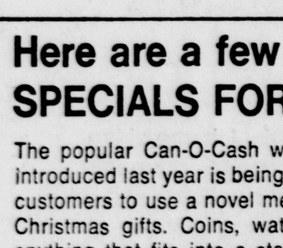




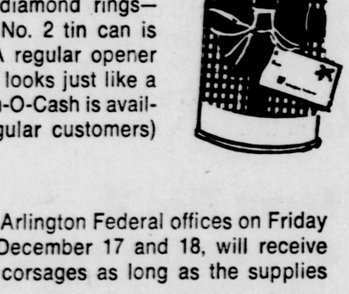
Lady visitors to Arlington Federal offices on Friday and Saturday, December 17 and 18, will receive free Christmas corsages as long as the supplies last.

Christmas postage stamps can be purchased from Arlington Federal tellers. Like regular United States postage stamps, they are available at face cost.





Utility bill payments—phone, gas, electric—can be made without service charge by Arlington Federal customers. (Four days should be allowed prior to due date.)



You will get aluminum frames, compliments of Arlington Federal, when you buy your 1977 Illinois license plates at the Association. They are available now at any of the Association offices.

Free! A letter from Santa, from Santa Claus, Indiana. The proof is in the postmark. Visit our Santa Post Office and select a colorful letter—our way of saying Merry Christmas to children of all ages.

City problems: in 'good ol' days' they were worse

by JAMES J. DOYLE

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The problems of our cities — pollution, crime, riots, planning, transportation — are bad but they could be worse. In the "good old days" for instance.

Cities have changed and grown during the past century. The basic problems are pretty much the same, according to Dr. Charles Adrian. But he believes things may be a little better now.

Adrian, a political science professor at the University of California, Riverside, cites pollution from automobiles as one example. It may be bad, he says, but horses were horrible.

"HORSES WERE SPECIAL problems. The amount of horse manure generated was really something terrific when cities were becoming quite large.

"They didn't clean up very regularly and business men cleaned up in front of their own stores. There were relatively few street-sweepers."

There were other kinds of pollution.

"Most cities had their own slaughterhouses a century ago and they were careless about throwing out hooves and remains and that sort of thing. There was a lot of pollution of one kind or another from animals. They would die and be left in alleys and streets. And there was little or no sewage."

THE FRUITS OF HIS study over 20 years, along with the studies of Ernest Griffith of the Library of Congress, are gathered in a book, "A History of American City Government, 1775-1870."

Some of the problems that dismayed the urban dweller during that period are still with us — planning, summer riots in low income neighborhoods, intrusion of other governments, police relations and public transportation.

"You have to remember how really small these places were," he said. Most of the people were rural residents. In 1790 Pittsburgh had only 500 people. Chicago was not founded until 1833.

"Pollution was a very important problem for city governments in the last century, particularly with regard to water supplies. They had some notion that water could be polluted but they didn't know how and trying to get pure water was a big problem.

"People like to talk about the good old days but the cities of the 19th century were dirty, in many ways filthier than today. There was tremendous concern with communicable disease. During that period the germ theory was not known.

"THERE WAS STILL smallpox, and they had yellow fever, malaria, cholera and typhoid. Infant mortality was high and there were other dangers.

"While people weren't being killed by cars, they often were killed or maimed by runaway horses. It was quite common."

American cities of the middle and late 19th century had problems with their police forces. Crime was a great concern, Adrian said.

"The simple mugging wasn't as common then, but it did exist. Pickpockets were very skilled also.

"ALSO FROM THE 1830s on, we had a goodly number of summer ghetto riots. That wasn't just something from the 1960s. There were a number of causes, but basically because many people moved to the cities from rural areas.

"They were white Anglo-Saxon Protestants mostly and they encountered largely Catholic immigrants from Europe. They were afraid the immigrants would take control of the cities.

"There was a big hassle in the 1840s and 1850s over whether the Irish should be allowed to be policemen. In the 1950s we went through the same thing with blacks. The nation's first race riot occurred in Philadelphia in 1828, but most of the riots in cities did not involve race so much as ethnic groups."

Planning of cities and their neighborhoods was dominated by land speculators and real estate developers for profit.

The situations and the problems haven't changed so much, but we can learn from our past.

"Politics in a democracy is not designed to solve problems," Adrian said, "but rather to find some way of managing problems with minimal cost.

"City governments are, after all, conflict resolution devices. They are always involved in conflict."

Florida's realty industry rebounding, builder says

Florida's real estate industry, hard hit by a nationwide recession and sporadic overbuilding problems, is beginning to show a positive turnaround.

Robert Trembley, Illinois general manager of General Development Corp., one of Florida's leading community builders, has just returned from a Florida real estate seminar where all facets of the development industry were examined by the select group.

Trembley said, although the real estate industry in Florida has been beset with problems, there has been a noticeable increase in sales of homes and homesites in planned communities during the past six months.

"SINGLE-FAMILY HOME sales in the retirement market and renewed interest in homesite purchases have been making a rapid recovery," he said, "but there's still some softness in the condominium apartment market in some sections of Florida."

Trembley, who directs a 20-man marketing staff from General Development's office, River Grove, said visiting housing executives were told that the single-family trend for retirees is based on the additional living space and the avoidance of recreational and maintenance fee assessments found in condominium complexes.

"General Development's new 'Answer' and V.I.P. homes were especially singled out during the seminar as shelter products that appeal to the retiree market since they're not only economically priced, but they incorporate numerous maintenance — free features," Trembley said.

General Development recently placed the three-bedroom, two-bath homes on the market and they have received excellent buyer approval, Trembley commented.

The "Answer" home sells for $25,494 and the V.I.P. home is priced at $20,990. Cost doesn't include homesite or lot preparation work.

General Development, Florida's oldest and largest community developer, has seven planned communities including Port Charlotte on the Gulf Coast, Port St. Lucie and Port Malabar on the Atlantic Coast, and Port LaBelle near Lake Okeechobee.

The company, which has constructed nearly 16,000 homes during its history, has sold $3.3 million in "ANSWER" homes in the past five months and the V.I.P. has just been placed on the market.

"When our northern homesite customers have the opportunity to review the retirement or vacation potential of these new products, I'm sure our home sales will take an even more dramatic upturn," Trembley said.

The Chicago housing executive also said that while Florida growth had slowed down during the recession, "It's still the fastest growing state in the nation and state officials are optimistic that the trend will continue."

Caution warned towards a distressed property

"Take assignments that are realistic, not risky to your reputation," is the advice of William R. Bramberg, CPM, to property managers presented with the prospect of undertaking a distressed property.

Bramberg, who heads Bramberg Management Organization, Clearwater, Fla., cautions property managers to carefully evaluate all aspects of a distressed property before accepting the management assignment.

"Through an economic and market analysis, we find, in retrospect, the property should never have been given birth, and thereby determine to abort the assignment or recommend it to seek substance via another identity through conversion."

In particular, Bramberg recommends a careful study of the target market and the existing competition.

"Just as you would not associate yourself and your talents with another Disney World two miles from the Magic Kingdom, neither would you direct a retirement community wherein your potential competitors are experiencing very high vacancies. The wrong market leads to two conclusions, an attempt to change the identity of the property through conversion or pass up the assignment. If you believe you can succeed where your peers have failed by continuing with the current misassigned marketing posture, you must have lots of time on your hands and/or be a miracle man."

Bramberg also stresses the importance of the personnel connected with a project. He emphasizes that staff can either make or break a distressed property. "As an expert, you are cognizant of the ideal individuals that will make this property a success. From your overview, you must ascertain how closely the current employes match your required profile in ability and compensation and if you will be given the authority to staff the project property consistent with professional standards."

Bramberg offers suggestions on how to analyze advertising techniques, use of model units, the physical needs of the complex, the extent of deferred maintenance and methods of financing.

According to Bramberg, "There is always another property. Be selective and patient. Our firm was invited into many ventures over the last two years that upon giving them 'The Jaundiced Eye,' we elected to pass the potential. To prove the value of wating, our most recent assignment for one client was to act as a consultant. We employed the foregoing systems, found the goals possible, and took the job. The fee was for $112,500. It's just as pleasing to note that through our efforts the client was saved $800,000."

3 key elements for successful shopping center

With all the hoopla attending promotional events, with all the attention devoted to erecting and coordinating periodic sales, a third element basic to the success of any shopping center is being sadly neglected, said one developer.

The target often is being lost sight of, obscured by an absence of research to determine changes in population characteristics that will identify the market on a continuing basis.

But all three elements — promotion, merchandising and research — are vital to on-going success, contends Donald Kahan, president of Jack Jacobs & Company, Chicago-based national shopping center developer, who says that "unless developers and retailers alike are careful about identifying their day-to-day market, they are in danger of spinning wheels and ending up talking to themselves.

"OUR FIRM recognizes and has been extremely active in shopping center promotion and merchandising," Kahan said. "Indeed, we have spearheaded the concept that targeted merchandising, creative retail advertising and showmanship in a grand manner is imperative to creating an identity for, calling attention to and maintaining traffic in a mall. It is a precise mix of these elements that establish a competitive and effective retail complex.

"And, because our firm is not just involved in development, because we stay on to manage our own malls once they have opened, we are also strong advocates of close communications with our retailers. We realize the value of careful timing, of coordinating promotional events with available merchandise, of working with merchants associations on short-range plans, as well as long-range goals."

But, there's often something lost between research for development and market studies for continuing effective retailing, said Kahan.

"HOWEVER," he said, "all too often, this is where the research ends. And, in such cases you may realize too late, that the world is changing around you, the customers you once identified have moved someplace far away.

"Or, it may be that the last decade saw little movement among the residents, that the young market is now a middle-aged market, that the merchandise so carefully selected by merchants and the promotions that sound tremely valuable at Jack Jacobs and Company," Kahan went on to say, "is a combination of marketing analyses of our major tenants' results, close attention to pertinent information in the local media, and a promotion staff which is itself involved in community activities. A promotion director, who is a member of important community groups, who is on civic committees, not only knows who the public is we're dealing with today, but what direction they're taking, what the forecast is for the future.

"Once we have the ready facts and figures, we know, for example, that when we put on a marionette show, there will be enough youngsters in the neighborhood to make the affair a success, and it's likely that the entire family will come to the center.

"All of us who direct the activities of shopping centers," Kahan said, "must know who we're entertaining through promotion, who we're enticing through merchandising events, how many we will reach and how much we can expect them to spend.

"It's a three-way street, and on such a thoroughfare, you have to be careful to look in all directions."

IT MAY LOOK like some sort of fancy bridge, but actually it's the entrance to a three-bedroom home in Arlington Heights built by Anday Davis, who stands near the structure's entrance with his wife. The unique cave house was built to reduce utility costs. Davis says the home costs about half as much to build as a normal house, using a fireplace for heat and needing little insurance. There's even room to plant a garden on the roof.

'Secondary market in need of changes'

A leading spokesman for the housing finance industry has told a Senate banking committee that the agencies created to ease fluctuations in the secondary mortgage market have been only partially successful, and that occasional poorly-timed actions by them have in fact augmented these fluctuations.

Kennon V. Rothchild, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America (MBA), told the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs that although GNMA, FNMA and FHLMC "have worked admirably" and "served the homebuyer well," they "have tended to be one-sided — they have not worked to reduce the impact of easy credit conditions on the mortgage market."

Rothchild said that FNMA and FHLMC, by buying more mortgages than they sold during 1972-73, "failed to offset any of the overbuilding and speculation of that period," leading to the housing slump in 1974-75. He stressed that he does not want a complete overhaul of the system, which has worked reasonably well, but wants specific improvements.

Some of those specifics include: operating policies for those agencies to prevent them from inflaming boom-bust cycles; the right for mortgage bankers to service mortgages held by FHLMC; and a revitalization of FHA's basic programs.
so good and so gaudy, bound to attract attention, are being carried out for the wrong crowd."

Kahan also observed that the pitfall is even more dangerous because of the very nature of the merchandising business — one of the most informed and up-to-date industries in the world — and the allure of exciting-sounding promotions.

"Merchandisers are forever on the lookout for new methods and different and imaginative ways of moving their wares," he said. "And state pageants, circuses, big wheel races, charity bazaars and magic shows all sound great.

"WE'RE LED FURTHER along this route by flashes of inspiration that come to promotion directors leading them to try to reach yet another group of prospective customers. Then you have antique shows, needlecraft exhibits, square dances, art fairs and sports car spectaculars.

"These all may be very potent draws," Kahan explained, "but only if you have the right target — an interested public close enough at hand."

Million dollar club

BILL DANIELSON has been named residential sales leader for the month of November at the Des Plaines office of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors.

Bill Danielson

Danielson, a member of the Kunkel sales staff since 1971, has exceeded $1 million in residential sales this year. This is the third consecutive year for him to be named to the "Million Dollar Sales Club" of the Illinois Association of Realtors. He has also successfully completed the GRI course, and has attained the designation of broker. Previous to joining Kunkel, Danielson was in chemical sales. He graduated from the University of Chicago.

Danielson and his wife have lived in Des Plaines for several years.

Century 21 Village Square Realtors announces that PAT CARROLL has reached the $1 million sales mark for 1976.

Mrs. Carroll was salesperson of the year in her first year of selling real estate with Village Square. She has since been honored numerous times as salesperson of the month.

Among her many hobbies are gourmet cooking, golf, bowling and bridge. She has a library of science degree from St. Joseph College and is a graduate of Katherine Gibbs School.

Mrs. Carroll is a longtime Chicago-area resident. She, her husband and their four children live in the Spinnaker Cove area of Palatine where she is membership chairman of the homeowners association.

Quinlan and Tyson's ROBERT GRIFFITH has topped $2 million in sales for the third straight year. The sales manager of Quinlan and Tyson's Buffalo Grove area office sold more than $1 million in 1972, his first full year with the firm.

Griffith, who now has a career sales total of almost $11 million with Quinlan and Tyson, became sales manager of the Buffalo Grove area office when it opened in January of 1975.

He belongs to the firm's President's Circle and holds four Quinlan and Tyson Awards of Excellence — for having the best first year with the firm, for leading the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area office in 1973 and 1974 and for having the most transactions in 1974.

Griffith is a life member of the Illinois Association of Realtors Million Dollar Club and the MAP Million Dollar Club. He holds the coveted G.R.I. designation and is a licensed real estate broker.

A member of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements, he is a former officer of the Arlington Heights Caucus and former president of the Northgate Civic Association.

Griffith is a graduate of the University of Detroit and a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He belongs to St. Edna's Catholic Church. He and his wife have four children and live in Arlington Heights.

Robert Griffith

JERRY BIRCH, sales associate for Annen & Busse, Realtors, in their Schaumburg office, surpassed his million dollar sales goal early in October of this year for the first time. This achievement includes him in the Annen & Busse Million Dollar Sales Club.

Jerry Birch

Birch, having lived and worked in the Northwest suburbs for the past 19 years, became associated with Annen & Busse in August of 1975 after several years experience in real estate sales. He is a charter member of the Schaumburg National Exchange Club where he has served as director of the Crime Prevention Division, as well as being an active member of the Schaumburg Jaycees. In his spare time, Birch enjoys flying. He is a student pilot and an avid fisherman.

AL LINDEMAN of T. A. Bolger, Realtors Schaumburg office has sold over $1 million in real estate this year.

Lindeman is a graduate from the School of Commerce at DePaul University and has taken numerous professional sales courses in real estate as well as courses for his GRI designation.

There's nobody else like you . . .
Because you're different,
we are also.
Come to Starck & Co. for understanding attention that saves time and money.

Selling a home?

Whatever your reasons are for selling, Starck & Co. has more special benefits for you:

A. Buying New Home From Builder?
Our Home Purchase Plan is ideal for people like you. We give you a guaranteed purchase contract for your present home that insures that you will have funds to complete the purchase of the new home when it's ready and know that your old property is positively sold. And Starck & Co. makes the sale so very easy. You go on and live a normal life while we expertly and efficiently market the home. You're free to plan the new colors in the new home and get ready to move.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Change takes place in all our lives. Children arrive, grow up and all too soon depart. Starck & Co. is expert in helping you move up, down or sideways. Our Guarantee Purchase Plan is your assurance that you will never own two homes with double mortgage payments. If we don't sell your home, we'll buy it. The two moves are carefully coordinated by your Starck & Co. Associate and our Closing Dept.

C. Transferred or Leaving the Area?
Hundreds of thousands of families do this very thing every year and maybe you're an old hand at the game. We're a part of RELO, the largest network of quality Realtors in the world (over 3500 branch offices in the U.S. and overseas). Thus, we can help you on both ends. We can help you get important data on your new hometown and put you in touch with a friendly representative from our branch office in that city. Then we can give you a Guarantee Sale contract on your present home so that your equity money will be available when you have selected your new home and are ready to move.

D. Retiring or Moving to an Apartment?
We can help you find a comfortable and efficient rental unit in this area or anywhere in the world, thanks to RELO. Again, our Home Purchase Plan is your assurance that if we don't sell your home that we will buy it.

E. Separating or Divorcing?
You know that you have lots of company these days. Starck & Co. is sensitive to the emotional and legal problems that may be involved and will work with care and understanding with you and your attorneys. We'll help you sell the old house quickly and easily and can assist in locating whatever new housing is desired.

Buying a Home?

Starck & Co. knows there are numerous reasons for wanting to buy. We offer unique services that fit your special situation.

A. Ready to Buy Your First Home?
This will be one of the smartest things you have ever done. Home ownership has started millions of American families on the road to happiness and economic savings. A Starck & Co. Associate can compute exactly how much you can afford to purchase and what your monthly savings will amount to . . . you will probably be astounded! We are expert at arranging easy financing that will make it all possible for you . . . our financing connections are the very best.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Has the new baby suddenly made things pretty tight? Has the new promotion made possible a larger home or something in another area? Or have the children gotten married and all of a sudden things are very quiet and empty? Nowadays folks don't live in a home for a lifetime, but buy and sell and move around as their needs change. Again, our Guarantee Purchase Plan makes it easy. And we can help you find a new home anywhere in Chicagoland thanks to RELO.

C. Transferring to Chicagoland?
Welcome to one of the most dynamic and exciting areas in the whole USA. We understand that you have a separate set of problems and may have emotional stress that needs care and consideration. We have a Corporate Relocation Dept. that is geared to handle your every need and provide answers to whatever information you need to make a wise decision. The home we find for you will be one that you will love and cherish, will be a sound investment and can be readily resold.

D. Ready for a Townhome, Condominium or Quad?
These are wonderful solutions for lots of folks and we do a big business in finding just the right property and environment for people like you. We know all about association dues, fees and services so that you will get good sound advice to make a selection that will give you years of comfortable easy living without any unforeseen costs or problems.

E. Investors
We think that real estate is the greatest investment in the world but that doesn't mean that every piece of real estate is a good investment (remember the REIT's?). If you have spare funds that you feel might be invested in real estate, we can advise and assist you. We'll gladly explain the various options you have and what each type of property might do for your investment portfolio. We even publish a monthly Investment Newsletter that keeps you informed about real estate. A call to your nearest Starck & Co. office will put you on our mailing list for this free publication.

OCTOBER SALES leaders have been honored at Holding O'Connor Blaeser Real Estate. Palatine office was led by Carol Falbo. Mrs. Falbo, a lifetime member of the MAP Multiple Listing Service Million Dollar Club, has received this award twice this year. She is just short of reaching her $2 million goal in residential sales for the year.

Larry Pirovano, a broker/sales associate, lead the company's Hoffman Estates/Schaumburg office. A resident of Schaumburg, Pirovano has been an active broker in sales in the Northwest suburbs for the past three years.

Leading the Arlington Heights office was Lorraine Regula who has also received this award twice in 1976. Mrs. Regula deals with residential sales in the Northwest suburbs and resides in Arlington Heights.

On the move

JOHN J. CONROY, real estate broker, has joined the sales staff of Century 21-Village Square Realtors, in their Arlington Heights office. Prior to joining the firm, Conroy was manager for another area real estate firm. He was marketing manager and contracts manager for an electro-optical firm.

He has attended DePaul University and several real estate courses including the Real Estate School of Illinois.

Conroy has six years experience in selling real estate in the Arlington Heights and the Northwest suburban area. He also is a lifetime member of the MAP and Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors Million Dollar Sales Clubs. He and his wife have four children and live in Arlington Heights.

Mortgage loans up, Chicago S&L says

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago reports that savings and loan associations in Cook County made more mortgage loans this September than a year ago.

The 157 Cook County S&L's made $290 million in mortgage loans in September, as against $211.6 million last September.

This brought the mortgage loan total for the first nine months of the year to $2,431.1 million as against $1,524.1 million a year earlier.

Total savings of Cook County associations rose $74.4 million in September versus a loss of $10.6 million in savings last September.

Savings rose $1,092.9 million in the first nine months of 1976, as against a gain of $814 million a year earlier.

Second printing told for mortgage books

Two booklets designed by the American Bankers Assn. to encourage residential mortgage lending are now in their second printing.

"How to Make a Mortgage" and "How to Market a Mortgage" were announced in August by the association's Housing and Real Estate Finance Division as "step-by-step, working tools to assist the nation's community banks," by division director Rober B. Hawkins.

Hawkins said that "How to Make a Mortgage" walks the community banker and staff "through the most efficient steps available to run a successful home mortgage program."

"How to Market a Mortgage," he said, "is an in-depth guide to the strong, growing secondary market in mortgage instruments, especially for the community banker who may not be aware that mortgages may be marketed and serviced without tying up funds in long-term commitments."

End drafts by shift of heat distributor

If there is a draft in any room in your house, one way to overcome it, suggests the Better Heating-Cooling Council is to re-locate the heat distributor.

Place it on the outside wall, especially under the window. Hydronic (hot water) baseboard heating panels under windows act as a barrier against the cold and drafts.

Hydronic heating also is perfectly suited for the space age. The same boiler which provides comfort for the home can be used to heat a backyard swimming pool, keep a greenhouse warm enough for growing fresh flowers all winter, and warm the sidewalks and driveways to prevent snow from piling up.

Classic hexagon tiles reproduced in vinyl floors

One of the most pleasing and natural geometric shapes is the hexagon, or six-sided figure. Bees feel so much at home with this design, they construct their hives with hexagonal cells made of wax.

The human species also seems to take delight in building with hexagons. Clay tiles in this design adorn the floors and walls of many homes in Mediterranean lands. In Colonial America, before the streets became paved with gold, they were sometimes covered with hexagon-shaped bricks.

Until now, the cost of handmade hexagonal tiles has prevented the average homeowners from incorporating this popular design into an interior decor. There is a cushioned vinyl flooring that looks like real hexagonal tiles.

Besides being more economical, this vinyl flooring is quieter and more comfortable underfoot than real handmade tile. The flooring is available in 6- or 12-foot widths for installation by do-it-yourselfers or professional installers.

The choice of five natural colors includes:

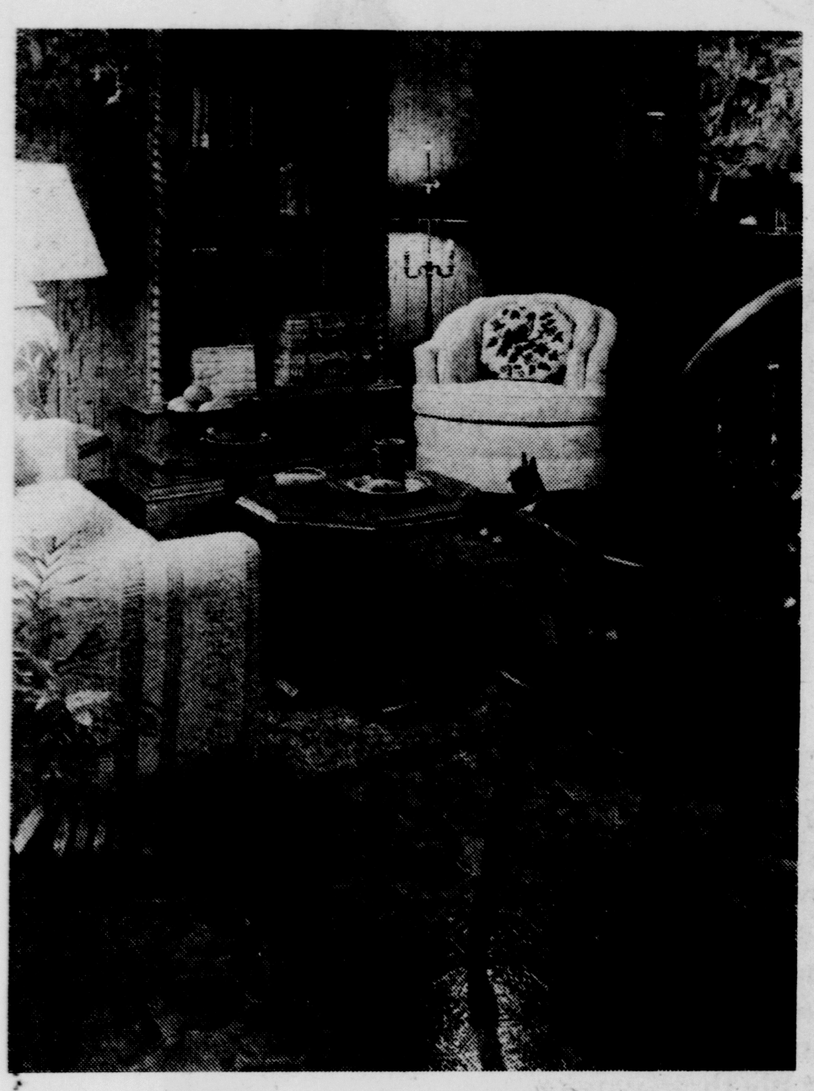
• Clay, an earthy reddish brick color. A clay-colored floor imparts a warm, cozy feeling to family rooms, especially when topped off with an area rug.

• Terra cotta, very similar to the antique apricot color that is catching on big in upholstery, draperies and other fabrics. The effect of a terra cotta floor is lighter and breezier than the clay color.

• White, really an off-white. "Parchment" is nearer to the mark. In a room with dark furniture or cabinets, a white floor can be striking. A white floor also makes a handsome background for the beige fixtures that are appearing in more and more bathrooms.

• Brown, a deep, rich coffee color. A brown-colored floor in a bathroom with beige fixtures makes a strong statement, far more assertive than a white floor. It's a dramatic color that dominates any room it's in. Some rooms with southern exposure tend to be overly bright. A practical way to tone them down is with a dark-colored floor.

• Slate, a dark green with a ceramic-like glaze. Slate-green floors bend well with just about any other green found in home furnishings and appliances. In the kitchen, even standard avocado appliances take on a new and stylish look when set off by a slate-green floor in a popular — and affordable — hexagonal tile pattern.



HEXAGONAL TILES make a classic floor but handmade tiles are expensive. A practical alternative, from the standpoint of economy and good looks, is the Armstrong cushioned vinyl flooring seen in this attractive family room. Even the colors are natural earth tones. And the flooring can be installed by do-it-yourselfers.

Location of house on lot factor in buying a home

What do building experts look for when buying a home?

A major metropolitan newspaper several months ago surveyed sales executives associated with several large developers to discover how they would choose a home. Here is a partial list of the results:

• Check the location of the home on the lot. The top of the foundation should be at least two feet higher than street curbs for good drainage. Depending on the terrain, some homes should be placed three to five feet above the curbs.

• Be certain the home has gutters and downspouts.

• Make sure the hot water heater is adequate. As an example, a 40-gallon unit is a must for a three-bedroom home.

• Determine the cost of the home per square foot of living area, and use the result as a guideline for choosing. Decide whether such items as balconies, basement, crawlspaces and garages qualify as living areas.

• In a new community, check the number of occupied homes and look for signs of construction to determine whether the community will be a good place to live and whether buying there will be a good investment.

• Make sure the home has adequate heating ducts, closet lights and wall outlets.

• Look for closets that are at least two feet deep.

• In a new home, look at the quality of appliances. Also, check to see if there are ceramic or plastic tiles around the shower; make sure closet-doors are regular and replaceable sizes, 6 feet, 8 inches.

Virgil E. Grand, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, suggested buyers:

tors, suggested prospective home buyers:

lish your specific real estate needs. These should be based on family size, home style preference, ages of children, place of employment, adaptability of rooms to special interests, expansion possibilities.

• Decide upon location, and determine importance of convenience to schools, church and business.

• Study neighborhoods, and take into consideration everything that can affect the livability of property.

• Ask a Realtor for information on taxes, assessments, restrictions, setbacks, building lines, easements, sewer and water, gas costs, etc. He or she can obtain this information easily.

A Realtor can help a home buyer avoid unnecessary red tape and assist in finding good value. In addition, a Realtor can suggest or arrange the simplest and most economical way to finance property through a lending agency.

Real estate class to begin

Under current State of Illinois requirements, a person interested in becoming a real estate salesman in the State of Illinois must complete a 30-hour basic real estate transactions course from an approved school to be eligible for real estate salesman's license examination. D'Ann McClain, director of training and administration, Real Estate Education Company, has released the schedule of classes to meet these requirements.

"I'm very pleased to announce that we will begin January classes in thirteen locations throughout the state," McClain said. "One of these classes will be in Palatine beginning at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 4."

The course, approved by the Department of Registration and Education and the State of Illinois Office of Education, consists of 30 hours of training in compliance with the state requirements. Of the students who successfully complete this course, 92% have passed the state licensing examination.

The class will be at the Howard Johnson's on Northwest Highway and Rte. 53 on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. The instructor is Kenneth Sanders.

For adddtional information and counseling call (800) 972-8303. Students can enroll by telephone, receive counseling on how to enter the real estate field and receive referrals to prospective sponsoring brokers.

Protect yourself in land deals

by JAMES H. DYGERT

When my daughter received a form letter saying she had won a free trip to Disney World, it was clearly a promotion scheme to sell lots in a Florida land project.

Nevertheless, I succumbed. Because the young lady was quite excited (part of the hustle, of course), I put up $19.80 to register for the "free" trip, even though the only free features were hotel accommodations and Disney World tickets for two adults. I figured I could handle the sales pitch.

We never made the trip, but didn't get the $19.80 back, either. What it taught me was this: Just when you think you're so knowledgeable and sophisticated that no one can fool you, zap! They get you.

There's one thing never to forget when buying real estate: The only real protection is self-protection. No one but yourself can save you from high pressure tactics and diabolical ruses to suck you into a bad investment in a land development project.

Federal and state governments have tried to crack down on fraud, deception, false promises, and other unscrupulous practices among land developers, but they've had little impact. Some developers even use the existence of government regulations to practice a new deception — implications that their projects have been approved by the government.

It's easy enough, however, to protect yourself. You can avoid shady developers — their unkept promises and deeds to land they don't own — simply by avoiding all developers.

You have nothing to lose by that. Buying land in a development project is a bad investment no matter how ethical the developer is. A project lot may be fine to retire on, but don't let anyone sell you the nonsense that it's a good investment.

There's a lot of money to be made in land, but not in a development. The profit there has already been used up.

The price of land in a development project is always astronomical because it has to include development costs — planning, surveying, engineering, roads, utilities, rezoning, legal fees, advertising, promotion, recreation facilities, administrative overhead, salesmen's commissions, and the developer's profit. Up to 30 per cent of the price may go to salesmen, and 35 per cent in developer's profit.

Developers sell land for 10, 20, even 30 times what they pay for it. I've seen tiny quarter-acre lots in a vacation-land development advertised for $5,995 and up. That's $36,000 an acre.

The lots may someday be worth more. But that's gambling, not investing. You get better odds in a state lottery.

The only one who profits in a development is the developer, though his sales pitches are aimed at your profit motive. There is profit in land, but elsewhere. Don't let developers exploit your profit motive for their profit. The proper use of the profit motive is for your profit.

I could have done worse with that "free" trip to Florida. I could have gone.
trips, you become a prisoner, a captive to ruthless sales pressure you can't escape until your hosts let you go.

Another ingenious wile is extracting "refundable" deposits from prospects during a presentation at a "free" dinner or an unsolicited telephone sales pitch that's been scripted to trap you psychologically.

Send $25, the pitch goes, to reserve a lot before the price goes up. Then visit the project to see the land before you complete the purchase, and get your $25 back if you don't like it.

This sounds fair, logical and innocent except the catch is it gets you on their territory where they can subject you to merciless persuasions.

The most effective self-protection is to stay away from "free" dinners, "free" trips, and land projects altogether. Even if you are blessed with superior resistance, you'll find it hard to spurn the ease of buying for only "$5 down and $5 a month."

Especially since credit buying is an effective way in the first place to invest with little cash, and get the financial leverage that multiplies profits. That's true, of course, only when the total price is right, too.

The secret of big profits on little money is to buy land on the fringe of development, land that's still low in price but destined to undergo a sharp value rise in the near future as development overtakes it. America has lots of land like that on the edge of vacationland and recreation-land developments and growing resort areas.

Get to it before the developer, then sell it to him. Instead of his profiting from you, you profit from him.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Homes can be havens without hazards

Most people consider their homes to be havens of safety and security. Unfortunately altogether too many people have discovered too late the danger of serious accidents at home, said Virgil E. Grand, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

The nation recorded 102,500 accidental deaths last year, according to the National Safety Council. About one-fourth of the total, some 25,500 fatalities, resulted from accidents at home. That's almost double the number of fatalities resulting from work-related accidents in 1975 — 12,600 — and more than half of the fatalities recorded in automobile accidents — 46,000.

The Safety Council reports that some four million Americans suffered disabling injuries serious enough to prevent a person from conducting normal activities for at least a day.

A further look at the Safety Council's statistics reveals that falls of all kinds caused the largest number of accidental deaths in the home. Some 8,400 people lost their lives in this manner in 1975. Fires caused 5,100 deaths and poisoning accounted for 3,300 fatalities.

According to the Safety Council, 43 per cent of all fatal injuries to persons over 65 occur in private homes. Falls account for 46 per cent of the total. Take steps to prevent injuries and deaths due to falls.

- Always use a ladder instead of chairs and other furniture to change burned out light bulbs or reach high shelves.
- Check tacked down carpeting on stairs. Make certain that it will not come loose, slide and cause falls.
- Make certain that handrails along stairs are in good condition. Each set of stairs should have at least one good handrail.
- Keep stairs, floors and passageways clear of small objects such as toys which could cause people to trip.
- Make certain that scatter rugs are skid proof.
- Instead of carrying one large load upstairs, make several trips with smaller loads.
- Install pressure sensitive strips on the bottom of slippery bathtubs.
- Install grab bars in tubs and showers if necessary.
- Replace sliding glass doors and shower doors with safety glass or plastic doors.

The best way to cope with home fires is prevention and preparedness. The following measures will help you avoid tragedy.

- Since children under the age of 15 comprise one-fourth of the home fire fatalities, it is important that they know what to do in case fire breaks out. Plan escape routes and conduct fire drills.
- Designate a location outside of the home where family members can gather for a head count to make certain that everyone has escaped a burning house.
- Make certain that bedroom windows can be opened easily from inside so they can easily lead to escape.
- Make certain that baby sitters know fire plans.
- Teach children that fire is dangerous. They should not be permitted to play with matches or lighters.

Children are also frequent victims of poisoning. Prevent accidental poisoning by taking these steps.

- Keep poisonous products out of reach of children.
- Lock medicines in a cabinet.
- Utilize products according to directions.
- It is best to store products in original containers. However, carefully mark new containers of potentially dangerous products.

Real estate management course offered for resident managers

The Institute of Real Estate Management recently announced the availability of a newly-revised educational program for resident managers in 1977.

"Successful On-Site Management," a 48-hour course administered by local IREM chapters, is one prerequisite to obtaining IREM's "Accredited Resident Manager" recognition award.

The course, introduced in 1974, originally covered 36 different subject areas because of the great variety of tasks in which on-site managers should be proficient. The updated course has organized these subject areas into 13 main topic concentrations which provide for a smoother and more logical flow of information.

Topics covered by the new course include: "The Management Process," "Administrative Procedures," "Marketing/Renting," "Pre-Occupancy Housekeeping," "Resident Administration," "Legal Procedures," "Management/Resident Relations," "Maintenance," "Fiscal Administration," "Security," "Increasing Rents," "Insurance," and "The Lease."

The "ARM" program was initiated by IREM in 1974 and proved successful in meeting a real need in the management industry. This year alone, 47 courses, educating over 1400 students in 37 locations across the country, have been held.

Resident managers who meet certain education and experience requirements set by the Institute of Real Estate Management qualify for the "ARM" award. The number of "Accredited Resident Managers" has more than tripled since 1975.

Arlington Heights-
We're a little hard to find, but we think you will like it that way. Our secluded neighborhood with trees and large expanse of lawn make Knob Hill the perfect place for your family.
Our apartment homes are truly spacious ranging from almost 900 sq. ft. in the 1-bedroom apt. home to about 1100 sq. ft. in the 2-bedroom apt. home.
We offer free heat, balconies or patios, air conditioning, a pool for your summer time pleasure and more that only a visit to Knob Hill will reveal.
Our 1-BR apt. homes rent for $240 per mo. Our 2-BR apt. homes rent for $285 per mo.
Call Mrs. Ross at 398-3890 for an appt. or stop out this weekend and see for yourself and discuss our liberal rental terms.
Take Arlington Hts. Rd. 1 block North of Rand Rd., (US12) to Valley Lane. Turn right 1 block to Circle Hill Dr., then right to Knob Hill.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT TO PAY THE COST OF CONSTRUCTING SANITARY SEWERS WATER MAINS AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING WEDGEWOOD LANE AND OTHER STREETS IN THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS.
MOUNT PROSPECT SPECIAL ASSESMENT
No. 73 Co 1190

Final Special Assessment Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons interested that the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Mount Prospect has heretofore filed in said Court, in said cause, a certificate of the cost of said improvement and the amount estimated by the Board to be required to pay the accruing interest upon Improvement Bonds issued to anticipate the collection of the assessments, and also showing that the improvement has been constructed in substantial conformity to the requirements of the original ordinance therefor

THE HEARING to consider and determine whether or not the facts as stated in said certificate are true will be held in said Court on the 12th day of January, 1977, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. or as soon thereafter as the business of the Court will permit.

ALL PERSONS desiring may file objections in said Court before said day and may appear at the hearing and make their defense.

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given that the Plan Commission of the Village of Wheeling will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on the 13th day of January, 1977, at the municipal building in the Village of Wheeling to act on the petition of Leonard G. Schlangen, owner of record, who seeks a change in the zoning designation from R-1 Residential District to R-4 Multi-family Residential District, on the following described property:

Lot 127 in William Zelosky's Milwaukee Avenue Addition to Wheeling in Section 2, Township 42 North, Range 11, East of the 3rd Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The above described property is located the second lot South of Strong Street on the East side of Seventh Street, Wheeling, Illinois.

All interested persons are invited to attend this public hearing and will be given an opportunity to be heard. The Plan Commission will also give careful consideration to all written correspondence concerning this hearing.

'Wrights were wrong'

White knucklers contend birds fly and men drink

by ROLAND LINDSEY

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Bill Woods is why airlines serve booze.

He won't fly without it. He doesn't even like to fly with it.

Woods is president and chief executive officer of the Texas "White Knuckle Chapter of the Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society Internatinale."

The group gathers each year on the eve of the anniversary of the Wright brothers' first flight in an effort to prove "the Wrights were wrong."

Motto of the grup is, "Given a choice, we will never fly; Given no choice, we will never fly sober."

"Mainly what we do is sit around and prove that birds fly and men drink, particularly the latter," Woods said, discussing the group's meeting set for today.

"And we tell a hell of a lot of stories concerning some sort of testimonial that men will never fly."

The Austin chapter is one of five in the nation, all dedicated to the flying-is-crazy cause. the original chapter, organized by Dr. Ed North, met Dec. 11 at Kill Devil Hill in North Carolina.

The "Flywright Chapter" in Dayton, Ohio, is conducting a project of converting used airplanes into beer cans, Woods claimed. A chapter in Albuquerque is involved in a project with laser beams and optics.

"They're convinced, despite all the evidence to the contrary, that it's done with mirrors," Woods said.

Woods became intrigued with the idea of the "Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society" in 1974, and contacted North about the prospects of establishing an Austin chapter.

"He said, 'I'll just give you the whole state,' " Woods said. "There's a membership list, but there's no bylaws no rules, no nothing. In essence I've got dictatorial powers in Texas."

Woods immediately established five classes of membership, with first class reserved for persons like himself — "real white knucklers." Tourist class membership is for persons who fly, but are willing to go along with the society's spoof.

"They're admitted only as long as they pick up the bar checks," he said.

Woods also established a "Coffee, Tea or Me Auxiliary" for female members and other offshoots.

While he's the planner for the Texas party, Woods doesn't pretend to be the originator of the idea for the spoof on flying, and once asked North how the organization started.

"He said actually the idea came out of a martini bottle."

Modern-day Betsy Ross sews flags

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manhattan's modern-day Betsy Ross was marching in a Fifth Avenue parade one day, proudly bearing a 13-star flag she had made herself.

A group of sailors on the sidewalk snapped to attention and saluted as she passed, and the elderly former actress and model almost burst into tears.

"It was so beautiful," said Elaine Whitney Dickson Roberts, who sits before her television each night patiently hand-stitching cloth stars and red and white cotton sripes into copies of the original Old Glory.

"THE FLAG MEANS so much to me: the courage of our soldiers and the hope for peace, and here these young men were showing me they felt the same way."

Mrs. Roberts has made more than 100 flags from scratch and given most of them away — to such dignitaries as Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson and to patriotic groups like te Sons of the American Revolution.

She said she meant to send one to Richard Nixon, "but then all those things began to happen to him" and she decided the gift might be inappropriate.

"I also made President Ford a flag but I haven't sent it yet because I'm mad at him for not helping our city," she said. "However, I do plan to give one to Mr. Carter."

Mrs. Roberts' hobby is no Bicentennial gimmick — she's been pursuing it for almost 10 years and the few she sells barely pay for the cost of her materials.

She said she got the idea watching a parade.

"I saw all those beautiful flags and decided to sew my own. I started and never stopped."

Even the name she adopted from the 18th century seamstress who supposedly made the nation's first flag came to her almost by accident.

"ONE DAY I put on an old-fashioned dress and bonnet and a friend told me I looked just like Betsy Ross," she said. The name stuck.

Mrs. Roberts says she spends up to six weeks making each flag in her cluttered New York City apartment. She always keeps on hand a "whole bagful" of the finished products, which range in length from about 18 inches to more than seven feet.

"I won't use a pattern or a sewing machine," she said. "The stitches aren't perfect, but nobody seems to mind. One buyer said he chose one that was uneven because it looked more authentic."

The 20th century Betsy Ross holds strong views about America and where it's heading as 1976 draws to a close.

"We've done a lot in 200 years and the Bicentennial was wonderful," she said. "But we've got to keep the old spirit, and one good way would be for people to start displaying the flag the way they used to."

MANHATTAN'S MODERN day Betsy Ross was almost moved to tears recently when a group of sailors snapped to attention and saluted as she marched up Fifth Avenue carrying a 13-star flag she made herself. Former Actress Elaine Whitney Dickson Roberts spends evenings making flags by hand in front of TV.

Christmas service planned by students

A special "para-liturgical" Christmas service will be presented Friday at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

The service will feature scripture readings, choral singing, a nativity slide show and liturgical dancing. Youth minister Sister Rosalind Brennan and a group of students are planning the service.

Walter Mondale a regular, too

Ford family prepares for last trip to Vail

by DEBORAH FRAZIER

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford makes his last trip to this Rocky Mountain resort area as the nation's chief executive this Christmas.

Friends intend to show the First Family they will always be just that in Vail.

The Fords have vacationed in Vail since the President's congressional days and the First Family has made dozens of friends in the Bavarian style community.

"Everybody in the city was absolutely down, down, down after the election," said Sheika Gramshammer, long-time family friend and state chairwoman for the President's re-election committee. She said Ford won the town's vote by a considerable margin.

"SO, WHEN HE comes this winter we are going to have something special for him. We want him to know he has a special place with us, always."

Walter Mondale is another regular Christmas visitor. He has escaped public scrutiny on his visits for the past eight years. He may find the situation changed because of his status as vice president-elect.

Pam Conklin, spokeswoman for Vail Associates, said the Mondale family usually stays with friends and son Teddy, 19, worked on the race crew last winter. She said the former Minnesota Senator is rated as a good, aggressive skier.

Ford, described as an avid, aggressive skier who rarely tires, spends most of his winter vacation days on the slopes. At night, he parties, frequently at Sheika's discotheque and the restaurant owned by her husband.

MRS. FORD, who is unable to ski because of a pinched nerve, spends her days visiting with friends and shopping for the family's Christmas gifts. The Ford children, Susan, 17; Jack, 23; Steve, 18, and Michael, 24, and his wife also ski.

The Fords plan to spend about two weeks at Vail, where the President earlier was named an official citizen of the city. Terry Minger, town manager, said he will do everything possible to let the Fords know they will always be the "First Family" in Vail.

"There are a lot of personal feelings and friends here and we have reason to believe he will continue coming," said Minger. "And now he will have more time to enjoy his favorite pursuits of skiing and golfing."

The Fords own a condominium in Vail, but have stayed at the home of Dallas oilman Richard Bass for security reasons since Ford became President. The Bass home is perched on the edge of a ski slope with a clear view of the town.

Part of the traditional welcome for the First Family has been a tall evergreen Christmas tree cut and decorated by town officials and placed in the Bass home. Minger said the custom will be continued.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS the village takes on a story-book atmosphere with colored lights, carolers and a frosty snow covering. The population swells from the normal 1,000 to 10,000 during the yuletide, posing some security problems.

A spokesman for the Secret Service said a contingent of agents will continue to surround Ford on the slopes and streets. The agents undergo special ski training to keep up with the President.

The Secret Service also has inspected the new Lionshead gondola following extensive renovations. Two cars of the ski lift derailed last March, killing four persons and seriously injuring eight others.

The lift is expected to open Dec. 21, but may be ready sooner. Ms. Conklin said an investigation into the accident revealed it was caused by an engineering error.

Of President Ford, she said, "We feel lucky to have had him come here for all these years and hope he will continue to feel welcome as a visitor."

Ask Andy

Plato told fir st story of Atlantis

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbrook of Science and the Future to John Horton, 11, of Charlottesville, Va., for his question:

COULD YOU PLEASE TELL ME ABOUT ATLANTIS?

Plato, the renowned Greek philosopher, told the story of Atlantis in great detail. He described it as an ideal society that declined into a corrupt military state and tried to enslave the ancient civilizations of the Mediterranean. Then suddenly the ocean island of Atlantis sank into the sea. This all happened, according to Plato, around 11,000 years ago. The island of Atlantis was somewhere beyond the Pillars of Hercules, which would have been out in the Atlantic Ocean.

Many people searched for evidence to support Plato's story — and found nothing. Meantime, other scholars were searching the ruins of early peoples that fluorished around the eastern Mediterranean between 5,000 and 2,000 years ago. They traced the civilizations of Greece and ancient Egypt back to still earlier cultures. One of these, the mysterious Minoan peoples, left evidence of a once-splendid civilization on Crete, in Greece and on a few Aegean islands. Until very recently, nobody had found any reason to associate the Minoans with the lost island of Atlantis.

Then certain scholars suggested that the Atlantis myth makes more sense when a zero is dropped from all the figures given by Plato. In this case, the disaster would have occurred in about 1500 B.C. What's more, it seemed more likely that Atlantis had been in the eastern Mediterranean. Meantime, oceanographers had found proof that a catastrophic volcanic eruption took place in this region in 1450 B.C.

If the revised estimates are correct, the place to search for Atlantis is among a group of small volcanic islands between Crete and Greece. Certainly the evidence substantiates that this region was swamped by a disaster three times greater than the devastating explosion of Krakatoa, which happened in 1883. If Atlantis once thrived in these parts, evidence would be left in other ancient Aegean cities — just where we find traces of the mysterious Minoan civilization that also disappeared suddenly.

Certain scholars now believe that the Minoan and Atlantis civilizations were one and the same. The story, they claim is of great importance because our civilization sprang from that of ancient Greece — which arose from the Minoans, who may have originated in Atlantis.

Wild bids beg careful play

Aggressive defensive bidding is something like a two headed rattlesnake. It can bite in either direction.

North's five-club call was a tremendous overbid, but he was forced into it by West's jump to four spades. It just seemed to him that a pass was too much of an underbid.

South's five-spade cue bid was fully justified and when West doubled North was able to pass and indicate that he wasn't too happy about his hand. This didn't deter South. He reasoned that if his partner didn't have two aces the chances were that East would hold the missing one and that West would probably lead a spade in any case. So South bid the grand slam.

Sure enough, West did lead that spade. South ruffed in dummy and proceeded to make the grand slam by careful play. He came back to his hand with the ace of clubs; ruffed a second spade. Cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds in order to get rid of his jack of hearts; ruffed a heart in his hand; ruffed his last small spade; came back to his hand by ruffing another heart; played his king of clubs to pick up East's queen and claimed.

A Quebec reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:

Spade K, x, x, x, x. Heart A, x. Diamond x. Club A, K, J, x, x.

Our answer is of the waffling type. We open one club or one spade depending on what our partner likes. In general you bid the higher ranking of two five-card suits first, but you may make an exception with spades and clubs.

Christmas special has something extra

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Christmas provides an annual bonanza of specials for television, most of which aren't very special at all.

Inevitably video's Yuletide falls into three categories: The wholesome family musical hour, animated cartoons of traditional tales and religious services.

This year NBC, thanks to producer Lee Mendelson and the nation's best-known hamburger chain, has an orginal idea going for it, "Christmas Around The World," a 90-minute special beaming Sunday.

"OTHER PRODUCERS have had the idea for Christmas around the world," Mendelson said. "But they waited until it was too late. No one thought of shooting the show a year ahead of time."

Mendelson began production more than a year ago, dispatching five crews to 19 countries to capture the panoply of Christmas in various cultures.

In the course of production he discovered each country had contributed its own bit of lore to the tradition of Christmas celebration.

"It all fell into place," Mendelson said. "We had intended just to shoot chorales and pageants. Then we found our story in what individual nations gave to Christmas the way it is celebrated in the United States.

Mendelson's show runs the gamut from joyous song to humor, tradition, solemnity, pageantry and just plain entertainment.

Most of all, it is different from other Christmas shows this year.

Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday, Dec. 16, the 351st day of 1976 with 15 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

English actor, playwright and composer Noel Coward was born Dec. 16, 1899.

On this day in history:

• In 1773, protesting the British tax on tea, some 50 American patriots disguised as Indians dumped 342 chests of tea into Boston harbor in what history records as "The Boston Tea Party."

• In 1835, one of history's worst fires swept over whole city blocks in New York City, razing 600 buildings and caused damage estimated at more than $20 million.

• In 1944, the Germans launched a great counter-offensive in the Ardennes Forest of Belgium, in what was called "The Battle of the Bulge."

• In 1960, 131 persons were killed when two airplanes collided over foggy New York harbor and crashed.

INDIAN MEDICINE man Rocky Stallings is in the market for any elk antlers or wild hog heads anyone has lying around the house. He restores and reproduces Indian and pioneer artifacts.

Big city Indian medicine man on hunt for antlers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Rocky Stallings has managed to adapt to a big city and the modern world pretty well. His only problem is he keeps running out of javelina heads and elk antlers.

Stallings is an Indian medicine man, and he has been a fixture at the Institute of Texan Cultures since it opened in 1968.

"I've been at this since I was 9 years of age," said Stallings, 54. "I've been on pretty near all the reservations, but not as a resident.

"I worked on the cattle ranches of he Southwest. Most of the big ranches are near reservations so they (cattlemen) could get a lot of our cheap lease land."

THE KNOWLEDGE Stallings soaked up while working around his Indian forefathers is put to work almost daily at the institute, anad often for the benefit of school children, scouting groups, adults and even other Indians who are losing track of their heritage.

That's the reason he needs to resupply his stock room of weird materials periodically. And that's the reason the institue has called on people to bring in any hides, hooves, heads, horns, antlers, legs, feet, tusks, teeth, bones, skins, shells or feathers from native Texas game they may have lying around the house.

The gravel-voiced Stallings says he has more than 2,000 projects in mind but he needs more raw material with which to work. He uses the antlers for "pressure flaking" when he fashions arrowheads. He needs the heads of the javelina (wild boar) for the tusks and teeth.

"I use the teeth in working flint and sometimes use them for decoration," he said. "I can also rade 'em for grizzly or black bear claws or teeth up in Montana."

STALLINGS SAID in his medical practice he uses a variety of herbs and plants to concoct cures for physical ailments, but is pretty cautious about what he takes on.

"I won't treat anything that hasn't been properly and correctly diagnosed or afflictions of such common knowledge that a child of 10 or 12 years old wouldn't know what's wrong," he said. He also said he doesn't dabble in evil spirits.

Stallings said he is the recognized medicine man for his and four other tribes and goes from time to time to a group of aged Indians to learn even more word-of-mouth lore and customs of the native Americans, little of which ever gets into print.

"I can still get in touch with about five (old Indians) to check some things out," he said. "I think two of them are over 100 years old and the others are crowding it.

"As soon as these guys quit breathing, I mean, that's going to leave somebody else as an authority.

"And whenever that happens to you, you're going to wish you'd paid a little bit more attention to some of he elders."

Police offer tips to ensure a safer Yule holiday

by DANN GIRE

Christmas holidays are a time of fun and family get-togethers.

They can also be a time of death and sudden tragedy for families who neglect home security and fire protection during December when burglaries and accidential blazes are usually the highest.

Area police departments are warning Northwest suburban residents to beware of leaving a home or apartment an open invitation for thieves and burglars.

Police recommend the use of a dead-bolt lock to deter easy break-ins by burglars when families are not home. Adequate locks around windows also are urged.

If your family is away during the Christmas holidays, police request you contact them so that regular patrols can keep an eye on your property in your absence.

Police say families should make arrangements with neighbors or friends to keep the house looking as though someone is home. Newspapers must be picked up, milk bottles should be taken in shortly after they are placed at the house, and the walk may be shovelled for show to add a "lived-in" look to the home.

Police also urge residents to use lamps equipped with timers so that lights will go on and off automatically, giving the impression someone is inside the house.

All households should have emergency numbers posted in a prominent place near the telephone. Ambulance, doctor, police, and fire numbers should be included in the list.

Special locks can be purchased to be used for special situations. Most police departments have a crime prevention bureau which can advise residents on what kind of locks are best for certain situations.

A few police departments also will, upon request, send men out to inspect your home and tell you in what ways you can make it more secure.

Fire officials warn, however, that there is such a thing as being "too secure" in a home, because some of the more extreme security measures, such as window bars or elaborate locks, can prevent quick evacuation in the event of a sudden fire.

"We don't object at all to dead bolt locks," Mount Prospect Public Education Fire Officer Lonnie Jackson said. "We just want to make sure that any lock used can be easily and quickly opened from the inside to allow fast evacuation."

Fire prevention bureaus have drawn up several suggestions to aid in fire prevention and fire-fighting during tht Christmas holidays.

- Keep snow and debris away from mail boxes, street numbers or house addresses so that firefighters can easily find your home in a hurry.
- Keep snow brushed off fire hydrants if one is near your house to aid firefighters in quickly finding a source of water.
- Keep all debris and flammable materials away from furnace areas where possible fires may result. All furnaces should be checked periodically to make sure they are functioning properly and are not probable fire hazards.
- Because furnaces are on, all flammable materials should be stored in safety cans or air-tight containers to keep fumes from reaching the furnace area, causing a fire threat.
- If you have a fireplace, be sure the flue is open and all flammable materials out of the way before a fire is ignited. Use a screen to enclose the firebox and eliminate the chance of live embers popping out on the floor.

When it comes to purchasing a Christmas tree and holiday decorations, fire officials suggest:

- Buy a freshly cut tree, one that will be less of a fire hazard than a dry tree. A fresh tree should have sap at its butt, deep green color in its leaves and have a strong scent of pine.
- Keep your tree in a water-holding stand, much as you would a bunch of freshly-cut flowers. Check to make sure the water is replaced as the tree uses it.
- Never use electric lights on metallic trees. Be sure to turn off all Christmas tree lights when leaving your home for any length of time.

Reclaiming stolen car can be easy

Cars are stolen anywhere cars are parked. Even the most sophisticated burglar alarms and anti-theft devices can be circumvented by a sophisticated thief.

But some owners of stolen cars are lucky. Their autos are discovered abandoned or are spotted by police while the thieves are driving them. These cars will be returned to their owners.

But what kind of procedures must a car-owner go through to legally get his vehicle returned to his driveway?

In the Uorthwest suburbs, police say the process is simple and brief, requiring a small amount of money and proper identification papers.

Once police establish that a car is abandoned (by thieves or "joy riders") or has been stolen, the auto is placed in the municipal vehicle pound where it is secured until the ltgal owner arrives.

THE CAR IS only released to the owner who must prove ownership with a title or registration card. The person should also be able to produce personal identification so police are sure the car is going to the proper hands.

The owner must pay any charges for towing the car into the pound, and any other expenses incurred in the legal processing of the car's release.

Thomas Daley of the Mount Prospect Police Dept. says the whole process probably takes 15 minutes to complete if the owner has all the papers necessary to get the car.

In Des Plaines so far this year, auto thefts have run about five per month, but the department has been able to clear almost half of them. Police have recovered 164 abandoned vehicles the first nine months of this year.

But this is not the case for the City of Chicago, which takes in hundreds of stolen and abandoned cars every year. Because so many cars are taken in, seven city car pounds are set up to keep track of them all.

A Chicago police official said that the procedure for regaining possession of a car is very similar to that in the Northwest suburbs.

A person wishing to get his car back first must find out at which of the seven pounds his car is located.

POLICE ARE on duty at the pounds at all times, the official said, to take care of the release procedures as quickly as possible.

A flat charge of $27 is levied for towing the car into the pound. An additional charge of $2.50 per day is levied for storage of the car. These charges are often payable through an individuals car insurance company.

The official said that to get the car released, a person must present a valid title or registration card and a personal identification card with a driver's license.

No statistics are available on the number of stolen suburban cars which have ended up in the municipal limits of Chicago.

Chicago police said, however, that up. to Nov. 10 of this year, 1,721 cars have een recovered that were taken from outside the Chicago limits.

Jobless with a diploma? Here's where to go

Project 210, sponsored by the Cook County Office of Manpower and High School Dist. 214, is seeking jobless persons with a high school diploma for a work-training program which will begin Jan. 24 at Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd., Wheeling.

The program offers 12 weeks of training to prepare adults for entry-level jobs in the area of machine tool operation and welding, office skills or basic drafting. Classes will meet from 2:15 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. five days a week. If eligible, trainees will receive an allowance of $2 30 per hour of attendance.

Applicants must be residents of suburban Cook County, 18 years old or older, and be the principal wage earner in the family, or be contributing a significant portion to the support of the household or be self-supporting.

In addition to skill training, the program provides opportunities for individual and group counseling and helps successful trainees locate employment upon completion of their training period.

For more information, or to apply for enrollment in the program, call 537-4980.

Paul Petzoldt, at 68, ready for Grand Teton peak

by DAN CHISZAR

DENVER (UPI) — Grizzled mountaineer Paul Petzoldt shifted his burly frame in a chair and dedicated his traditional New Year's Day climb of Wyoming's jagged 13,766-foot Grand Teton Peak to the old folks at home in 1977.

"I get all sorts of letters from people in retirement homes who read about my climbs," said the white-haired Petzoldt, 68, while in town to work on a mountain climbing film.

"I suppose a lot of these senior citizens sort of project themselves onto me, and I love it. They look on me as the old guy who is still active.

"Hell, I don't mind getting old. I hope they read about this climb and feel good about it."

PAUL PETZOLDT

PETZOLDT, who in his salad days developed a reputation as a gambler, barroom brawler and adventurer, first climbed the northwestern Wyoming Peak at 16. Since then, he has climbed the mountain hundreds of times and once did it seven times in one day.

But, it wasn't until 1936 that he made his first treacherous mid-winter ascent. In 1965, Petzoldt scaled the peak with members of the National Outdoor Leadership School which he founded the same year in Lander, Wyo.

Every year since, Petzoldt has led a New Year's Day expedition up the mountain. The climbers have been successful in reaching the top in six of 11 attempts.

Each year, high winds whip up snowstorms on the mountain and temperatures drop far below zero. Avalanche danger is always present, but Petzoldt has yet to lose a climber in the mid-winter assault.

Only nine of the 27-member party made the summit on the last climb. Petzoldt said they were foolish to try it.

"LAST TIME the group took more chances than they should have," he said. "They pushed on to the summit when they should have turned back. They had to climb down the peak in the dark, which is too risky. If I had been along on the final assault, we would have turned back."

Petzoldt sipped some coffee and then his talk drifted into his past.

"My values as a young man were 50 years ahead of time. I liked adventure.

"During the Depression I rode freight trains across the country. In my early days at Jackson Hole, Wyo., I learned about gambling by playing poker. I became a fairly good gambler and once worked as a dealer at Las Vegas.

"WHILE GOING to high school, I worked with a restaurant cook who was a punchy, ex-sparring partner of Gene Tunney. He got the idea that he was going to make me the new world's champion. He trained me, and I fought around Elks Clubs and smokers.

"I never had to fight very much. After I was in Jackson Hole a couple of years, I fought a bully who had shot a couple guys and bit off one guy's ear. I won and nobody much wanted to tangle with me anymore."

Petzoldt was convicted of assault and battery about a year ago for tangling with a young man outside a Wyoming hotel bar. The only ill effects Petzoldt suffered from the fight were a $100 fine and $5 court costs.

"You know, I should lose a few pounds to make this next climb. I weight about 250 pounds now, but I'm physically tough. I was in the mountains all last August carrying a 60-pound pack. I'll be doing a lot of downhill and some cross-country skiing in preparation for the climb."

Petzoldt's bushy eyebrows knitted into a frown on his ruddy face and he glanced downward.

"I always said I wasn't going to stop until I'm 80, so maybe I should keep going as long as I'm in good health. If I'm in good enough shape, I'd like to make a special effort to make the summit."

Petzoldt said he didn't try for the summit last time so the expedition's younger members would have a chance. He also said he would have slowed them down.

Petzoldt will select by late November two 12-member teams for the next climb. They will leave Lander the day after Christmas and cross-country ski to Bradlee Lake in Grand Teton Park.

THE CLIMBERS will trek to the Middle Teton Glacier at the 11,000-foot level by Dec. 29 and spend the next day preparing for an assault on the summit, which includes the last 600 nearly vertical feet up the steep granite peak.

"My sincere desire to make the summit is not going to affect my judgment once I'm there," Petzoldt said. "It will depend on a lot of things like weather conditions and how I feel.

"I just have a feeling that maybe I shouldn't press my luck too far. I'd like to grow old gracefully and not try to give the idea that I was as good as I ever was. I don't want to be anything but my age."

Girls of White House tell of pressure, fun

by RICHARD H. GROWALD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Carol Montague wondered why her fellow Press Department secretaries stopped laughing in a White House hallway during her imitation of Liza Minnelli's singing-dancing number "Mein Leiber Herr," from "Cabaret."

She swung around. There stood the President, smiling and applauding.

Carol and her fellows depart the White House along with President Ford Jan. 20. They are job-hunting. They have typing, dictation and filing skills. They also have a record of performance under pressure — song and dance notwithstanding.

Gay Pirozzi's record includes May 17 when, during French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's state visit, she telephoned Blair House to reach State Department press official Mary Masserini.

A man answered and politely said he did not know where Miss Masserini was.

"Isn't this Blair House?" asked Gay.

Yes, it is, the man said.

"I'M LOOKING for Mary," said Gay, a Scarsdale, N.Y., woman who came to the White House in 1971. She thought it charmimg the French had brought along such a pleasantly accented man to answer their phone. A butler or something.

The man answered a series of questions about where is Mary and almost apologetically said the call had pulled him from the bathtub. He was Raymond Barre, now France's prime minister.

Jan Barbieri began in the Nixon years and won a sort of fame for being the secretary who — after Gen. Alexander Haig theorized that a "sinister force" had wiped out some taped Watergate conversations — pasted on a White House Lampshade a picture of Bela Lugosi — "Sinister Force."

In the Ford years, Jan decided the "sinister force" had become the White House' elaborate but whacky machinery. One day she switched on the ventilation fans and lighted Ron Nessen's office fireplace. In rushed Terry O'Donnell, Ford's appointments secretary.

"The smoke alarm has gone off in the Oval Office," he said. The President examined his pipe and worked on calmly, even if the Secret Service bustled a bit.

Jan, from East Providence, R.I., discovered that press department secretaries — Nessen calls them assistants — find adventure outside the White House. In San Francisco with the President and Nessen, Jan was asked to have a St. Francis Hotel shine applied to the press secretary's shoes.

THE HOTEL said they had no shiner on duty. Jan carried the shoes to San Francisco shine parlors. Each said they shined no shoes unless there were feet inside them. So Jan plucked off her heels, donned Nessen's shoes, and took the high chair for the shining.

Secretaries Mary Bourke of South Bend, Ind., and Gail Campbell of Gray Court, S.C., speak of the Full Moonies. It is White House lore that when the moon is full the telephone lines bend under the load of crank callers. A favorite topic of Full Moonies is the President's hair — or its sparseness.

Callers have offered to send Ford wigs. A man called from Britain and offered his services in having him fly to London for a hair transplant.

Other callers handled by the secretaries include:

• A man who complained his bladder was not working and what would the White House do about it. Connie Thumma, a secretary from Millersville, Pa., suggested he call a doctor, the fire department or a plumber. The fellow called back, saying the plumber worked fine.

• A man who repeatedly telephoned the White House to talk to Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Finally, Larry Speakes, assistant press secretary; and Jan Barbieri took the parts of Philip and Elizabeth, giving the man his long distance's worth.

"Oh, my God, the Queen!" the man said, "Hi, Queen!"

• A man, telephoning from a bar and sounding like it, insisted he had a secret message for the President and a White House official must come and pick it up. Jan told him a VIP would trot right over. Later, the man called back, saying no VIP had shown.

"Have you seen a man in a hat come in?"

"No."

"Well, all White House big shots wear hats, so wait for a man to come in the bar wearing a hat," Jan said.

• With the traveling White House in Peoria, Ill. A hotel mistakenly assigned Connie Thumma a room she found already occupied by an Australian genleman. The fellow speedinly offered to share the room. Connie fled. But, without the bill for that room, it took her months for the bureaucracy to yield her $17 per diem for that night.

IT'S ONLY A SKELETON now, but C. W. Conrad has faith that his "airship" will be of great benefit to civilization. The 80-foot round saucer-shaped airship resembles a blimp. But there is a difference. It has a rigid metal internal structure somewhat similar to the dirigibles of another time. Conrad has invested $25,000 in the project and hopes to raise additional funds to finance the work. He says the total cost will be $300,00.

Builder believes 'airship' will benefit civilization

by HAL DeKEYSER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — It is only a skeleton now, but C. W. Conrad has faith that his "airship" will be of great benefit to civilization.

For the past six years, in a farming community southeast of Phoenix, Conrad, 57, an electrical contractor, and his son, Darwin, 26, have een building an 80-foot round saucer-shaped airship.

Other than its saucer shape, it resembles a blimp. But there is a difference. It has a rigid metal internal structure somewhat similar to the dirigibles of another time.

Conrad has invested $25,000 in the project. He needs to convince others that his expectations can become fact enough to raise the remainder of the funds to finance the work. He says the total cost will be $300,000.

How might his lighter-than-air craft be used today?

THE NAVY COULD use it to monitor foreign submarines, he says. It could be used to move cargo from ships a sea to areas without natural harbors. It could take supplies to oil wells in the deepest reaches of South America or to backwoods Canadian logging operations.

Only partially complete, the metal frame sits like a skeleton of a giant flying saucer on Conrad's 10-acre plot. It is Conrad's second attempt at building an airship. His first was damaged so badly by a severe windstorm that he decided to start over.

Conrad cites several instances of interest in the rigid structure airships.

A mining concern in South Africa is thinking of moving workers and supplies from urban areas to the mines by airship.

THE NATIONAL Aeronautics and Space Administration has sponsored several feasibility studies on the possible use of airships. Several corporations and foreign governments have been reported looking into the concept.

Of his own project, he says, "We've had inquiries from all over the world."

But he said, "no one is willing to take the bit in their mouth and run with it."

Last spring, the Navy wanted to research the development of airships. And funds were approved for a study to determine whether they might be used in anti-submarine warfare. But not to study their development.

"The government is skeptical," he said. "They really don't want to stick their neck out. I think the Hindenburg disaster is one drawback."

The Hindenburg, a German zeppelin, erupted in flames while mooring after a transatlantic crossing at Lakehurst, N.J., in 1937, killing 36 persons.

HE ALSO recalled two ill-fated airship experiments sponsored by the Goodyear Co. One ship, the Akron, went down at sea when the pilot misread the altimeter. Another, the Macon, lost a hastily repaired fin in a storm.

"Everyone's talking about it, but no one's doing anything about it other than my son and mystlf," Conrad said.

With $25,000 of his personal savings already in the project, Conrad now adds in profits from electrical contracting jobs he and his son do and has sold some $25 certificates to raise more funds. The certificates entitle the holders to advertising on the craft or a ride on i when and if it is completed.

PURE AWARENESS in a deeper than deep sleep, is the way Julie Brown describes transcendental meditation, different from all other stages of consciousness. A teacher of TM technique, she is current president of the International Meditation Society.

Julie Brown

TM changed her life

by ELEANOR RIVES

In 1968, when Julie Brown, then a Beloit college student, flew to Nordenfjord World University in Denmark to investigate an experiment in education, two things happened to increase the fullness of her life.

She became acquainted with Michael, who became her husband, and with the Transcendental Meditation (TM) program, which became her technique for achieving expanded awareness and increased potential.

Mrs. Michael Brown of Schaumburg has been practicing the TM technique for eight years and teaching it for four. She is current president of the International Meditation Society, with headquarters in Arlington Heights, and, as she puts it, "the administrative housemother to the 2,500 meditators in the northwest suburbs."

The TM technique is based on a 20-minute period of meditation twice daily to relax mind and body, a practice which Julie states brings about clearer thinking, better test and job performance, faster reaction time, even increased intelligence.

"I want to stress that this is not a religion, not a lifestyle. It's a technique that must be learned, a practice, something you do daily, like brushing your teeth," she said. "It's a beautiful thing, it gives the body and mind an opportunity to refresh and rejuvenate."

ALL TM training of teachers is done in person by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, the founder of "the science of creative intelligence." Julie and Michael were trained as teachers in Majorca, Spain, and taught the TM technique in Canada until April, 1976, when they moved to this area. Julie is involved with the TM program full time; her husband, a computer programmer, part-time.

"I have taught the TM technique to more than 700 people," said Julie. "It's so fulfilling — better than schoolteaching — giving people something so fundamental to their happiness. To watch people unfold before your eyes — you can't imagine what joy that is!"

Currently she is teaching as many as 35 persons per week on a one-to-one basis and giving three or four group lectures per week. Elected president of the International Meditation Society by the Council of Teachers — there are 12 of them — Julie is the coordinator of all IMS activities, and along with Steve Schulte, IMS chairman, acts as a spokesman for the group as a whole. She also handles the financial and accounting business and works on public relations and publicity.

It was she who made the arrangements for the upcoming Winter Festival, a dinner and award ceremony Saturday evening at the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn. Plaques will be presented to 10 northwest suburbanites who have by their work, each in his own field, strengthened the community.

"We want to honor local success," said Julie, "to focus on the positive areas. We hope this will begin a tradition of such awards."

EVERYONE IS invited to attend the dinner and program; reservations at $7 per person may be made by calling Mrs. Brown at 398-7153. There will also be an open house at the center at 207 S. Arlington Heights Rd. on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. On Monday evening, there will be a party for children.

Julie spent six months of 1976 in Switzerland with Maharishi in a special advanced training course, as did Steve. Both considered it a high honor to be allowed to mingle with university professors from all over the world in the research study of consciousness.

"The TM program has changed my life," said Julie. "Although I have always been outgoing, I was so nervous, so high strung, always taking on too much — good ulcer candidate. I am still outgoing, but now no matter how much I project outward, I retain my feeling of wholeness. I am never empty inside." She professes that she also enjoyed such smaller blessings as losing weight and giving up smoking.

There are more than 300 local centers such as the one in Arlington Heights in the United States, with a half million people practicing the TM technique, about 20,000 of them in the Chicago area. "Our goal is to have one center for every million people in the world," said Julie. Of the four regional centers in the country, one is in Barrington. There is a national office in California and an international office in Switzerland.

JULIE BROWN IS motivated by an intense desire to help achieve a better society — one in which at least one per cent of the population is following the TM program of meditation. Studies have shown that in cities where one per cent of the people meditate, the crime rate declines.

"I feel privileged — greatly blessed — to have and use the knowledge I have," she said quietly. "The ideal society! Why wait? Let's have it as soon as possible."

She believes, along with Maharishi Mahesh Yogi and his TM program devotees, that the world is on the dawn of the age of enlightenment.

Sterilization

More couples using procedure as birth control

by BARBARA LADD

Years ago sterilizations were performed as a last resort to medical conditions — not as a contraceptive end to the baby-making process.

But no more.

About eight and a quarter million individuals in the United States now rely on surgical sterilization as their chosen method of birth control, according to the Association of Voluntary Sterilization. And in the past six years, the number of couples opting for sterilization has jumped from 15 to 25 per cent, reports the Office of Population Research.

The reasons are numerous. One recently married northwest suburban couple with four children from previous marriages felt they could not financially support another child. A divorced mother-of-three in her mid-thirties developed complications from birth control pills. And one woman requested sterilization because she was unable to carry her pregnancies to full term.

EACH OF HER and her husband's three children, the last one unplanned, was born one to three months prematurely, and they didn't want that anxiety again, she explained.

"We talked about it a lot and decided if something happened to me, maybe he'd someday want another child. But if something happened to him, I knew there was no way I'd ever want to have another baby," she said.

That decisive attitude is what doctors look for in men and women who ask to be sterilized.

Dr. Philip M. Gardner, Arlington Heights gynecologist, says he must feel certain the woman does not want to have a child "from that point on."

"I go into the morbid details," he said. "What if her spouse dies or they are divorced and she remarries? What if one of her children dies?"

"I TELL HER there are practically no adoptable babies around any more and that sterilization is a permanent procedure, one that's not reversible. If she looks at me and says, 'Listen, I don't want any more children ever,' I'll do it."

"This is not a procedure to be rushed into blindly," agrees Dr. Howard Topel, Niles gynecologist. "The woman must be convinced this is what she wants and not be pushed by her husband or a bad week with the kids."

Drs. Gardner and Topel are both board-certified gynecologists associated with area hospitals who perform sterilizations as just one aspect of their practices. Any licensed physician with a surgical certification may perform female sterilizations, according to Dr. Louis Keith, medical director of Planned Parenthood, Chicago. "But here in the Chicago metropolitan area, most are done by gynecologists in their private practices," he said.

MOST OF THE female sterilizations — almost 90 per cent — are laproscopic tubal fulguations, or Band-aid surgery, as it's popularly called. The procedure originated in Europe and has been followed in the U.S. for about eight years.

The result is a mechanical barrier between egg and sperm, but normal physical function is not inhibited, said Dr. Topel. The woman continues to have her menstrual periods and hormonal cycles.

The procedure takes about 30 minutes under anesthesia. Most women are in the hospital overnight, although Dr. Gardner said nearly half of the operations could be completed in outpatient facilities. More than 99 per cent of the women experience no serious side effects from the surgery, the doctors said.

"BUT MOST FEEL like a truck rolled over them, and they're usually not up to cocktail parties for a couple of days," said Dr. Gardner.

A slightly more involved procedure for female sterilization is the post-partum tubal ligation, which is done no more than 24 hours after giving birth.

The advantage is that, with the woman already in the hospital, it's a convenient time to sterilize her, said Dr. Gardner. The disadvantage hinges on the health of her newborn; if the baby dies during the crucial first months of life and the woman desires another child, she would be unable to conceive.

Removal of the uterus also sterilizes a woman, although most are not performed for that reason.

"I'M NOT SAYING a woman should be sterilized via a hysterectomy, said Dr. Gardner. "But if she has heavy, uncomfortable bleeding during her periods, or if she has a small fibroid growth that would require removing the uterus in a few years, or if any number of other factors are present, a hysterectomy can be an alternative to a tubal."

One new development in female sterilization involves placement of clips or rings around the Fallopian tubes instead of burning or tying them closed. A greater chance of reversibilty is hoped from this method, but doctors caution that any type of sterilization at present is irreversible.

Whatever the sterilization method chosen, Dr. Gardner and Dr. Topel say they inform patients and husbands of the potential risks, such as infections and internal burns.

"THEY ALSO MUST understand that there is a failure rate," explained Dr. Topel. Sterilization is unsuccessful in one of 600 to 1,000 cases.

Yet despite pre-surgical counseling, some women experience guilt feelings after their sterilizations; a recent study indicated a woman may lose some of her own concept of feminity because she can no longer bear children, noted Dr. Topel.

But, said Dr. Gardner, both sexes have this type of ego problem.

"All other factors being equal, a vasectomy is better in every way," he said. But a husband seems to have more of a masculinity problem, he added.

DR. DONALD NORRIS, Park Ridge urologist who is associated with an area hospital, agrees. Compared to a laproscopic tubal, a 15-minute vasectomy is simpler, less painful and less expensive. (A vasectomy costs around $200, a laproscopic tubal, more than $500.)

"But a man shouldn't be rushed into having a vasectomy just because his wife wants him to," he cautioned. "He may be very unhappy."

Although there are no accurate statistics on the number of vasectomies performed in the Chicago area or in Illinois, Planned Parenthood medical director Keith said national figures are up sharply from 1970.

The Northwest Suburban Vasectomy Clinic, Arlington Heights, is a private urology practice specializing in vasectomies, and handles over 1,000 vasectomy cases a year — not a significant change from 1971. But Dr. Norris said vasectomy requests in his office have jumped from 50 to 200 a year in the same time span.

HE REQUESTS that each vasectomy patient write a letter explaining the reasons for having the procedure done, and cites a financial desire to rear fewer children as the primary concern, followed by over-population worries.

"There's no question from the requests we get that the age of the big family is over," said Dr. Norris. "With the inflation spiral many people can't comfortably afford more than two children."

Still, Dr. Norris counsels his Operation no longer nightmare

Sterilization for females is not the psychological or physical nightmare it used to be, according to a study at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The study said 85 per cent of women sterilized at MGH by a simplified surgical technique have had no regrets and found their sexual activity, mental and physical health have remained the same or have improved.

The operation is called laparoscopic tubal division and can be performed in a short time. A woman can arrive at the hospital at 8 a.m. and leave by 1 p.m., according to Dr. Ann B. Barnes, obstetrician-gynecologist.

DR. BARNES reported the study in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The operation requires only two small incisions in the abdomen after which a laparascope is inserted into the cavity. The laparascope has forceps attached to electric wires which are heated and used to cauterize the fallopian tubes. The fallopian tubes conduct the egg from the ovary to the uterus.

The incisions made during the operation are so small that women often refer to the operation as "Band-Aid surgery," Barnes said.

ABOUT 150 SUCH operations are performed at MGH each year.

The study was made after 187 women had undergone laparascopic operations between 1969 and 1974. The women interviewed ranged in age from 22 to 46 years. Most women were married and cited having "enough children" as the reason they underwent the sterilization operation.

Male 'pill' among promising leads in current contraception research

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

A male contraceptive pill is among 200 promising contraceptive research leads cited in a major Ford Foundation-sponsored study of the reproductive sciences published this week.

Other developments could lead to a vaccine to prevent pregnancy, agents that "hide" the egg from the approaching sperm, agents that keep the fertilized egg from taking root in the womb, and a once-a-month contraceptive — via injection.

At a Ford Foundation headquarters briefing in New York, held in conjunction with the report's release, researchers warned, however, that efforts to achieve effective, safe and inexpensive fertility-control methods "may be seriously delayed" by a decline in the funding of reproductive research.

TO TRACK AFTER the scientific leads would take at least three times as much money as is now being spent — estimated at $109 million this year, according to the 622-page report, "Reproduction and Human Welfare: A Challenge to Research" (Cambridge: MIT Press).

Dr. Don W. Fawcett, a Harvard professor of anatomy, told science writers about the search for a male equivalent to the birth control pill taken by millions of women around the world.

"Reproductive biologists who have been mainly interested in the female tend to hold out little hope of oral contraceptives for the male," he said.

"I believe there is no real basis for this pessimism. It is true that the male has been neglected. We are now rapidly coming from behind."

He described three "viable strategies" for male contraceptive development, adding:

"There are prototype drugs for each that have proven effective in animals.

"IT IS REGRETTABLE that the decline in support of research comes at a time when we are just beginning to approach, for the male, a level of understanding comparable to that which prevailed for the female, before the development of the pill.

"With continued support, there is every reason to believe that a safe, reversible oral contraceptive for the male is an attainable goal."

He said the earlier greater effort and expenditure for the female pill may be attributable "in some degree

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

White spot should be checked regularly

I am inquiring about a diagnosis my sister had. The doctor said she has leukoplakia. It's some spot she has on her tongue. What is this? It it a form of cancer? Could you tell me what should be done for it? She had a biopsy; the doctor said it was not malignant, but she is worried.

She has had trouble for years swallowing anything that was not chewed-up real fine. She is undernourished because of the swallowing, and not being able to swallow her food, she sometimes relies on liquid made from blending in a blender, like milk, honey and banana.

After all the doctors she's been to, they should have told her what causes her difficulty in swallowing. Can you give her any advice on this?

The term leukoplakia means white patch. Leuko in medical terminology means white and plakia refers to a patch. Most often they are seen on the lip or inner cheek of the mouth, but they do occur on the tongue and gingiva (gums). A common cause is smoking.

The pipe smoker may develop a leukoplakia of the lip, where the pipe stem rests on the lip surface. Ill-fitting dentures may injure the inner cheek or other areas of the mouth, including the side of the tongue and cause a leukoplakia. In all of these instances the irritating factor should be identified and removed — or corrected — whether it is the pipe or a set of ill-fitting dentures.

The general nutrition problems your sister has experienced may be related to the leukoplakia, but I can't say without knowing more about the basis of her difficulty in swallowing.

Leukoplakia should be regarded as a potential cancer. That is why the doctor took a biopsy. Many of them do not progress to a malignancy, but others do. I must emphasize that your doctor has already considered this and has satisfied himself that your sister does not now have a cancer. However, it is very important that she be examined regularly and that a doctor check the status of the spot to detect any new changes as early as possible.

IF YOUR SISTER smokes, she should quit at once. If she has dentures that don't fit or a natural tooth that sticks out in such a way to irritate the tongue, these or related problems that cause irritation should be corrected without delay. The mouth should be kept absolutely clean, at all times. If any other local treatment is needed, the doctor will be able to ell on he basis of the nature of the spot.

The swallowing problem could be from many different disorders, including spasm of the esophagus. And even nervous tension can cause it. Anyone who has difficulty in swallowing must have a medical evaluation as soon as possible. One of the many different causes is cancer of the esophagus. Early detection improves the chances for adequate treatment. Your sister has had frequent examinations so I would not think this would be her problem.

Do you know someone who needs to know about the harmful effects of smoking? If so send 50 cents with a long, stamped enveloped with his address on it, and ask for The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarets, Cigars, Pipes. Just send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Pastry cloth requires occasionl laundering

Dear Dorothy: What troubles I had making pie crust until I bought a pastry cloth and rolling pin cover. Just great! The crusts roll out beautifully and gone is the messy cleanup afterward. Are you supposed to wash out the pastry cloth after each use? How do you take care of this problem? — Mrs. D. Sepaniak

You're absolutely right how efficient this is in pie-baking. Here, unless the cloth is messy, I roll both cloth and cover together and store in the refrigerator. When they do appear messy, I shake them out and launder — and start all over again.

Dear Dorothy: Does it matter which "eye" one pokes in a fresh coconut so as to drain the liquid? Also what temperature should the oven be for the shell cracking — and how long? — Edna Goldner

There are three ridges dividing the area at the eye end. The soft eye is in the largest section. Push a screwdriver into that eye and drain the liquid. As for using the oven, it calls for 300 degrees for an hour. If the coconut hasn't cracked open by then, tap with a hammer.

Dear Dorothy: To get a dog to take pills better, cover them with peanut butter. They have to be well covered or else a smart dog will swallow the peanut butter and spit out the pill. To get a cat to take pills, cover with butter and force down its throat. The butter helps the pill slide down. — W. Robertson

Dear Dorothy: Found an old box of papers in the basement recently, and I hated to go through them as they had such a musty smell. I put in some fragrant toilet tissue and reclosed the box. Four days later the odor was totally gone, and it was a pleasant job. — Claudia Hess

O, Christmas tree, what will it be?

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

When it comes to Christmas trees, everyone has his own idea of what is the perfect tree.

One family may opt to pull its artificial tree out of the box once a year, and pass up the cold trek to go out and find a real one.

Others may feel that buying an evergreen is part of the Christmas celebration.

Unless you have planned ahead and dug a hole in the yard for your tree before the ground froze (with reserve unfrozen soil to cover), don't try to bring a live, growing balled-and-burlapped tree from the nursery into the house. There is no way you can keep it alive until spring. And the short period it is in the house for Christmas, will all but sap its strength in transpiration. You deserve credit for thinking ecologically, but nine times out of ten, it doesn't work. If buying a cut tree really does disturb you, perhaps you should consider going the artificial route. However, most cut trees these days come from tree farms, not despoiled forests.

THE THREE MOST popular selections of cut trees include the bushy Scotch pine, the sharp-needled spruce and the traditional, graceful balsam.

My favorite, however, is the Douglas fir, a tree that is often overlooked, but one that combines the fullness of the pine without the squatty look of the pine, with the more symmetrical shape of the delicate balsam. The Douglas fir welcomes your touch with ornaments and lights. The needles are not as soft as the balsam, but will not bite as do the spruce needles, and will support the weight of ornaments better than the pine or balsam (but not the spruce). Every tree has its drawbacks, and the Douglas fir's is the price: it's usually the most expensive of the four.

Whichever tree you choose, check for freshness. A fresh tree has a strong fragrance and does not drop a myriad of needles when shaken or bounced lightly on the ground. It shouldn't shower needles if you run your fingers down a branch either.

KEEP YOUR TREE fresh at home before putting it up, by storing it outside in a bucket of water. Before placing it in the bucket, make a cut in the butt of the tree diagonally about an inch above the regular cut. This will open the pores and aid in the absorption of water. When you are ready to decorate, saw off the butt end again squaring the diagonal, to help keep the tree upright, and allow for further absorption. You may want to add Green Garde or other preservative to the water to help delay needle drop. Of course, the longer you keep the tree inside, the bigger the risk of fire hazard. A week to 10 days is plenty of time to enjoy your Christmas tree.

You'll want to position your tree away from heat sources, including the television and fireplace. It's best to plug in your tree lights on a non-combustible surface for 10 minutes before you arrange them on a tree. Then you can feel and see trouble spots, such as frayed cords, faulty wires, etc.

YOU DON'T NEED the anxiety of worrying whether the tree will catch fire. You might be interested in a new product this year that is part ornament and part fire alarm. It's a star-shaped decoration that doubles as a battery-powered sensor. The Star Alarm sounds a loud buzzing noise that warns of fire. Priced under $10, it is made by Life Alarm Co.

Enjoy a safe holiday season!

Stocking stuffers for those who sew

by JOANNE SCHREIBER

Small sewing aids are reminders throughout the year of thoughtful gift-giving. Here are a few ideas for stocking stuffers plus a suggestion for a cute stuffed toy to make for children this holiday.

An adorable new version of a traditional stuffed toy to make as gifts — a pair of snap-together doggies is called Hug-Ums.

The pre-cut kit contains all fabrics — calico prints, solid pieces of red and green for the faces, felt and self-adhering fastener. Complete patterns and step-by-step instructions make the task easy. Everything is included except the polyester stuffing.

Send check or money order for $4.95 plus 75 cents postage to Saddle Valley Stitchery, P.O. Box 144, Saddle River, N.J., 07458.

PRE-CUT KIT helps those who want to give a very special stuffed toy to their younger friends. The Hug-Ums are favorites done in calico prints or other fabric designs.

If you're tired of stretchy fabric tape measures, try the new Boldy-Ruler. It is a tape measure of flexible transparent plastic, hinged like a carpenter's rule, and marked in inches and metric. A companion piece is the Pantsformer, a flexible rule designed to measure the crotch curve, and transfer that measurement to the pants pattern. Both products are by Fantastic Fit.

If you are making tailored garments this winter, Belding Lily's new Point Presser will help create perfectly pressed seams. This is a wooden gadget which looks something like an anvil, with a wide base and slender, pointed top surface. Use the three-quarter-inch wide top section for pressing open seams in sleeves, pants and other tight places. Use the pointed tip for a good sharp point on collars and pocket flaps, and use the base as a founding block to flatten seams.

If there's a needleworker on your Christmas list, a terrific stocking-stuffer present is a new pair of dainty scissors for all kinds of fine-line needlework. These little scissors are only four and three-quarter inches long, weigh less than an ounce and have tortoise-shell handles and needle-sharp points. They are recommended for embroidery, needlepoint, applique, cutting buttonholes, seam ripping and fabric trimming. The blades cut right to the tip. Attractively packaged in a compact vinyl carrying case, these Wiss Needlecraft Scissors are available at department stores and fabric stores, at $6.95.

Here's a new device which belongs in everyone's desk or travel kit: a pack of Lasso Loops. These attach any kind of button instantly. This is a pack of sturdy, flexible high-strength plastic threads, about two inches long, with a sharp pointy end and a loop end.

All you do is push the pointy end up through fabric and button, push it down through the other button hole and thread it through its own loop. A good gift for men, too, $1.99 buy dozens. By Stacy Fabrics.

Moose dine Saturday on barbecued ribs

A "Snow Ball" dinner dance is a holiday event set for Saturday for all Des Plaines Moose Lodge members and guests. A barbecued rib dinner at 7 p.m. starts off the party in the Moose Home. Cost is $6 per person.

New magazine for gardeners

The psychology of color in gardens will be featured in a new outdoor gardening magazine scheduled to begin publication in February, 1977.

Publisher Carol L. Klapper says "Popular Gardening Outdoors" will be a semi-yearly, carrying conventional how-to stories as well as features on gardeners' motivations. Ms. Klapper said studies show at least 31 million American families garden outdoors and buy plants, equipment and other accessories. (UPI)

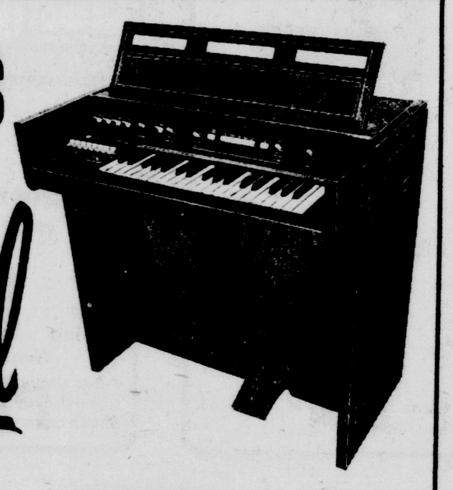
CHRISTMAS Special


Hammond has broken some traditions. The Sounder is uncomplicated. There's one keyboard for right-hand notes. And chord buttons for the left-hand. There's automatic rhythm and Autochord. Just press a button. A full rhythmic chord sounds. And the fun begins! But there's one tradition that remains . . . the quality of Hammond sound.
Sounder Features
• Exciting rhythm: Waltz, March, Rock, Ballad, Latin.
• Autochord: Chords play automatically in any rhythmic pattern you select.
• Portamento lets you create special effects.
• Vibrato adds emotional intensity.
• Repeat rate adds a "strumming" sound to voices.
• Headphone Jack.
• Sounder music.
• All Solid-State.

Male 'pill' promising lead

to chauvinism in a research community dominated by men."

"But it is only fair to point out that there is a fundamental difference in the nature of the problem that may have made an oral contraceptive for the female seem a more easily attainable goal," Fawcett said.

"In women by interfering with endocrine control mechanisms, via the pill, we are able to prevent ovulation — a single event that occurs only once each month and releases a single ovum.

"IN THE MALE, on the other hand, we seek to interfere with a continuous process of development and maturation that yields some 30 million spermatozoa each day through adult life."

The contraceptive strategies for the male cited by Fawcett include development of chemical agents that would stop sperm production indirectly by interfering with hormonal control of testicular function.

Other drugs to be investigated in humans would stop sperm production, prevent sperm maturation, or prevent sperm transport, frustrating efforts to ejaculate same.

The pill for women came in for some criticism by Dr. Elizabeth B. Connell, who reported on unresolved safety and effectiveness methods of contraception.

Connell, associate director for health sciences at the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, said:

"Only after several years . . . with extensive surveillance being maintained were there beginning nagging doubts as to the possibility of side effects related to the use of . . . oral contraceptives.

"WE FIRST BECAME aware of certain vascular problems, such as thrombo-phlebitis and pulmonary embolism.

"We more recently have become aware of other problems, all occurring in small numbers but nonetheless apparently related to the pill.

"These include benign liver tumors, myocardial infarction, ectopic pregnancy, and gall bladder disease.

"There still remains today great concern as to whether malignancies of the uterus and the breast might be produced by the pill. To date there is no proven cause and effect relationship.

"However, since it is well known that the development of a malignancy may take many years, this issue cannot be regarded as settled."

THE STUDY published today was directed by Dr. Roy O. Greep of the Harvard Medical School. It was launched two years ago when it became apparent reproductive research support was beginning to shrink.

The Rockefeller Foundation and the International Development Research Centre of Canada collaborated in the study.

The financial help needed for reproductive research must come mainly from governments and most of all from the United States, McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, said.

"Better understanding of the reproductive sciences is critical not only to fertility control and to countries in which there is a population crisis but also to domestic health care," he added.

"The massive reliance of Americans on the present generation of birth control agents gives us the most pressing and direct interest in learning how they can be improved.

"THEY EMBODY remarkable advances over what was available to Americans less than 20 years ago but as this study reminds us, they are not risk-free and they can have undesirable side effects."

More than 160 experts in 26 nations were consulted in the course of the study to evaluate reproductive research, to identify gaps in existing knowledge, to assess worldwide levels of funding.

The report said the reproductive sciences have been "historically tabooed and underfinanced" — although receiving a modicum of support in the last decade.

Research into reproductive matters is still accorded little priority, the study said, and due to this lack of funding "important research projects are not being carried out."

The authors argue that current contraceptive technology cannot be regarded as sufficient to meet the needs of either industrial or developing nations.

Places in home are sex-typed

People tend to stereotype space, says Gail Melson, a professor in the Purdue University Department of Child Development and Family Studies.

In a paper on the house as a sex-typed environment, she said sex roles are tied to particular places in the home, and this probably affects families' handling of conflicts. In studying 26 families and their use of space, especially during conflicts, she found women tended to retreat to the kitchen, and men to the garage or living room.

The professor said such defined territories may tend to drive people apart instead of bringing them together. (UPI).

Money saver

Individual disability income insurance costs less if the buyer selects a longer benefit waiting period, says the Health Insurance Institute. The benefit waiting period is the time the insured persons must wait until benefit payments start following an illness or injury. The longer the waiting time, the lower the cost of the policy. (UPI)

Next on the agenda

Beta Sigma Phi

Rho Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi meets at 8 tonight in the home of Mrs. Connie Costello, Schaumburg. There will be a welcome ritual for transferees Debbie Miller and Jan Shaw, both of Hanover Park. A gift exchange and Christmas carol singalong are also featured.

As a service project, Rho Alpha will supply refreshments and members will act as hostesses at Marklund Home open house Sunday in Bloomingdale. The chapter also decorated a tree at the home with candy and cookies for the children.

Fifth Wheelers

The Fifth Wheelers, an organization of formerly married men and women, will meet Sunday at 7:45 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, Algonquin and Wolf Roads, Des Plaines. Thelma Beard and Daisy Riemland, members of the group, will conduct a Christmas carol Sing-along.

Membership is open to widowed, divorced or legally separated persons. Information 724-7675.

Arlington AARP

The Christmas meeting for Arlington Heights Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons is Monday at 1 p.m. at St. John United Church of Christ, 308 N. Evergreen. This is a change in date from the regular meeting.

Forest View High School choral group will entertain, under direction of Jerry Swanson.

More couples sterilized

patients in much the same manner as the gynecologists, telling them the procedure is irreversible.

The vasectomy is then performed in an outpatient situation. A small incision is made in the scrotum and a portion of the vas is removed and tied. Complications like scrotal bleeding or infection occur in less than one per cent of the cases, he noted.

TWO NEW vasectomy developments include the use of clips on the vas instead of tying the tiny tube and the "very experimental" implantation of a valve in the vas so a person can turn the flow of sperm on or off, he said.

Micro surgery has also been experimented with to repair the vas and reverse the sterilization. Although most such operations fail, Dr. Norris successfully completed a reversal for a 25-year-old man who had divorced his first wife, remarried and subsequently desired children.

The doctors see men and women of all religions and ages seeking to be sterilized. And the Office of Population Research reports that 33.7 per cent of couples with a wife 30 to 40 years old now use sterilization as their method of birth control.

The one-time risk of sterilization appeals to couples who have become concerned with the cumulative risks of other methods, said Dr. Keith.

"After you have trouble with the coil and you're sick of the pill, then you go the sterilization route," agreed one sterilized woman.

Cancer Detection

A spirometry test which measures the vital capacity of the lungs can detect lung damage due to smoking, asthma, emphysema and other lung diseases. This test is offered by the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. in their Cancer Detection Examination.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. It is estimated that there will be 675,000 new cases of cancer in 1976 and that there will be 370,000 deaths resulting from cancer. (According to American Cancer Society publication "'76 Cancer Facts and Figures")

The best defense we have against cancer today is early detection and prompt treatment. A yearly Cancer detection examination is the first step that you should take. The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a thorough 2½ hour low cost Cancer Detection Screening examination including a computerized patient medical history, meticulous physical examination, proctoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine samples , pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination for women, tests for vision, hearing, spirometry, glaucoma, body measurements, percentage of body fat, etc. An analysis of your personal cancer risk factors and educational literature are also provided.

Give yourself the best protection available against cancer by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. today and make your appointment for a Cancer Detection Examination. The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. is located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Ill., (near Woodfield Mall). Telephone (312) 885-1360.

The Flavor of Holidays Past

An era of opulence found its way into the American dining halls of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. When a gentleman offered his arm to a lady and led her to dinner, they usually sat through at least a dozen courses which took well over three hours. At holiday times, meals were truly elaborate, consisting of three or four additional courses.

The cook spent days creating exquisite moulds, Madeira- and Port-laced sauces, savories, and spun sugar desserts. These rich dishes took on flamboyant names to make them seem even more splendid and countless combinations were named after opera stars, famous chefs, millionaires and sultans. When the meal finally drew to a close, the men would go off to inhale cigar smoke and imbibe old Port; the ladies sipped coffee or tea and ate tiny cakes.

For those who yearn for the flavor of bygone days, this holiday menu recreates yesterday's pomp with today's convenience. The meal can be served buffet style to save you the search for a butler or maid.

CHICKEN BRIGHTON

- 3 whole chicken breasts (about 2 pounds), split and skinned
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup
- ½ cup chopped canned tomatoes
- 1 jar (3½ ounces) cocktail onions (about ⅓ cup), drained
- 2 tablespoons Port or other sweet red wine
- ½ teaspoon rosemary leaves, crushed

In 2½-quart shallow baking dish (13 by 9 by 2 inches), arrange chicken. Combine remaining ingredients; pour over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until tender, brushing with sauce occasionally. Makes 6 servings.

GOLDEN NUGGET PORK ROAST

- ½ cup drained sauerkraut
- ½ cup drained crushed pineapple
- 4 pound pork loin
- ⅓ cup sliced onion
- 1 teaspoon caraway seed
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
- ½ cup water
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish mustard

Combine sauerkraut and pineapple. Make 8 slits almost to bone in pork loin. Place 2 tablespoons sauerkraut mixture in each slit; tie securely. In roasting pan, roast meat fat-side up at 325 degrees for 2 hours 30 minutes (30 to 40 minutes per pound or 170 degrees on meat thermometer). Remove meat from pan. Spoon off fat, saving drippings. On top of range, in roasting pan, cook onion with caraway in drippings until tender. Add soup, water and mustard. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Serve with roast. Makes 6 to 8 servings, about 2 cups gravy.

OPERA STAR MOULD

Aspic Layer:

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- ⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- ½ cup cooked whole kernel corn
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper

Avocado Layer:

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- 1 large avocado, mashed
- ½ cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

For aspic layer: In saucepan, sprinkle 1 envelope gelatin on ½ cup water to soften. Place over low heat, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat. Combine soup, lime juice and hot pepper sauce; stir in gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened; fold in corn and green pepper. Pour into 5-cup mold. Chill until slightly firm.

Meanwhile, for avocado layer: In saucepan, spinkle 1 envelope gelatin on ½ cup water to soften. Place over low heat, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat. Blend cheese, avocado, sour cream, lime juice and onion until smooth; gradually blend in gelatin mixture. Pour onto aspic layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

VEGETABLES ALI BABA

- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed chicken broth
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen broccoli spears
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas
- ½ cup thinly sliced carrots
- ½ cup diagonally sliced celery
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger

In skillet, combine ingredients. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover; simmer 10 minutes or until done. Stir occasionally. Makes about 6 cups, 6 to 8 servings.

SHRIMP SAVORIES

- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- ¼ cup sherry
- ¼ cup sliced green onions
- 9 slices rye or pumpernickel bread, cut in quarters
- 36 cucumber slices
- 1¼ pounds small shrimp (54), cooked, shelled, deveined and split
- 36 radish slices
- Crushed dill weed

In bowl, blend cheese, sherry and green onions. Spread bread with thin layer of cheese mixture; top each with a cucumber slice and additional cheese mixture. Arrange 3 shrimp halves and radish slice on each; sprinkle with dill. Makes 36 appetizers.

THE SULTAN'S TURBAN

- Shortening
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- ¼ cup packed light brown sugar
- ½ cup drained Mandarin orange segments
- ¼ cup white raisins
- 2 tablespoons currants
- 2 packages (about 17 ounces each) pound cake mix
- ½ cup chopped almonds
- Whipped cream

Lightly grease sides and tube of 10-inch tube pan* with shortening. Pour butter in bottom of pan; sprinkle brown sugar evenly over butter. Top with an arrangement of oranges, raisins and currants. Place both cake mixes in large mixing bowl; prepare as directed on packages. Fold in nuts. Pour evenly over fruit. Bake at 325 degrees for 85 to 90 minutes or until done. Run spatula around edge of pan. Immediately invert on serving plate. Leave pan over cake 5 minutes before removing. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

*Do not use tube pan with removable bottom.

Holiday house

Cardboard cuts cooking time but adds to the fun

You don't have to be a craftsman to build this cookie house. Since the base is a cardboard box, it's much simpler to make tha most cookie houses, and it won't put a big dent in your holiday budget.

You don't even have to make the cookie dough, since refrigerated slice and bake sugar cookies are used. Much of the decorative effect comes from the cookies themselves. Two rolls of refrigerated dough will make enough cookies to cover the whole house. Walls and roof are covered with butter cream frosting, your own or boxes of frosting mix.

You can construct the house in stages. The cookies should be completely cooled before you work with them, so you can make them a day ahead. If you do want to complete the house in one half-day session, start by baking the cookies, construct the cardboard base while they are cooling and then decorate the cookies and "build" your house.

Similar cookie houses have been kept from one year to the next, with just a little patching necessary the second year.

Holiday Cookie House

HOLIDAY COOKIE HOUSE

Materials Needed:

2 rolls refrigerated sugar slice and bake cookies
Red tinted sugar
3 (15.4 ounce) packages vanilla frosting mix or 6 to 8 cups homemade butter cream frosting
Pressurized cake and cookie decorators (red and green) or decorating cone or pastry tube and tips and tinted frosting
Cardboard box with top flaps (approximately 9 by 12 by 9 inches)
Heavy cardboard for roof (approximately 14 by 15 inches)
Masking tape

For Roof Shingles: Slice one roll of the cookie dough into 50 slices (less than ¼-inch thick); sprinkle each with red sugar. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes until light golden brown around edge. (Do not overbake.) Cool on rack.

For Wall Bricks: Slice 28 ¼-inch slices from second roll of cookie dough. (Refrigerate rest of dough.) Cut each slice in half. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes until light brown around edges. (Do not overbake.) Cool on rack.

FOR FRONT OF House Decorations: Slice remaining cookie dough into ¼-inch slices. Santa: Use two slices. Cut narrow strip from two sides of one slice, forming a triangle. Place triangle over one edge of whole slice for Santa's hat. Use two narrow strips for moustache. Add chocolate chip eyes and candy mouth. Bake and cool on rack. Frost hat and moustache with vanilla frosting, using a decorator tip, if desired. Sprinkle hat with red sugar.

Angel: Use one and a quarter slice. Cut narrow strip from two sides of full slice to form triangular body. Place cut-off strips at sides for wings. Roll ¼ slice into ball for head. Place at top of triangle and add candy eyes. Bake and cool on rack. Outline body and wings with decorator writing tip.

To make the house, cut the two longer flaps from box (reserve one for the chimney and the other for reinforcing.) Shape shorter laps into triangles, cutting from top center of flap to corners of box, to form peak at front and back of house. Reinforce triangles on the inside by taping cardboard over the flap fold. Fold 14 by 15 inch piece of cardboard in half to form roof. Tape securely to house. From reserved flap, form and tape chimney, cutting bottom at same angle as roof. Tape to roof.

TO DECORATE the house, Prepare vanilla frosting according to package directions. (Keep frosting covered as you work.) Spread frosting over sides of chimney. With red cake and cookie decorator, pipe on lines of frosting, using small writing tip, to resemble bricks. Spoon vanilla frosting around top of chimney to resemble snow.

Speread a thick layer of vanilla frosting over sides and back of house. Press oookie "bricks" securely into frosting.

Spread vanilla frosting over roof. Starting at the bottom, arrange a row of red sugared cookie "shingles." Overlap remaining shingles in rows to cover rool. (Carefully press cookies into frosting to secure.)

Spread frosting over front of house. With leaf tip and green cake and cookie decorator, make door and shrubs. With small writing tip make window. Arrange decorated cookies on front. Press into frosting to secure.

Spoon remaining vanilla frosting on peak and around edge of roof to resemble snow. (If frosting becomes too stiff add a few drops of warm water.)

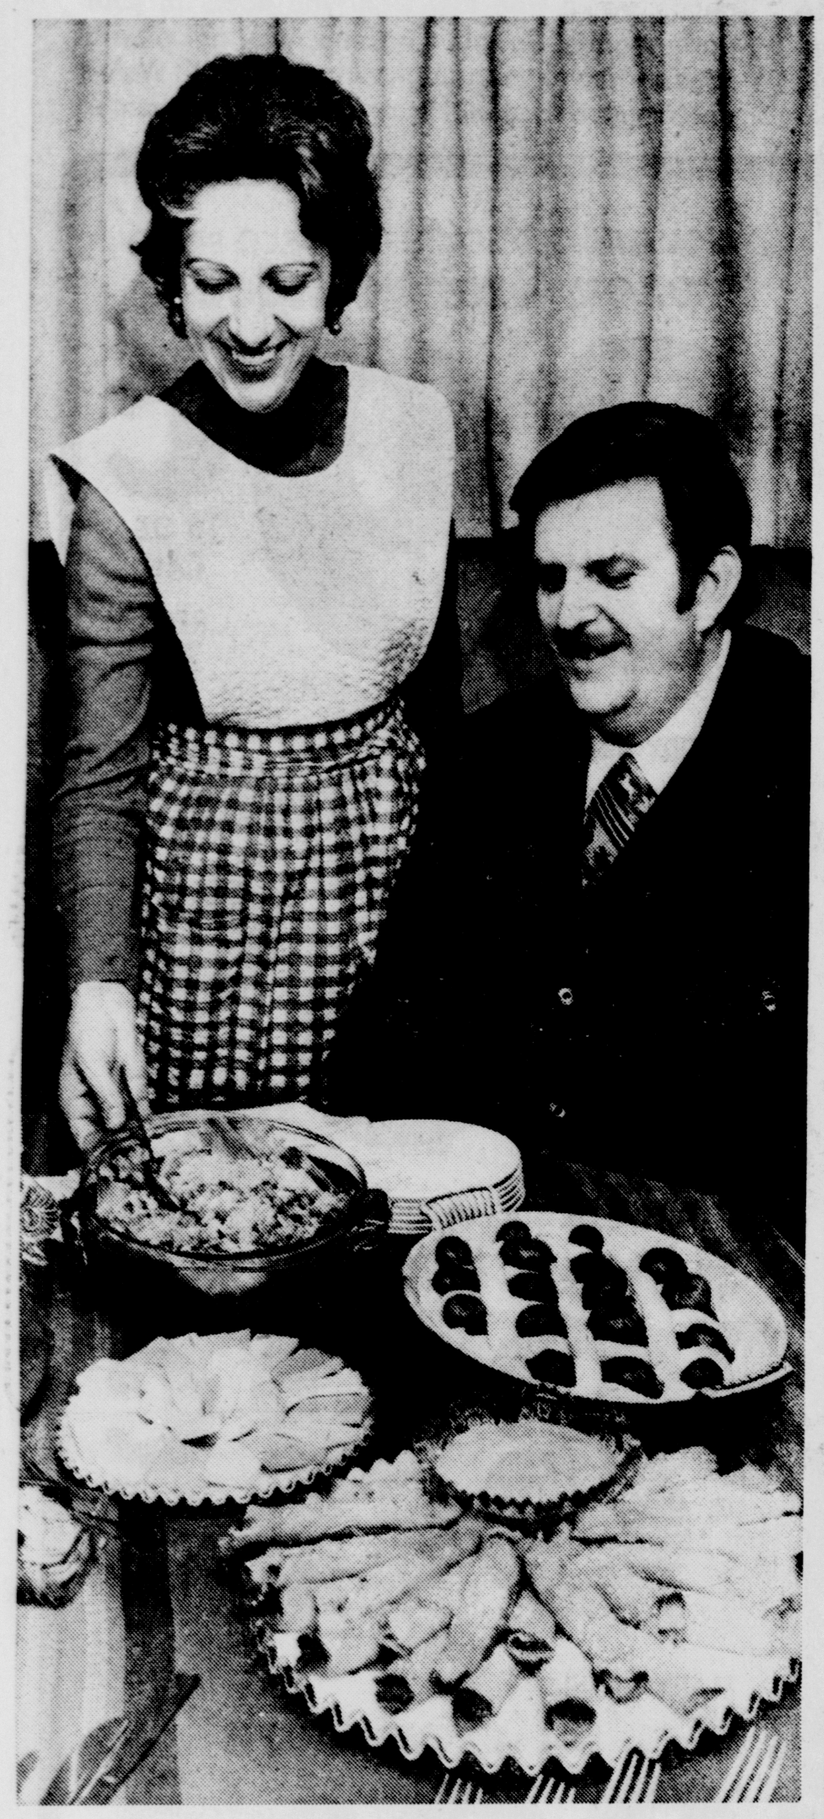
Holiday hospitality

Couple hosts Scandinavian feast

by LOIS SEILER

As newlyweds in 1958, Glenn and Dorothy Erickson, Palatine, invited friends for some Christmas cheer. From that casual beginning a tradition developed first into an open house and then into a huge Scandinavian smorgasbord.

Glenn's Scandinavian background and his cooking skills are a real plus in the kitchen, since it takes two to prepare the elaborate array of dishes for this event.



The Ericksons' God Jul Smorgasbord starts with champagne punch and an assortment of appetizers: a liver paste, ginger sausage, hot chicken balls, sardines broiled with bacon, assorted breads (including limpa) and crackers.

NEXT COMES the Koldt Bord (cold board), which features tomato aspic, pickled herring, stuffed eggs, chicken liver balls, cucumbers with dill, fish salad, cabbage salad, liverwurst sausages and assorted cheeses.

Dorothy always prepares the fish salad, a unique combination of cold, cooked halibut and peas mixed with a Hollandaise-type dressing. It is served chilled in a lettuce-lined bowl garnished with parsley and lemon slices.

Either Dorothy or Glenn makes the cucumbers with dill, which is a simple sweet-sour cucumber recipe enhanced by the nippy flavor of dill weed. Both dishes are popular with guests and retain their place on the menu, which the Ericksons vary from year to year.

SOME OF THE items are removed from the Koldt Bord to make room for the Hot Bord, which features tempting meat pies, chicken, potato sausage, meat balls, potato and anchovy balls, red cabbage with apples, brown beans and assorted relishes.

Glenn prepares the Kottpudding (meat pies), a hearty dish that incorporates smoked ham with beef and mushrooms in a sherry-cognac flavored gravy. The mixture is baked in a casserole covered with a pastry crust.

Canned red cabbage doctored up with green onion, apples and spices makes a tasty, easy vegetable dish.

To complete this abundant feast, the sweet bord is presented: wine soup, thousand-leaf torte, court pancakes, assorted cookies and cakes and candied walnuts, accompanied by coffee, tea and sherry.

"SPECTACULAR yet easy to make" is the way Dorothy describes the court pancakes, which resemble French crepes. Both the pancakes and the orange-flavored filling can be made ahead. The Ericksons assemble them just before they are popped under the broiler and served.

Dorothy and Glenn work together on parties other times of the year, and their son, Brad, shares his parents' culinary talents, having won two 4-H grand championships for cooking.

The Ericksons also share an interest in education: Glenn is principal of Bond School in River Trails Dist. 26, and Dorothy is a substitute teacher for Dist. 15 and tutors math.

Glenn teaches graduate classes and is an officer of Randhurst PTA Council. Dorothy belongs to United Methodist Women at the Palatine First United Methodist Church, is an election judge and in her spare time enjoys handiwork.

SCANDINAVIAN RECIPES gathered from cookbooks, magazines and newspapers were changed to suit the American tastes of Dorothy and Glenn Erickson, Palatine. Each year before Christmas they prepare a large smorgasbord for their friends as a way of displaying and sharing some Christmas cheer and good tidings.

GOOD ONLY IN CHICAGO DIVISION PARTICIPATING A&P FOOD STORES

RULES FOR PLAYING GAMERAMA SERIES # 44

1. Get a FREE Gamerama Master Card on request at the end of the checkout or at store office. Get one FREE Game Ticket every time you visit a participating A&P store. No purchase necessary to participate. Adults only eligible to play.

2. On each Game Ticket there are four Gamerama Markers. To reveal the Markers, simply punch out the perforated portions of the Game Ticket, then separate the punched out portions and you will have four Markers. Each Marker corresponds to a square in one of the Games on your Master Game Card.

3. When you have revealed the Gamerama Markers carefully place them in their appropriate squares on your Master Game Card. EXAMPLE: If one of your Game Markers is an Ace of Clubs in the $1,000.00 Game, insert that Marker in the square numbered Ace of Clubs in the $1,000.00 Game. When you complete any row in a game, you may have a winner. In some games, you will find squares marked FREE and it is unnecessary to collect a Marker to be placed in such FREE squares. FREE squares are not transferable. Only one winner per card.

4. When you have a winning card which has been verified by authorized personnel, you will, after furnishing your name and address, be awarded your prize. A Federal Trade Commission rule requires that the names and addresses of all winners be posted in all participating stores. When turning in your winning card all your Gamerama Markers which are not part of the winning row may be removed and transferred to a new card. Only one prize will be awarded per game on any one Master Game Card. All Gamerama Markers in a winning row must be initialled on the back by the customer in the presence of authorized personnel. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.

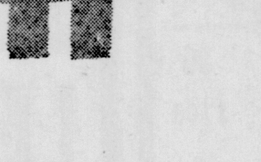
5. All game materials will be rejected and judged void if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of any of the game pieces is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Game material void where taxed or prohibited by law.

6. Game will end upon distribution of all Game Tickets. All prizes must be claimed within five (5) days after announcement of termination or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such time as the verified claims for prizes in any category equals the number of prizes advertised for that category, then the game as it relates to that specific prize category shall immediately terminate without notice, and any unverified claims at or after that time shall be automatically rejected.

7. Game materials valid only for this game. All game Tickets, Gamerama Markers and Game Cards must have the same series number. EXAMPLE: If you have Master Game Card Series No. 44 all of your game pieces must have Series No. 44.

8. Employees (and their I.R.S. listed dependents) of the Alantic &Pacific Tea Co., Inc., participating A&P stores, Dansico Associates, their advertising agency and any other companies engaged in the development and production of these game materials are not eligible to win.

9. Gamerama Marker void if it does not have on it:
(a) Gamerama spelled out.
(b) Series 44
(c) Value of game
(d) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol
(e) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol spelled out
(f) Safety Pattern Background



GAMERAMA MARKER VOID IF ABOVE SIX (6) ITEMS ARE NOT CLEARLY VISIBLE.

10. Gamerama Series No. 44 Marker must conform in size, shape and detail to the example illustrated above, and must contain the six (6) items of authentication described in Rule No. 9.

Scandinavian smorgasbord a holiday ritual

1 pound cooked, flaked halibut
1 cup small canned peas
3 tablespoons butter
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon vinegar

Pour 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon oil over the fish and marinate in refrigerator at least one hour. Add a few drops lemon juice and oil to lightly coat the peas and chill them.

Melt butter in a small saucepan and cool slightly. Add egg yolks and stir constantly. Add mustard, salt, pepper, 3 tablespoons oil and vinegar. Cook over low heat, stirring, until sauce thickens. Remove from heat; stir until cool.

Carefully combine cooled dressing, chilled fish and peas. Place in lettuce-lined bowl to serve. Garnish with parsley and lemon slices. Serves 6.

CUCUMBERS WITH DILL

2 medium cucumbers, peeled and sliced thin
2 tablespoons dill weed
½ cup white vinegar
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons water

Combine vinegar, sugar, seasonings and water and bring to a boil. Set aside to cool. Mix cooled vinegar mixture with cucumbers and dill. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours.

RED CABBAGE WITH APPLES

2 tab,espoons oil
1 or 2 diced green onions
1 jar red cabbage
1 McIntosh or other tart apple, cored and diced
5 whole cloves
1/3 teaspoon ground allspice
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar

Saute onion in oil. Add cabbage, apple and spices and simmer, covered, one hour, stirring occasionally. Just before serving, add butter and wine vinegar.

MEAT PIE

1 pound smoked ham
1½ pounds round steak or other beef
18 large mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
Pepper to taste
½ cup bouillon or stock
¼ cup sherry
½ cup cognac
Pie pastry to cover casserole

Cut meats into small pieces. Rinse the mushrooms; cut off stems, leave caps whole and chop the stems.

Cook the ham in a heavy frying pan, then remove it to a deep, buttered 1½-quart casserole.

Cook the beef in the ham fat until brown and tender. Place in casserole with the ham. Cook mushroom caps in butter in same frying pan until cooked through and browned on both sides. Place over the meat in casserole.

Cook the chopped stems in frying pan; sprinkle with flour and pepper, stir, add bouillon and simmer a few minutes. Add sherry and cognac. Pour into casserole over mushrooms and meats. Cover dish with pie pastry. Crimp pastry edge and cut steam vents in top or make a lattice pie topping. Brown in hot oven, 450 degrees, until golden, 10 to 18 minutes. Serves 8 or more.

This can be made ahead and reheated in slow oven to serving temperature.

COURT PANCAKES

1 cup cold water
1 cup cold milk
4 eggs
2 cups all-purpose flour
4 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cognac

Blend all ingredients in blender one minute. Refrigerate 2 to 4 hours. Use a coated pan or iron skillet, 6 to 7-inch size. If iron skilled is used, butter pan lightly every second or third pancake.

Measure 1/8-cup batter for each pancake. Cook until sheen is gone and edges of pancake begin to brown and curl up. Flip and brown other side. Makes about 40 small pancakes. If batter begins to get runny, place in refrigerator for a while to chill.

The pancakes can be made ahead; place between layers of paper towel in refrigerator to store.

Filling:

3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
grated rind and juice from 1 orange ½ cup butter

Beat yolks and sugar together in top of double boiler. Add grated orange peel and juice. Add small dabs of butter until all is used. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. The filling can also be made ahead.

Assemble by putting one tablespoon of filling on each pancake. Roll and place on jelly roll pan or similar pan. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and set under low broiler heat to lightly brown the top. Serve immediately.

Holiday Beef Paprika

Beef dish eases Yule expenses

Beef prices are becoming more reasonable, which adds another cheery note to the holiday season. Taking a note from those who migrated to the United States from the Middle European countries, serve a special holiday beef paprika, rich in special gravy.

This requires slow cooking and is an excellent way to stretch the family budget during the weeks of gift-giving and entertaining. Serve with noodles or rice and a fresh fruit salad.

HOLIDAY BEEF PAPRIKA

1½ pounds beef eye of round
2 tablespoons oil
1½ cups chopped onion
1 medium clove garlic, minced
2 teaspoons paprika (fresh if available)
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups beef broth
¼ cup catsup
1 bay leaf
1 cup dairy sour cream.

Cut beef into 4 equal slices. Brown in 1 tablespoon oil in 10-inch skillet over high heat. Stack slices of beef on one side of pan. Add onion, garlic and remaining tablespoon oil to pan. Cook, stirring 3 minutes. Add paprika and cook 1 minute longer. Mix in salt, pepper, broth, catsup and bay leaf. Spread beef in single layer. Cover and heat to boiling. Simmer 1½ hours or until beef is tender. Remove beef from pan and keep it warm. Rapidly boil sauce in skillet over high heat until it is reduced to about 1 cup. Mix in sour cream. Heat briefly but do not boil. Pour over beef. Makes 4 servings.

Peppermint adds crunch to cookies

Peppermint Snaps appeal to people of all ages. Crushed peppermint candy in the cookies and peppermint extract in the glaze are cooling to the tongue; the "snap" comes from crunchy candy bits.

PEPPERMINT SNAPS

Cookies:
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup crushed peppermint candy
Glaze:
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
1/8 teaspoon peppermint extract
1 drop red food coloring

For cookies, beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg. Add combined dry ingredients; mix well. Stir in oats and peppermint candy. Shape dough to form 1½-inch balls. Place about 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet; flatten with tines of fork. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 1 minute before removing from cookie sheet.

For glaze, combine all ingredients; mix well. Drizzle over cooled cookies. Makes about 2½ dozen cookies.

Big grind

If pepper won't shake freely from old-fashioned pepper shakers, blame changing public tastes. The American Spice Trade Association says consumers now prefer more coarsely ground pepper than was used before World War II. Even normal grind today isn't as fine as it was 30 years or more ago. Two other popular grinds are coarse and cracked black pepper, also called butcher's grind.

Color Christmas with cranberries

Crimson colorful cranberries are no longer locked into their companion role as mold or relish to be served with holiday turkey and chicken.

These native berries spice up dips for hot or cold hors d'oeuvres, add special flavor to cakes and make the base for a rich, creamy "float" drink. They are especially attractive, in a homemade centerpiece as a green-and-red Christmas tree cake.

CRANBERRY CHRISTMAS TREE CAKE

- 1 package (18½ ounces) yellow cake mix
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 4 eggs
- ½ cup salad oil
- 1 cup water
- Grated rind of 1 orange or 1 tablespoon bottled grated orange rind
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 1 tablespoon rum or brandy flavoring
- ½ cup cranberry-orange relish or ½ cup finely chopped fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 can (16½ ounces) vanilla frosting
- 1 can (3½ ounces) coconut
- Green food coloring
- Additional fresh cranberries for decoration.

Cranberry Christmas Tree Cake

In a bowl, mix cake mix, flour, eggs, oil, water and orange rind until smooth and well blended. Stir in nuts, flavoring and cranberries. Pour mixture into a greased and floured 1½ quart cone-shaped mold. Fill mold to within 1 inch of the top. Some of the batter will remain and this may be baked in muffin pan cups for cupcakes. Bake cake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour or until cake feels firm to the touch in the center. Bake cupcakes 25 to 30 minutes. Cool cake in pan 5 minutes, then unmold onto a cake rack. Cool thoroughly. Place cake on serving platter and spread entire cake with frosting. Place coconut into a bowl and add 4 drops of green food coloring. Rub the coconut and coloring with finger tip until all coconut is colored green. Press coconut into frosting all over cake.

Decorate cake with cranberries. Garnish the bottom of cake with springs of fern; if desired. To candy the fresh cranberries, simply dip them into a mixture of sugar and egg whites. Then allow to dry at room temperature. They'll have a frosty look. Makes one cone-shaped cake.

SPICY BERRY DIP

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 onion, minced
- 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
- 1 cup chopped chutney
- 1 cup chili sauce

In a 1½ quart saucepan, melt butter and cook onion until golden. Stir in remaining ingredients and simmer until hot and bubbly. Place over a warmer and spear meatballs, miniature frankfurters, shrimp, ham cubes, or crab meat chunks on fondue forks. Dip into hot mixture. Makes four cups.

CREAMY CRANBERRY FLOAT

- 2 cups cranberry apple juice, chilled
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened
- 2 cups orange yogurt (or 2 eight-ounce containers of yogurt)
- Crushed ice
- Orange peel twist

In a bowl, blend cranberry juice, ice cream and yogurt. With a rotary beater beat until smooth and well blended. Pour into 6 glasses each containing some crushed ice. Garnish each with an orange peel twist. To serve a large crowd, double or triple quantities for a punch bowl. Makes six servings.

Wheat germ livens holiday treats

WHEAT GERM CRADLE CAKE

- 4 Eggs, separated
- ¼ teaspoon creamof tartar
- 1¾ cups sugar
- 1½ cups vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)
- 3 (1-ounce) squares unsweetened chocolate, grated
- ½ cup butter, softened
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 1 cup milk
- 1¾ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup pitted dates, diced
- ½ cup coarsely chopped pecans

Butter 10-inch tube pan and line bottom with waxed paper. whip egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually add 1 cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in 1 cup wheat germ and chocolate. Spread mixture evenly on bottom and 2½ inches up sides of prepared pan. Beat butter with remaining ¾ cup sugar and vanilla until fluffy. Beat in egg yolks and milk. Mix flour with baking powder, salt and remaining ½ cup wheat germ. Stir into batter. Fold in dates and pecans. Spoon batter carefully into meringue lined pan. Bake in 325 degree oven 1 hour or until pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan 15 minutes. Loosen cake from sides and center tube. Invert onto rack to finish cooling. Makes 1 cake.

WHEAT GERM CRANBERRY WREATHS

- 1-1/2 cups milk
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1/3 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat wheat germ*
- About 2½ to 3 cups all purpose flour
- Cranberry Filling
- Egg Wash
- 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
- * regular or sugar & honey

Heat milk to about 110 degrees, or until warm to touch. Add yeast, brown sugar and salt. Stir to dissolve. Mix in eggs, butter, whole wheat flour and all but 1 tablespoon wheat germ. Add enough all purpose flour to make a soft dough that leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto floured surface. Knead 5 to 10 minutes or until dough is elastic, adding flour as needed to prevent sticking. Place dough in greased bowl, turning to coat. Cover. Let rise in warm, draft-free place about 1 hour or until doubled. Punch down and divide in half. Turn dough onto floured surface. Roll each piece to 14 by 8-inch rectangle and cut in half lengthwise. Spoon Cranberry Filling in lengthwise center strip on the four rectangles. Fold dough over cranberries sealing tightly. For each wreath, twist two ropes together and form into wreath on greased baking sheet. Seal ends neatly. Brush with Egg Wash. Sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon wheat germ and granulated sugar. Let rise uncovered in warm place about 45 minutes or until doubled. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 to 35 minutes or until golden. Cover with foil last 5 minutes if crust browns too quickly. Makes 2 wreaths.

CRANBERRY FILLING: Combine 2 cups fresh or frozen cranberries (8 ounces) with 1 tablespoon cornstarch and 1/3 cup water. Heat to boiling, stirring often. Mix in ½ cup brown sugar (packed). Return to boil. Simmer 5 minutes, uncovered, stirring often until berries are soft and broken.

EGG WASH: Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon water.

WHEAT GERM Pfeffernusse (Pepper Nuts)

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 3 eggs
- 1 tablespoon instant coffee
- 2 tablespoons boiling water
- 2-1/2 cups flour
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ*
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
- 1-1/2 Teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- Powdered sugar
- * regular or sugar & honey

Beat together butter and brown sugar until fluffy. Beat in 2 eggs and 1 egg yolk (save white for icing). Stir in coffee dissolved in boiling water. Combine flour with wheat germ, baking powder, salt, pepper, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg. Blend into wet mixture. Form into 1-inch balls. Place on lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in 300 degree oven 18 to 20 minutes until firm. Remove from baking sheets. Combine egg white and ½ cup powdered sugar, beating until smooth. Brush on warm cookies. Roll in powdered sugar before icing dries. Makes 4 dozen cookies.
